Members to remain in their seat. Rule 2, Sec. 3g.
No one to be seated beside member during Final Reading. Rule 2, Sec. 3d.

Sec. 9. Question on Final Reading. The question after the Final Reading of bill shall be: "All provisions of law relative to procedure having been complied with, the question is, 'Shall the bill pass?'" If the emergency clause is contained in the bill, the words "with the emergency clause attached" shall be added to the question.

Majority of elected members required. Const. Art. III, Sec. 13.

Sec. 10. Emergency Clause, Votes Requested. When a bill containing the emergency clause does not receive the required two-thirds constitutional majority on Final Reading, then the emergency clause shall be considered stricken, and the bill without the emergency clause shall be pending on Final Reading, and the question then shall be, "Shall the bill pass with the emergency clause stricken?"

Const. Art. III, Sec. 27.

Sec. 11. Governor's Veto. Further Legislative Action. Upon the day of receipt of a message from the Governor announcing his or her veto of a bill, or on any of the next five legislative days in the same annual session, any member may move that the bill so vetoed be taken up for passage in the form presented to the Governor. Whereupon, the question shall be, "Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objection of the Governor?" No bill vetoed by the Governor shall be taken up by the legislature for any purpose other than passage of the bill notwithstanding the objection of the Governor or for override of a line-item veto.

Three-fifths vote of the elected members required to pass bill over Governor's veto. Const. Art. IV, Sec. 15. See also Art. IV, Sec. 7.

The Governor may disapprove any item or items of appropriation contained in bills passed by the Legislature, and the item or items so disapproved shall be stricken therefrom, unless repassed in the manner prescribed in case of disapproval of bills.

Const. Art. IV, Sec. 15.

Sec. 12. Bills, Passed Over Veto. Should the Legislature pass a bill over the objections of the Governor by the necessary constitutional majority, it shall so certify and deposit the same with the Secretary of State.

RRS 84-503.

Sec. 13. Certificates. Whenever the Legislature shall override a line item veto, on any bill as provided for in Article 10, Section 15, the Clerk of the Legislature shall cause to be placed on such bill a certificate in content and form as provided for in RRS 84-503 and shall list the items so overriden by section, page, and line.

In addition to such certificate the Clerk of the Legislature shall note on each line, when the legislature votes to override, a stamp reading ''line item veto overriden'' and place thereon the date and his initials.

Sec. 14. (a) Whenever the Governor shall have vetoed more than one item in an appropriation bill, the Appropriations Committee shall review said veto and the chairman of the Appropriations Committee shall report within one legislative day to the Legislature on it's fiscal implications, and affect on operations. If the Appropriations Committee by majority vote decides to recommend to the Legislature an override of the veto on any portion of such an appropriation bill, the chairman of the Appropriations Committee or his/her designee shall first be permitted an opportunity to move that the entire bill become law notwithstanding the line item veto therein.

(b) If such motion fails or is not offered the chairman of the Appropriations Committee or his/her designee shall then introduce motions to override selected portions of the vetoed bill.

(c) Any member of the Legislature may then offer a motion to override the veto of the bill or any portion thereof if the Appropriations Committee by majority action decides not to recommend overriding the veto of the bill or the veto of that portion of the bill.

(d) It shall require 30 votes of the elected members to amend a veto override motion that includes another line item veto.

Sec. 15. When a proposed constitutional amendment does not receive the required four-fifths constitutional majority necessary to submit such proposed amendment to the electors at a special election, then the special election language of the bill shall be stricken, and the bill shall be pending on Final Reading, and the question shall be, ''Shall the bill pass providing for the submission of such proposition at the next general election?'."

The following votes shall be required to adopt the following motions on Final Reading:

RULE 7—PROCEEDINGS AND MOTIONS

(A) Order of Business

Section 1. Meeting Time, Restrictions. (a) The Legislature shall meet annually at 10:00 a.m. on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January of each year and thereafter on each legislative day at 9:00 a.m., and adjourn not later than 1:00 p.m., unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote of its members present and voting thereon. The Legislature shall in odd-numbered years, after the period allowed for the introduction of bills, recess for one week. During such recess committees shall prepare, for public distribution, a calendar of hearing dates. No committee hearings shall be held during the recess provided for in this section. The Legislature shall remain in session until it shall adjourn sine die, but in no event shall it remain in session for longer than ninety (90) legislative days in odd-numbered years or sixty (60) legislative days in even-numbered years. This limitation may be suspended by a four-fifths vote of the elected senators.

Const. Art. III, Sec. 10.

Each day the Legislature convenes shall be considered a legislative day.

(b) The order of business of the Legislature shall be as follows; except as otherwise provided by the Speaker.

a. Prayer by the Chaplain
b. Roll call
c. Call for correction of the Journal
d. Petitions and memorials
e. Notice of committee hearings and reports
f. Bills on Final Reading
g. Resolutions
h. Introduction of bills and reading by title
i. Consideration of bills on Select File
j. Motions to reconsider
k. Motions to advance bills from committee
l. Other pending motions
m. Unfinished business, including messages on President's desk
n. Consideration of bills on General File
o. Miscellaneous business

(c) Messages from the Governor may be received at any stage of the proceedings.

(d) When a bill shall have been made a special order for a definite time and an adjournment shall intervene for a time beyond the time fixed for such special order, then in that event the bill so made a special order shall be placed in its order on General File. The unfinished business in which the Legislature was engaged at the adjournment of the last preceding sitting shall have preference in the special order of the day.

(e) Upon call for the introduction of bills, any member or any standing committee to which bills are referred for consideration may introduce one or more bills.

Introduction of bills. Rule 6, Sec. 1.

(B) Voting Machine

Sec. 2. Voting, Electric Roll Call. (a) All votes shall be taken viva voca unless otherwise provided for herein. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "Those who are in favor of the question say 'aye'; those who are opposed to the question say 'nay'."

(b) If a machine vote is called for or if the presiding officer is in doubt, he shall cause the result to be obtained by means of the electric roll call system, and in such event shall accept only machine tallied votes except that voice votes shall be accepted on a motion before the House while the House is under Call. The presiding officer may vote by voice. Only the totals shall be printed in the Journal. Once having voted aye or nay, senators may call in a change to not voting prior to the locking of the voting board.

(c) Upon the final passage of a bill, or of a resolution if the same required the same consideration as a bill, the vote shall be by yeas and nays, and the electric roll call system shall be used. Voice votes shall be accepted on Final Reading.

(d) Whenever the "ayes" and "nays" are taken by machine vote no member shall be permitted to vote after the decision is announced by the presiding officer or the Clerk. Votes not registered on the electric roll call system shall not be counted for or against a proposition. In announcing such vote the Clerk shall announce the ayes, the nays, those present and not voting, those absent and not voting, and those excused and not voting, and on any action to advance or amend bills, these totals shall be set forth in the Journal. Voice votes shall be accepted on roll call or record votes.

(C) Motions

Sec. 3. Motion, in Writing, Withdrawal. (a) A motion shall be either stated by the presiding officer or read by the Clerk before a vote is taken. All motions shall be submitted in writing if requested by the presiding officer or any senator.

Once motions are stated they may be withdrawn or modified by the mover before a decision, amendment, or ordering of a vote has been made. A motion to reconsider may be withdrawn only with unanimous consent or a majority vote of the elected members.

When a question is under debate no motion shall be considered except one of the following, which motions shall take precedence in the order stated.

a. To adjourn
b. For the previous question
c. To postpone to a time certain
d. To recommit to a committee
e. To amend
f. To postpone indefinitely

Such motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, except that motions to postpone indefinitely and amend do not yield to each other.

When any of the following motions shall be made, any action on such motion shall be delayed at least one legislative day and the motion shall be printed in the Legislative Journal:

a. Motion to postpone indefinitely on Select File
b. Motion to advance bills from committee
c. Motion to place bills on General File, notwithstanding the action of a standing committee

(b) When a motion or other proposition is under consideration, a motion to amend and a motion to amend that amendment shall be in order.

(c) Amendments to the title shall be made by the Enrollment and Review Committee.

(d) No motion, proposition, or subject, different from that under consideration, shall be admitted under color of amendment.

(e) Any member may call for the division of a question, which shall be divided if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Legislature. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost, shall not preclude an amendment or a motion to strike out or insert.

(f) When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a select committee and to a standing committee, the question on reference to the standing committee shall be considered first.

Sec. 4. Shall the Debate Cease. The previous question shall be in this form, "Shall the debate now close?"

The previous question shall be made only in the normal course of speaking order and shall be in order when demanded by five or more members, and must be sustained by the vote of a majority of the elected members, and until decided shall, except as provided in this section of this rule, preclude further debate and all amendments and motions, except one motion to adjourn. The presiding officer may rule the previous question out of order if in the presiding officer's opinion a full and fair debate has not been afforded, due to the complexity of the subject matter. The ruling of the presiding officer shall be subject to overrule in accordance with Rule 1, Sec. 12 of these Rules.

On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for a previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

When the previous question shall have been ordered on a proposition under debate, the mover, proponent, or introducer of such proposition shall be given the right to close the debate thereon.

Sec. 5. Call of the Legislature. A Call of the Legislature may be made by any member in the manner following: "I move for a Call of the Legislature." The presiding officer shall direct that the board be cleared and the members shall then vote on placing themselves under Call. If a majority of the senators present and voting vote in favor of such a motion then the Legislature shall be deemed to be under Call. Each member present shall indicate his presence upon the electric roll call system and shall remain in his seat during the Call. After the Clerk shall note the names of the absentees, proceedings under the Call may be suspended at any time by a majority vote of the members then present, and when so suspended shall not again be ordered on the proposition pending, except by a majority vote of the members elected. If all absentees were to vote on one side of the question, and if their combined vote would be insufficient to change the result of the vote, the President shall declare the Call raised.

Lieutenant Governor votes only when Legislature equally divided. Rule 1, Sec. 14.
Voice vote while House under Call. Rule 7, Sec. 2b.

Sec. 6. Postpone to Time Certain. No motion to postpone to a time certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely being decided, shall again be allowed on the same day at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

Sec. 7. Reconsideration. (a) When a question has been decided, it shall be in order for any member voting with the prevailing side, or not voting, to move for a reconsideration thereof. A motion to reconsider must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on the next legislative day, except when it be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading. In such case, it must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on one of the next three legislative days. A motion to reconsider must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after making the same or it shall be deemed defeated. If the Legislature shall refuse to reconsider, or upon reconsideration shall affirm its first decision, no further motion to reconsider shall be in order unless by unanimous consent.

Motion to reconsider cannot be withdrawn without leave. Rule 7, Sec. 3.

(b) Every motion to reconsider shall take preference over all other questions, except a motion to adjourn.

(c) For its adoption, a motion to reconsider shall require the vote of a majority of the elected members, except:

- i Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading, then a three-fifths vote shall be required for adoption.
- ii Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading with the emergency clause attached, but which received the constitutional majority with the emergency clause stricken and the purpose of the motion is to again add the emergency clause, then a two-thirds vote of the elected members shall be required for adoption.

Sec. 8. Strike the Enacting Clause. A motion to strike the enacting clause if adopted, is equivalent to rejection of the bill. It shall not have precedence over a motion to amend nor a motion to indefinitely postpone.

Sec. 9. Motion to Adjourn. A motion to adjourn shall be in order, except:

- a. While a member is speaking.
- b. When a motion to adjourn has just been defeated.
- c. After the Final Reading of a bill and during roll call thereon.

A motion to adjourn to a time certain shall have precedence over a motion to adjourn. A motion to recess shall take precedence over either of such motions.

When a motion to adjourn has been made, the Speaker shall be privileged to speak to the motion prior to any vote on such motion, otherwise a motion to adjourn is not debatable.

RESIGNATION

The Honorable Charles Thone
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, NE 68509

Dear Governor Thone:

Since you and the other Governors of the Old West Region appointed me as director, European Office, of that Commission, I am submitting to you with some regret my resignation as State Senator, District 16, effective 10:00 a.m., December 31, 1980.

I was glad to serve the people of my district and all Nebraskans for the last six years and believe that I have made some contributions to their general welfare. I also enjoyed the good working relationship we had in the last two years.

Since we have both been committed for several years to increase exports of our agricultural and manufactured products for the benefit of all Nebraskans, I am certain that our close cooperation towards that goal will continue in the coming years.

Sincerely,
(Signed) Walter George
State Senator

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

January 7, 1981

The Honorable President, Speaker and Members of the Nebraska Legislature:

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to this First Session of the Eighty-Seventh Legislature. As I will be delivering my Budget Address and State of the State Message in the near future and knowing of the many demands on your time, I have chosen not to appear today.

As we start anew to discuss, debate and decide the many important issues that face us, let me pledge my cooperation and encourage the open and honest exchange of views that has been the hallmark of the Nebraska Legislature for many years.

During the upcoming months there will be many occasions where we will agree and some where we will disagree. However, let us go forth with the common goal of a government deserving of the support of the citizens of our great state.

With kind personal regards,

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Beutler asked unanimous consent to print the following proposed rule changes in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AMENDMENT TO RULE 2. SECTION 2
SUSPENSION OF RULES

Sec. 2. These rules may only be suspended by a ~~three-fifths~~ two-thirds majority of the elected members by a machine vote, and may be amended by a three-fifths majority vote of the members elected; Provided, any proposed amendment must first be referred to the Committee on Rules for consideration and report.

PROPOSED RULE CHANGE, RULE 3 SECTION 19

Sec. 19. SUBPOENA PROCEDURE.

(a) It is within the inherent power of any legislative committee to gather information pursuant to its regular functions, and to conduct investigations of matters within its subject-matter jurisdiction.

(b) A committee's power of subpoena should not be exercised unless the committee has determined that no other method of securing the desired information would be successful or practicable, and that the matter is of primary importance to the welfare of the State of Nebraska.

(c) A committee of the Legislature conducting an investigation and gathering information, whether pursuant to Legislative direction or pursuant to its regular functions of oversight and bill preparation, shall observe the following procedures in addition to regular committee procedures whenever subpoenas are issued:

1. Issuance of Subpoenas

(i) A committee may by majority vote of all of its members, taken at a meeting properly called, issue a subpoena requiring a person to appear before the committee and be examined in reference to any matter within the scope of the inquiry or investigation being conducted by the committee, but only when the committee has received prior approval by a majority vote of the executive board to issue subpoenas in connection with the specific inquiry or investigation in question.

(ii) The committee may in the same manner issue a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum requiring any person to appear before the committee and bring with him or her any books, papers, or other documents pertinent thereto.

(iii) While the Legislature is in session, a committee deciding to issue subpoenas must promptly report each issuance to the Legislature. A record shall be made in the Journal reflecting the date the subpoena was issued, to whom it was issued, for what purpose it was issued, and the date on which testimony or production of documents is to take place. Under extraordinary circumstances the identity of the person subpoenaed may be withheld from publication if necessary to protect the safety of an individual or the confidentiality of the matters to be heard.

(iv) A person subpoenaed to attend a hearing of a committee shall receive the same fees and allowances as a person subpoenaed to give testimony in an action pending in a court of record.

2 Notice to Witnesses.

(i) Service of a subpoena requiring the attendance of a person at a hearing of a committee shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of subpoenaed in civil actions at least seven days prior to the date of the hearing unless a shorter period of time is authorized by majority vote of all of the members of the committee in a particular instance when, in their opinion, the giving of seven days notice is not practicable; but if a shorter period of time is authorized, the person subpoenaed shall be given reasonable notice of the hearing, consistent with the particular circumstances involved.

(ii) Any person who is served with a subpoena to attend a hearing of a committee shall also be served with a copy of the act defining the purpose of the committee, a copy of the rules under which the committee functions, a general statement informing him or her of the subject matter of the committee's investigation or inquiry and a notice that he or she may be accompanied at the hearing by counsel of his or her own choosing.

3. Conduct of the Hearing.

(i) No committee which has issued a subpoena directing a witness to appear at a hearing shall question the witness unless a quorum is present throughout the questioning.

(ii) The hearing shall be public unless the committee, by majority vote of all of its members, determines that a hearing should not be open to the public in a particular instance, due to rare and extraordinary circumstances consistent with Legislative Rule 3, section 15(b) regarding closed meetings.

(iii) The chairperson of the committee shall preside at all hearings and shall conduct the examination of witnesses himself or herself or supervise the examination by other members of the committee. The committee may by majority vote of all its members authorize the questioning of a witness by the committee's counsel or by special counsel.

4. Right to Counsel and Submission of Questions.

(i) Every witness at the hearing may be accompanied by counsel of his or her own choosing, who may advise the witness of his or her rights, subject to reasonable limitations which the committee may prescribe to prevent obstruction of or interference with the orderly conduct of the hearing.

(ii) Any witness at the hearing, or a witness' counsel, may submit to the committee proposed questions to be asked of the witness or any other witness relevant to the matters upon which there has been any questioning or submission of evidence, and the committee shall ask such of the questions as it deems appropriate and relevant to the subject matter of the hearing.

5. Testimony.

(i) The committee shall cause a verbatim record to be made of all proceedings in testimony or other evidence is demanded or offered, which record shall include rulings of the chair, questions of the committee and its counsel, the testimony or responses of witnesses, sworn written statements submitted to the committee and read into the record, and such other matters as the committee or its chair may direct.

(ii) All testimony given or offered at the hearing shall be under oath or affirmation if the witness has been subpoenaed, and in other cases if a majority of the committee members present at the hearing so decide.

(iii) The presiding member at the hearing may direct a witness to answer any relevant question or furnish any relevant book, paper or other document, the production of which has been required by subpoena duces tecum. Unless the direction is overruled by a majority vote of the committee members present, disobedience shall constitute a contempt.

(iv) A witness at the hearing or his or her counsel, with the consent of a majority of the committee's members present at the hearing, may file with the committee for incorporation into the record of the hearing sworn written statements relevant to the purpose, subject matter and scope of the committee's investigation or inquiry.

(v) Testimony and other evidence given or offered at a hearing closed to the public shall not be made public unless authorized by majority vote of all of the members of the committee, which authorization shall also specify the form and manner in which the testimony or other evidence may be released.

(vi) A witness at a closed hearing, upon request and at his or her own expense, shall be furnished a transcript of his or her testimony at the hearing.

6. Interested Persons.

(i) Any person whose name is mentioned or who is otherwise indentified during the hearing and who, in the opinion of the committee, may be adversely affected thereby, may, upon his or her request or upon the request of any member of the committee, appear personally before the committee and testify in his or her own behalf, or, with the committee's consent, may file a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof.

(ii) Upon the consent of a majority of its members a committee may invite any other person to appear at a hearing or submit a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof. No invitation to appear, and no request to appear, appearance, or submission of evidence shall limit in any way the committee's power of subpoena.

(iii) Any person who appears before a committee pursuant to this section shall have all the rights, privileges and responsibilities of a witness provided to all other witnesses.

7. Contempt.

A person shall be in contempt if he or she:

1. Fails or refuses to appear in compliance with a subpoena or, having appeared, fails or refuses to testify under oath or affirmation.

2. Fails or refuses to answer any relevant question or fails or refuses to furnish any relevant book, paper or other document subpoenaed by or on behalf of a committee, or

3. Commits any other act or offense against a committee which, if committed against the Legislature would constitute a contempt.

The chairperson of a committee may apply to the Legislature or, during the interim, to the District Court of any county to compel obedience by proceedings for contempt.

8. Penalties.

(i) A person guilty of contempt under the provision of these rules shall be subject to punishment pursuant to R.R.S. 50-105 and 50-106 during the session, or to R.R.S. 50-407 when the Legislature is not in session.

(ii) If a committee fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of these rules, any person subject to a subpoena or a subpoena duces tecum who is injured by such failure shall be relieved of any requirement to attend the hearing for which the subpoena was issued or, if present, to testify or produce evidence therein; and such failure shall be a complete defense in any proceeding against such person for contempt or other punishment.

(iii) Any member or employee of the Legislature other than the witness concerned or his or her counsel who knowingly violates subsections of these rules concerning the publication of testimony taken at a closed hearing shall be in contempt of the Legislature or, if a member of the Legislature, shall be subject to sanction or suspension according to the statutes governing the Legislature. The speaker on his or her own motion or on the application of any person claiming to have been injured or prejudiced by an unauthorized disclosure may institute proceedings for the determination of the issue and for the imposition of penalties provided herein. Nothing in this subsection shall limit any power which the Legislature may have to discipline a member or employee or to impose a penalty in the absence of action by a prosecuting officer or court.

(c) Limitation of Rules.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit or prohibit the acquisition of evidence or information by any committee by any lawful means not provided for herein.

RULE 5 NEW SECTION 6
SCHEDULING OF BILLS — PRIORITY BILLS

1. Each senator may designate one bill as a priority bill. Such priority bill need not be the designator's bill, but the principal introducer must concur with the designation as a priority bill and with the withdrawal of the designation once made.

2. Each standing committee chairperson may designate two of the committee's bills as priority bills.

3. The Speaker may designate any additional number of priority bills.

4. Priority bill designations may be made at any time prior to the annual designation deadline which shall be set each year by the Speaker. The designation deadline shall be prior to the 30th legislative day in the ninety day session and prior to the 20th legislative day in the sixty day session.

5. A senator or committee may withdraw a priority designation at any time, but will not be allowed to designate another bill as a priority bill in its place. The Speaker may withdraw a priority designation made by the Speaker.

6. All committees shall schedule priority bills for public hearing ahead of all unscheduled, nonpriority bills unless the person or committee making the priority designation shall otherwise agree.

7. All bills not designated as priority bills shall be heard on general file in the order in which they are reported to the floor by the committees, unless the introducer of the bill and the Speaker agree to delay the hearing of a particular bill. This provision shall not be construed to prevent the Speaker from placing bills preported out of committee with two or less dissenting votes on a Consent Calendar. Any bill placed on Consent Calendar shall be removed at the written request of three or more senators.

8. Priority bills shall generally be considered ahead of all other bills at each stage of debate, except that priority bills requiring the expenditure of appropriated funds may be held on final reading until such time as the annual appropriations bills have been passed. The Speaker shall structure the agenda of the Legislature so that all priority bills are given an opportunity to be voted upon for final passage prior to the end of the annual session.

9. No priority bill designated under this rule shall have priority over appropriations bills.

CLOTURE RULE

At any stage of consideration the introducer of the bill or the chairperson of the committee, if it is a committee bill, may move for cloture to the presiding officer after 2 1/2 hours of debate on a priority bill as designated pursuant to rule 5 section 6, or after one hour of debate on a non-priority bill. The presiding officer shall immediately recognize such introducer of chairperson and shall then order debate on the pending amendment or motion to cease. The vote on the pending amendment or motion shall be taken immediately. Following the vote on the pending matter a vote on the advancement of the bill shall be taken without debate. A motion for cloture shall be in order except while a member is speaking, and is not debatable.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 286

April 25, 1980

Dear Senator Haberman:

You have asked us whether there is any statutory definition of "agricultural and horticultural societies," as that term is used in Article VIII, Section 2 of the Nebraska Constitution, which authorizes tax exemption for their property, and section 77-202, R.R.S. 1943, which grants such exemption. You ask because, you inform us, you intend to introduce corrective legislation in the event there is no such definition. We have been unable to find one.

Section 77-202, itself, does not contain such a definition, and our Supreme Court does not seem to have construed this particular provision of section 77-202. In Crete Mills v. Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, 132 Neb. 244, 271 N.W. 684 (1937), the court said in dicta that the State Board of Agriculture was an agricultural society, but propounded no definition of such a society.

Sections 2-2001 to 2-2004, R.R.S. 1943, provide for the incorporation of "any agricultural association formed for the purpose of developing and improving some form of agriculture in this state," but contained no further definition.

Sections 2-201 et seq., deal with county agricultural societies, but we do not believe that Article VIII, Section 2 or section 77-202 were intended to be limited to county agricultural societies, so the sections dealing with county agricultural societies do not provide a useful definition. Sections 2-2801 to 2-2813, R.R.S. 1943, deal with associations or societies of citizens who seek to improve segments of the agricultural industry, homes, and communities of the state, and to cooperate with and to supplement and complement the programs of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources of the University of Nebraska and other state and local organizations. However, we are not at all sure that all organizations contemplated by section 2-2801 et seq. would qualify as "agricultural or horticultural societies," and we are quite sure that section 77-202(1) (b) should not be limited to societies organized under section 2-2801 et seq.

In short, we have found no good statutory definition of the term which we consider with any confidence can be used in applying section 77-202.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 289
May 14, 1980

Dear Senator Haberman:

In your letter of April 22, 1980, you advised us that you were considering legislation which would add a tax to support gasohol legislation. You then requested our opinion on the following question:

> "If the bill and the A-bill accompanying same passes and then the bill is declared unconstitutional, does this also make the A-bill unconstitutional and thereby the tax cannot be collected - or can the tax be collected and used for other purposes than those specified in the original bill?"

We assume that your references to the "A-bill" are intended to mean an appropriations bill that often accompanies substantive legislation. It appears to us, from the manner in which this question is posed, that you may have some misunderstanding about the relationship between a primary bill which provides legislative authorization to collect a tax, or conduct some government program, and an appropriations bill which simply allocates a certain amount of monies for the expenditures of government.

As we have noted in past opinions to members of the Nebraska State Legislature, an appropriations bill is separate and distinct from other substantive legislation. In other words, substantive matters like authorizing a tax to be collected, or defining the powers of government officials should not be included in an appropriations act. See 1975-1976 Report of Attorney General, No. 214 at p. 296, a copy of which is attached hereto.

In the example set forth in your letter, we would assume the primary bill would have provided the legislative authorization to collect a tax as well as some type of legislative direction as to the purpose of the act which is to be accomplished by the raising of such revenue. We would also assume that the "A-bill" would constitute an appropriation of the funds collected for expenditures during a specific time period. Consequently, if the primary bill were declared unconstitutional in totality, the accompanying appropriations bill would become, for all practical purposes, a nullity.

Relating this discussion to the specific question you presented, we would note that the authority to collect a tax would have to be provided for in the primary bill. Therefore, if that bill were found unconstitutional, the tax could not be collected.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 297

Dear Senator Lewis:

By letter dated June 16, 1980, you have requested the counsel of this office in regard to several questions you pose relative to LB 615, 1980, a bill taking effect on July 19, 1980, and providing for a two-tier reimbursement rate structure for state officers and employees who use their personal automobiles while performing state functions.

You note that pursuant to LB 615 state officers and employees will be entitled to 18 1/2 cents per mile travel reimbursement when using their own automobiles on state business at their own convenience, and 21 cents per mile when their automobiles are used at agency convenience. You then refer to a determination made by the Department of Administrative Services that the 2 1/2 cent differential between the rates is reportable income and inquire as to whether it thereby might also be violative of Article III, section 7 of the Nebraska Constitution for legislators to claim the higher rate. That section states in pertinent part:

> "...Members of the Legislature shall receive no pay nor perquisites other than said salary and expenses,..."

It appears to us you actually made two inquiries which we suggest must always be kept separately in mind. First, in traveling to and from legislative sessions, legislators are limited to actual expenses incurred for one round trip. So long as any reimbursement rate can be said to reflect actual expenses of automobile travel, we see no basis to question its propriety. Relative to other travel expenses legislators are entitled to for different activities, the same reasoning applies.

Implicit in your inquiry is a second question which stems from federal income tax law. No matter what level of travel expenses a state officer or employee is entitled to by state law, the Internal Revenue Service independently establishes a separate rate which it will allow for federal income tax purposes unless a taxpayer can prove actual expenses. We take the view that the state and federal determinations are for different purposes and independent of one another and, obviously, can differ. Thus, it is possible that the 21 cent per mile reimbursement rate may not be violative of the Nebraska Constitution or statutes for the purpose of travel expense reimbursement, but may be reportable income for federal income tax purposes to the extent that the rate exceeds the IRS approved rate.

Of course, we are in no position nor do we have any basis to make a determination of what other rate or rates of reimbursement might be allowed state officials or employees for the use of their personal automobiles while performing state functions. However, on the question of state travel expense reimbursement, it does occur to us that the ultimate standard against which any such rate would be judged is whether it reflects "actual" expenses.

We also hasten to point out that we did not intend by our Opinion No. 220, dated February 13, 1980, to indicate that we know of or could endorse any other formula or method for arriving at a mileage reimbursement rate for state officials or employees. We simply meant to indicate that while it occurred to us they might be conceivable, we are not in any position to undertake such a task ourselves, nor do we have any authority for such an undertaking.

Yours truly,

Opinion No. 302
July 11, 1980

Dear Senator Clark:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding Legislative Resolutions 230, 258, and 304, passed during the 1980 legislative session for the purpose of interim study of the financial impact of large construction projects, such as power generating plants, on small communities. Specifically, you have inquired whether public power districts can voluntarily share in the costs of building and improving roads which may be necessitated by the construction of such projects.

Additionally, you have inquired whether public power districts can voluntarily share in the costs incurred for fire protection.

Public power districts are organized, pursuant to section 70-602, R.R.S. 1943, as public corporations and political subdivisions of the state. As a statutory creation, a public power district is a mere agency of the state without any powers or authority except such as the Legislature may confer upon it.

Under the present statutory scheme, set forth in Chapter 70, Articles 5 and 6, providing for the organization and operation of a public power district, general statutory authority exists for the expenditure of district funds for the purposes for which the district is being operated, that is, the payment of operating expenses, indebtedness, and repairs, extensions, and improvements of the facilities. According to the Nebraska Supreme Court in United Community Services v. The Omaha National Bank, 162 Neb. 786, 77 N.W.2d 576 (1956):

> ". . .'Companies chartered for the purpose of supplying the public with electricityhave such lawful rights and powers as are clearly and expressly granted, together with such impliedpowers as are reasonablynecessary to enable them to exercise those expressly conferred, and to enable them to accomplish the objects of their creation. All rights and powers not thus granted are withheld.'" 29 C.J.S., Electricity, § 15, p. 521.

In our opinion, the above stated legal standard raises significant questions regarding whether the present statutory scheme empowers a public power district to expend funds for the costs under consideration in this instance. Express statutory language providing public power districts with the authority to make such financial contributions would likely be necessary.

We are aware of no constitutional prohibition which would prevent the Nebraska Legislature from enacting legislation to provide for such voluntary contributions by public power districts. Since the monies to be expended constitute public funds, they may only be expended for public purposes. According to the Nebraska Supreme Court, a public purpose has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, security, prosperity, contentment, and the general welfare of all the inhabitants. United Community Services v. Omaha National Bank, supra. However, it is primarily the Legislature's perogative to determine whether a particular expenditure of public funds is for a genuine public purpose. In determining whether a proposed expenditure of public funds is valid as devoted to a public use or purpose each case must be decided with reference to the object sought to be accomplished and to the degree and manner in which that object affects the public welfare. In addition, in authorizing the use of a public power district's funds for a public purpose beneficial to it, the Legislature must set up reasonable standards to guide the district in its administration.

It is our opinion that the Nebraska Legislature could authorize by statute voluntary contributions on the part of public power districts for the costs at issue. While it is conceivable that constitutional questions may arise depending upon the particular statutory language employed, such considerations are obviously beyond the scope of this opinion.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Dear Senator DeCamp:

In your letter of July 17, 1980, you indicate that you are contemplating amending current Nebraska statutes pertaining to campaigns for public office by imposing a limitation on the amount that a candidate or candidates committee might expend; by imposing a limitation as to the purposes for which a campaign expenditure might or might not be made; and by imposing a limitation as to the time period prior to any election during which campaign expenditures could only be made.

You indicate in your letter that you have certain reservations regarding the constitutionality of such a proposal. We share those reservations.

In this regard we call your attention to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1, 46 L.Ed.2d 659, 96 S.Ct. 612 (1976). This case concerned challenges to the key provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971.

This Act generally contained the following provisions:

(1) Individual political contributions were limited to $1,000 to any single candidate per election with an overall annual limitation of $25,000 by any contributor;

(2) Independent expenditures by individuals and groups relative to clearly identified candidates were limited to $1,000 per year;

(3) Campaign spending by candidates for various federal offices and spending for national conventions by political parties were subject to prescribed limits;

(4) Contributions and expenditures above certain threshold limits must have been reported and publicly disclosed; and

(5) A system for public financing of presidential campaign activities was established as was a federal election commission.

Reviewing the entirety of these provisions, the United States Supreme Court held:

> "...It is clear that a primary effect of these expenditure limitations is to restrict the quantity of campaign speech by individuals, groups, and candidates. The restrictions, while neutral as to the ideas expressed, limit political expression 'at the core of our electoral process and of the First Amendment freedoms.' (Citations omitted)" Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 39, 46 L.Ed.2d at 699

As to the standard which should be applied generally, the United States Supreme Court held:

> "..., the constitutionality of [the Act] turns on whether the governmental interests advanced in its support satisfy the exacting scrutiny applicable to limitations on core First Amendment rights of political expression." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 45, 46 L.Ed.2d at 702.

While the court generally upheld the limitations on contributions, it also concluded that the Act's independent expenditure limitations were unconstitutional under the First Amendment. As to the candidate's own expenditures from personal funds which were limited by the Act, the court held:

> "[The Act's] ceiling on personal expenditures by a candidate in furtherance of his own candidacy thus clearly and directly interferes with constitutionally protected freedoms." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 53, 46 L.Ed.2d at 707.

The court specifically held with reference to these limitations on a candidate's personal expenditures:

> "..., the First Amendment simply cannot tolerate [the Act's] restriction upon the freedom of a candidate to speak without legislative limit on behalf of his own candidacy. We therefore hold that [the Act's] restriction on a candidate's personal expenditures is unconstitutional." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 54, 46 L.Ed.2d at 707, 708.

The act also placed limitations on overall campaign expenditures by candidates seeking nomination for election to federal office. In regard to this restriction, the United States Supreme Court held:

> "No governmental interest that has been suggested is sufficient to justify the restriction on the quantity of political expression imposed by [the Act's] campaign expenditure limitations...." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 55, 46 L.Ed. 2d at 708.

The United State Supreme Court observed with reference to the First Amendment:

> "...The First Amendment denies government the power to determine that spending to promote one's political views is wasteful, excessive, or unwise. In the free society ordained by our Constitution it is not the government but the people — individually as citizens and candidates and collectively as associations and political committees — who must retain control over the quantity and range of debate on public issues in a political campaign." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 57, 46 L.Ed.2d at 709.

While the court did hold that contribution ceilings served a basic governmental interest in safeguarding the integrity of the electoral process "...without directly impinging upon the rights of individual citizens and candidates to engage in political debate and discussion" they also held:

> "...By contrast, the First Amendment requires the invalidation of the Act's independent expenditure ceiling, ..., its limitation on a candidate's expenditures from his own personal funds, ..., and its ceilings on overall campaign expenditures, ... These provisions place substantial and direct restrictions on the ability of candidates, citizens, and associations to engage in protected political expression, restrictions that the First Amendment cannot tolerate." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 58, 46 L.Ed.2d at 710.

Therefore without knowing exactly the nature of your proposed limitations, it is impossible for us to say with certainty whether or not such could be accomplished. We, of course, would be most willing to review any specific proposals once you have drafted them.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 308
August 8, 1980

Dear Senator Keyes:

This is in reply to your letter in which you state that you are considering legislation to amend section 83-337, R.S.Supp., 1978.

You inquire if the language in subsection (1) which states:

> "The members of the mental health board shall be allowed compensation at an hourly rate to be determined by the district judge, and in no event shall the amount allowed be less than fifty dollars for each hearing...."

is limited to fifty dollars per day.

You point out that prior to the amendment of the statute in 1976 that board members in counties having a population of less than 200,000 people were paid "for the hearing and final determination of each case" and in counties over 200,000 people said board members were paid "per day" for duties as such board members.

As the section now reads there is no ambiguity. It is clear that the minimum hourly rate set by the district judge cannot be a rate which would total less than fifty dollars for each hearing. The rate "per day" is not considered or mentioned.

It is a cardinal rule of statutory construction that "statutes should be so construed as to give effect to the intention of the Legislature, and, if a statute is plain and unambiguous, there is no room for construction or interpretation." Shellenberger v. Ransom, 41 Neb. 631, 59 N.W. 935 (1894). The Supreme Court of Nebraska has consistently followed the rule announced in the above case for nearly 100 years.

We are therefore of the opinion that under section 83-337(1), R.S.Supp., 1978, members of mental health boards are to be compensated at an hourly rate to be determined by the district judge, but in no event less than fifty dollars for each hearing.

We apologize for the delay in issuing this opinion, but your letter was mislaid when the undersigned assistant was out of the office on business.

Opinion No. 315
September 9, 1980

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have asked the opinion of this office concerning the constitutional liability of the Nebraska Legislature to make up a decline in the net market value of the permanent school fund caused by the investment of that fund in securities which, because of market conditions at the close of the calendar year, are valued below their cost to the school fund but which are expected to bring their full face value upon maturity or redemption. It is our opinion that the Nebraska legislature has no constitutional liability in the situation that you describe.

Article VII, section 8 of the Nebraska Constitution provides:

> "All funds belonging to the state for educational purposes, the interest and income whereof only are to be used, shall be deemed trust funds. Such funds with the interest and income thereof are hereby solemnly pledged to the purposes for which they are granted and set apart and shall not be transferred to any other funds for other uses. The state shall supply any net aggregate losses thereof realized at the close of each calendar year that may in any manner accrue. Not withstanding any other provisions in the Constitution, such funds shall be invested as the Legislature may by statute provide." (Emphasis added)

The loss in net market value that you have described is not a loss "realized" by the permanent school fund, but it is merely a paper loss until the securities in question are sole or redeemed. The Nebraska Supreme Court in Altsuler v. Peters, 190 Neb. 113, 206 N.W.2d 570 (1973), at page 124, defined "realized" as follows:

> "In general it means received, paid, debited or incurred..."

Applying that definition to the situation that you have described, the yearly fluxuation of the market value of the permanent school fund caused by fluxuation of the market, does not bring about a loss realized or incurred by the permanent school fund.

Opinion No. 316
September 15, 1980

Dear Senator Goodrich:

You have asked us two questions involving problems concerning the dissolution of marriages when one of the spouses has an unvested interest in a trust. Depending upon our answers to your questions, you state that you may introduce legislation to correct what may be deficiencies in the law.

Your first question is whether a court, when dissolving a marriage, can take into consideration the interest of one of the parties in a testamentary trust, which at the time of the dissolution has not been vested, when the trust is subject to invasion. We conclude that the court can.

We have found no definite answer to your question in Nebraska statutes. Neb.Rev.Stat. § 42-365 (Reissue 1978) authorizes the court to order payment of such alimony and division of property as may be reasonable, having regard to the circumstances of the parties, etc. The discretion of the court seems to be very broad. The nearest Nebraska case we have found is Maxwell v. Maxwell, 106 Neb. 689, 184 N.W. 227 (1921), in which the court held that a trial court could award to the wife the husband's remainder interest in a trust created for the husband's mother, to be distributed to the husband and his brothers and sisters on the mother's death.

The case of Trowbridge v. Trowbridge, 16 Wis.2d 176, 114 N.W.2d 129 (1962) seems to be directly in point. In that case the husband's father had created a trust, with the income to be paid to the husband's mother for life, with the corpus to be paid to the husband if he survived her, otherwise to be held in trust for his issue. The trial court ordered one-third of whatever the husband got from the trust to be paid to the wife. The appellate court upheld the award, saying that it was proper to take this interest into account, even though, in the event the husband were to die before his mother, his interest in the trust would vanish. Interestingly, the court cited in support of its decision the case of Maxwell v. Maxwell, supra.

You also ask whether a trustee, not a party to the litigation, who is ordered by the court to answer certain questions in a deposition, can appeal that order. We think there is no way for him to do so, at least as an appeal in the action in which the deposition is being taken. We know of no way in which a non-party witness can appeal any action taken by a trial court. Even as to a party, the order requiring the answering of questions would not be a final order, subject to appeal.

We assume that the witness you are talking about feels that he should not be required to answer the question because of statutory privilege, and that the court has rejected his claim of privilege. The only way we know of to secure a review of that decision is to refuse to answer, be found in contempt, and to appeal the judgment of contempt.

Sections 25-1229 and 25-1267.44 make refusal to answer questions, after being ordered to do so by the court, contempt. We suppose that, if a trustee felt strongly enough about it, and was sure enough of his grounds, he could refuse to answer, at his peril, and appeal his conviction for contempt. If his appeal fails, however, he would properly be punished. We know of no other way to test the privilege.

September 16, 1980

Dear Senator Kelly:

By letter dated September 9, 1980, you requested the opinion of this office on two questions relative to the applicability of the Administrative Procedures Act to the Nebraska Adjutant General's office. You first ask whether the exemption from the act granted the Adjutant General's office by Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-901 (Supp. 1979) is limited only to those duties and functions of that office set out in Chapter 55 of the Nebraska statutes, or whether the exemption also extends to the office's civil defense and disaster relief responsibilities set out in Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-829.36, et seq.

The very first section of the Nebraska Administrative Procedures Act defines those state agencies which shall be subject to the act as follows:

> Agency shall mean each board, commission, department, officer, division, or other administrative office or unit of the state government authorized by law to make rules, except the Adjutant General's office as provided in Chapter 55,....

That portion of Chapter 55 dealing with the Adjutant General's office consists of the first three articles thereof. Article 1 codifies the military code, article 2 provides for the State Guard, and article 3 sets out the Nebraska Code of Military Justice. As you point out, the Adjutant General's office also operates in a completely different realm of responsibility pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-829.36, et seq., namely, as the State Civil Defense Agency (CDA) under the direct control and authority of the Governor. Mindful, then, that the work of the Adjutant General's office is divided between these two substantive realms, we think it quite clear from the language of §84-901 that the exemption from the Administrative Procedures Act given the Adjutant General's office was intended to apply only to the administration of its duties and responsibilities set out in Chapter 55.

Your second question is if the civil defense duties and responsibilities of the Adjutant General's office are not exempt from the Administrative Procedures Act, can that office be required to adopt rules and regulations governing disaster relief applications. The primary determinate of which state entities are subject to the Administrative Procedures Act is whether or not they are authorized by law to makes rules, rules being defined in §84-901(2). We have reviewed the civil defense and disaster relief responsibilities of the Adjutant General's office set in §81-829.36, et seq., and we note two different situations in which disaster relief applications are mentioned. Not knowing which you specifically refer to, we shall comment on both.

Section 81-829.42 sets out the administration of the Governor's Emergency Fund. We conclude that nowhere in that provision is the Adjutant General's office authorized to promulgate the kinds of rules contemplated by the Administrative Procedures Act. Thus, with respect to the administration of the Fund, that office is not subject to the Administrative Procedures Act nor may it be required to draft the kind of rules and regulations that act contemplates.

Secondly, §81-829.72 provides for the administration of federal assistance for disaster victims in those situations where major disasters have been declared. By that provision, the Adjutant General's office is required to make regulations to carry out its purpose. We are of the opinion that this legislative provision does authorize the Adjutant General's office to make the kind of rules contemplated by the Administrative Procedures Act, and that indeed, the office is required to make such rules and regulations by the very language found in §81-829.72(2).

Dear Senator Wesely:

This is in response to your letter of September 19, 1980. In that letter you state that you are considering the introduction of a legislative bill to prohibit a local school district from closing a school without the consent of the students' parents and the county superintendent. You ask if it is necessary to introduce such a bill or does the present statutory language of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (Reissue 1976) already prevent the closing of a school in Lincoln without the consent of the parents or the county superintendent. You ask for our response by Tuesday, September 23, 1980.

The 1949 Legislature passed "an act to revise, adopt, and establish a code of laws for the State of Nebraska relating to schools." LB 1, appearing as Chapter 256, Laws of Nebraska 1949. A large number of the sections of Chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Nebraska 1943, and the 1947 Supplement thereto, was incorporated in this new code. Prior to that new code, Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (Reissue 1976), appeared as Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-223 (Reissue 1943). Thus a comparison of the two cited statutes may be of value to you. The former provision, Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-223 (Reissue 1943), stated:

> Subject to the conditions set forth in section 79-221 for closing the school in any district, the school board of any district maintaining more than one school is authorized to close any school or schools within such district and to make provision for the education of children either in another school of said district or in the school of any other district or by correspondence instruction for such children as may be physically incapacitated for traveling to or attending other schools, with the permission of the parent and on the approval of the county superintendent.

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (Reissue 1976), provides:

> The school board of any district maintaining more than one school is authorized to close any school or schools within such district and to make provision for the education of children either in another school of said district, or in the school of any other district, or by correspondence instruction for such children as may be physically incapacitated for traveling to or attending other schools, with the permission of the parent and on the approval of the county superintendent.

Thus it can be seen that the two statutes are quite similar — almost identical.

In connection with the two cited statutes, we wish to call your attention to a case entitled State ex rel. Strange v. School District, 150 Neb. 109, 33 N.W.2d 358 (1948). In that case the Nebraska Supreme Court examined the legislative history of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-223 (Reissue 1943), and concluded that it applied to school districts organized on the town meeting plan or so-called "country districts" and did not apply to school districts in cities and villages subject to population limitations.

Thus without the passage of LB 1, Chapter 256, Laws of Nebraska 1949, it would be clear that Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (reissue 1976), would not apply to school districts subject to population limitations. See, for example, Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-102 (Reissue 1976). Unfortunately, the legislative history of LB 1, appearing as Chapter 256, Laws of Nebraska 1949, does not offer much insight as to the meaning to be subscribed to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (Reissue 1976). On the other hand, during the past thirty-one years the governing boards of many school districts subject to population limitations and maintaining more than one school have closed one or more of those schools without "the permission of the parent and on the approval of the county superintendent." We, of course, are in no position to say that it was wrong. Indeed, it is well settled law that construction of a statute of doubtful meaning, given by those whose duty it is to enforce it, and which construction the Legislature has by its continued noninterference for a number of years acquiesced in, will be approved unless it contravenes the Constitution or is clearly wrong. See, e.g., Kennedy v. Royal Highlanders, 109 Neb. 24, 189 N.W. 612 (1922); and State v. Bryan, 112 Neb. 692, 200 N.W. 870 (1924). Certainly the above described administrative construction of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 79-469 (Reissue 1976), does not contravene the Constitution nor can we say that it is clearly wrong.

Opinion No. 319

Dear Senator Goodrich:

You have asked whether a foreign corporation for profit can perform abortions in the State of Nebraska. You have also asked whether such a corporation, without being licensed as a health clinic, can operate a "ladies center" in the "office" of a physician who performs first trimester abortions and related services there. If it can do either lawfully, you want to introduce legislation to make such act or acts unlawful.

Under Neb.Rev.Stat. §§ 71-2017(1), 71-2017.01(4), and 71-2018 (Reissue 1976), a center where abortions are performed on out patients has to be licensed as a health clinic by the Department of Health unless it is the residence, office or clinic of a physician or other stated person, not including a corporation for profit.

A foreign corporation for profit, like a Nebraska corporation for profit, cannot perform any of the personal services which require a license in medicine and surgery. Performing an abortion and "maintain[ing] an office" for the examination or treatment of any physical condition of humans requires such a license. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§ 21-2003 and 21-20,105 (Reissue 1977), 21-2202 (Supp. 1980), 71-1,102 (Reissue 1976), and 71-102 (Supp. 1980).

Thus, the "office" of the physician exempted from licensing as a health clinic under Neb.Rev.Stat. §§ 71-2018 and 71-2017.01(4) cannot be maintained by a corporation for profit.

This does not preclude such a corporation from providing some administrative services for the physician who performs the abortions, providing it does not interfere with or control the exercise of professional judgment by the physician. However, if such a corporation solicits the patients for the clinic and gets a share of each fee collected for performing the abortion, the physician may be subject to disciplinary action under Neb.Rev.Stat. § 71-148 (Supp. 1980).

In conclusion, a foreign corporation for profit cannot perform abortions in the State of Nebraska. Such a corporation itself cannot operate a health clinic without a license.

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have written to this office concerning an article appearing in the September 24, 1980, Lincoln Journal with reference to LB 619, 1980 Legislature. You indicated that if the article is correct, then you intend to introduce legislation to remedy the defect pointed out therein.

The article is concerned with studded snow tires. Prior to the passage of LB 619, Neb.Rev.Stat. § 39-6,131 (Reissue 1978), provided that studded snow tires must be removed during the period between April 15 and October 15 of each year. LB 619 did amend this section to eliminate this language.

You are correct in your analysis of LB 619. This bill passed without the emergency clause. Thus, under section 27, Article III, Constitution of Nebraska, the bill became effective three months after the 1980 Legislature adjourned. However, section 9 of the bill provided that sections 3 to 5, 8, and 10 of the act would not become operative until April 16, 1982. Section 3 of the act is the section which amended § 39-6, 131 to eliminate the particular language with which we are concerned. Section 10 of the act is the repealer provision directed toward § 39-6,131 which is the amended section. Thus until April 16, 1982, Neb.Rev.Stat. § 39-6,131 (Reissue 1978), as it existed prior to the passage of LB 619, will remain in effect. Thus, it is clear that there are still restrictions which require the removal of studded snow tires between the period of April 15 and October 15 of each year.

Yours very truly,

Opinion No. 323
October 8, 1980

Dear Senator Haberman:

You have asked us whether subdivisions which have a statutory authorization to levy a tax up to a specific mill amount may utilize that statutory authorization or are they limited by the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 77-3412 et seq. (Supp. 1980), the Political Subdivisions Budget Limit Act of 1979, popularly known as the lid law.

You indicate in your request letter that you are considering legislation in the upcoming session in this area. For that reason we will answer your question.

In your question you point to natural resource districts which are authorized to levy a tax of up to one-quarter mill on all property in a ground water control area. In answer to your question we point out that Neb.Rev.Stat. § 77-3423 (Supp. 1980) provides that:

> [No] governing body of any political subdivision shall adopt a budget statement pursuant to section 23-925, or pursuant to the charter or ordinances of a city with a home rule charter, in which the anticipated combined receipts for the ensuing fiscal year exceeds an increase of seven per cent above the combined receipts budget base.

The combined receipts budget base is defined in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 77-3421 as the total of funds received by a political subdivision from local tax sources and state tax sources. Section 77-3426 authorizes a political subdivision to exceed the seven percent limitation where there is a newly authorized levy created by state law. This section also provides that "thereafter the receipts from such newly authorized tax shall be included in determining receipts from local tax sources.

We believe in construing these sections together one can only conclude that notwithstanding the fact that a political subdivision may be authorized to levy up to a specific mill amount if it is not so levying that amount it may not levy to that amount if such a levy would result in a violation of the seven percent limit on local subdivision budget increases. Thus the answer to your question is that the seven percent lid law takes precedence over a specific mill levy limitation upon political subdivisions.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 334
November 7, 1980

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding Neb.Rev.Stat. § 25-1640 (Cum.Supp. 1980), as amended by LB 733, 86th Legislature, Second Session, 1980. You explained that such opinion is being sought in order to determine whether you should propose additional legislation.

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 25-1640 (Cum.Supp. 1980) provides in pertinent part:

> Any person who is summoned to serve on jury duty shall not be subject to discharge from employment, loss of pay, loss of sick leave, loss of vacation time, or any other form of penalty, as a result of his or her absence from employment due to such jury duty, upon giving reasonable notice to his or her employer of such summons. Any person who is summoned to serve on jury duty shall be excused upon request from any shift work for those days required to serve as a juror without loss of pay.

(Emphasis added.) Violation of section 25-1640 is a Class IV misdemeanor.

Your inquiry focuses on the above emphasized language, added by LB 733. Specifically, you have inquired:

> Could a company establish a policy that requires a person summoned for jury duty (but did not serve as a juror and released for the day which would be a normal working day) to call the company to have a determination made as to whether the company needed that individual to work the remainder of his or her normal working shift?

You have explained that the above emphasized statutory language appears to be subject to varying interpretations which result in contradictory responses to your inquiry. You suggest that said statute could be interpreted to require that an employee, who is summoned to serve on jury duty be excused from work without loss of pay, etc., until the individual's term of jury duty service expires. Contrarily, you suggest that said statute could be interpreted as providing that any person summoned for jury duty service must be excused without loss of pay, etc., from work on any shift for those days he or she actually serves as a juror, so if a person summoned for jury service is excused by the court for a particular day(s) or on a particular case, he or she could be required to work on that day and could be subject to loss of pay or leave. (Emphasis yours.)

It is well established that in the construction of a statute, preexisting law and any other laws relating to the same subject must be considered. Livestock Carriers Division of Nebraska Motor Carriers Ass'n v. Midwest Packers Traffic Ass'n, 191 Neb. 1, 213 N.W.2d 443 (1973). The existing statutory scheme regarding the selection of jurors clearly contemplates that jurors who are summoned and appear may thereafter be excused from service, subject to recall on the same panel. Neb.Rev.Stat. § 25-1631.03, § 25-1634.01 (Reissue 1979). Pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 33-138 (Reissue 1978), no person is entitled to jury compensation for the days he or she is voluntarily absent or excused from service by court order.

The language utilized is section 25-1640 (Cum.Supp. 1980), regarding "persons summoned to serve on jury duty," indicates that the class potentially protected, i.e., entitled to absence from employment without penalty, encompasses all persons initially selected who receive a summons to report for jury duty. However, the scope of employment protection provided is limited by the phrase, "for those days required to serve as a juror." In light of the aforementioned statutory scheme, in our opinion, a person who is excused from service by court order is not "required to serve as a juror," within the meaning of section 25-1640. Thus, if a person, summoned for jury duty, is excused from service by court order, he or she is not protected by the provisions of section 25-1640, for the days so excused.

Said interpretation is consistent with the legislative history of LB 234, Eighty-sixth Legislature, First Session, 1979, which indicates that section 25-1640 was originally enacted for the purpose of jury protection, or more specifically, to prevent employers from inhibiting employees in the performance of their civic duty or obligation. (Hearings on LB 234, Committee on the Judiciary, 86th Legislature, 1st Session, 1979, p. 4.) The legislative history of LB 733, which, among other amendments, added the above emphasized language in section 25-1640, indicates that the purpose of said language was merely to clarify that the protection afforded by this statute also extends to persons employed on night shifts. In other words, the purpose of said amendment was to ensure that persons working night shifts would not be penalized by being required to report to work at night after reporting for jury duty during the day. (Floor debate on LB 733, 86th Legislature, 2nd Session, 1980, p. 7910.) In essence, it appears to us that the legislative intent is to secure employment protection for those persons whose required attendance at the courthouse in connection with jury duty would result in absence from employment or would necessitate also working a night shift.

In summary, in our opinion, both the statutory language and legislative history lead to the conclusion that a person, who is summoned for jury duty, but thereafter excused from service and directed not to report to the courthouse unless recalled, could lose pay, etc., for absence from work on the days so excused from jury service.

If we can be of further assistance, please advise.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 335

Dear Senator Haberman:

You have asked whether a county historical society, as defined in Neb.Rev.Stat. §23-355.01, is a political subdivision for the purposes of the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979.

In answering your question, it is clear from the statute that a county historical society is not a political subdivision. The statute provides, in part:

> Whenever there is organized within any county in this state, a nonprofit county historical association or society, organized under the corporation laws of this state, a tax of not more than three-tenths of one cent on each one hundred dollars upon the actual value of all the taxable property in such county, except intangible property, may be levied for the purpose of establishing a fund to be used for the establishment, management, purchase of exhibits, equipment, other personal property and real property, and maintenance of such nonprofit county historical association or society, . . .

This statute also requires that a vote of the county electors shall be necessary in order to initially levy such a tax after a request by the board of directors of such a society and the levy may be ended by a vote in the same manner as it was originally established. However, that vote can only occur after a petition signed by at least twenty percent of the registered voters of the county.

This statute makes clear that a county historical society is a nonprofit corporation. It would not perform any of the functions of a governmental subdivision. The sole connection between a county historical society and a county or any other political subdivision would be the fact that the county historical society would be supported by the levy required to be made under the terms of §23-355.01 after the vote of the people of that county authorizing such a levy.

There is, however, an additional question and that is whether or not the mill levy authorized under this section is nonetheless embraced within the county budget and thus covered under the seven percent budget limit act. The statute authorizes the county board to levy up to a specified amount. The statute requires that the amount levied is to be disbursed under the direction and supervision of the county historical society board. However, no explicit direction is given as to who shall determine the amount to be levied.

We believe in these circumstances that the county board is the agency which will determine what amount will be levied to support the historical society. As such, it would be part of the county budget itself. That budget, of course, is subject to the seven percent limit placed on county budgets.

As you know, this does not mean that the specific budget of the county historical society would be subject to the seven percent limitation but only that it would be embraced within the larger county budget which is subject to the seven percent limitation in toto rather than the separate funds which comprise the general budget of the county.

We have answered this question to assist you in developing possible legislation in this area.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

November 12, 1980

Dear Senator Maresh:

You have referred us to Neb.Rev.Stat. §§19-3801 et seq. (Reissue 1977) and pointed to an apparent inconsistency in two sections therein involved. You state that there is a problem and you intend to introduce corrective legislation.

Section 19-3801 in part provides, "[T]he county board shall enter into such a contract when requested by a village to do so." These sections generally authorize a county and a city of the first or second class or a village to enter into an Interlocal Cooperation Agreement Act contract for the provision of police services to such subdivisions of government by the county sheriff. In the original enactment in LB 594, Eighty-second Legislature, 1971, the cost of such contracts was to be no greater than $.75 per person per month. This limitation cost was struck by LB 557, Section 1, Eighty-fifth Legislature, 1977.

Your question is, may these sections be read together constitutionally.

Specifically, you ask if §19-3801 requires the county to enter into a contract yet §19-3803 allows for negotiation as to the cost to a village in such a contract, is there a constitutional problem.

We see no constitutional problem involved in these particular provisions. It is obvious that the intent of the legislation is to authorize the provision of police services to cities and villages by the county sheriff. It is contemplated that these services will be governed by a contract to be entered into under the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Agreement Act, §§23-2201 et seq. If agreement cannot be reached, one of the terms of the contract will be missing. That term, i.e., the cost, is required under Neb.Rev.Stat. §23-2204 (Reissue 1977), as part of the contract. No specific statute authorizes a means of reconciling such differences. Section 19-3803 requires that prior to the entry into the contract, the cost must be agreed to by both parties. If that agreement cannot be reached by both parties, then the ability to enter into the contract would cease to exist under §19-3803.

Therefore, the provisions of §19-3803 would control over the provisions of §19-3801 requiring the county to enter into such contract. This is particularly true in light of the fact that the second provision is the later enactment of the Legislature and as such would generally control over the prior act if it is not inconsistent with the prior act. We do not see it as being facially inconsistent.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You call our attention to Neb.Rev.Stat. §30-2821(2)(f)(Supp. 1980), which provides that a trustee has the power "To deposit, but not to invest, trust funds in a financial institution, including a financial institution operated by the trustee as otherwise authorized by law or regulations governing trustees." You state that if this is interpreted to prohibit a trustee from investing trust funds in any financial institution, a remedial amendment will have to be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

It would serve no useful purpose for us to attempt to reach any absolute conclusion in answer to your question. This section of the statutes does not deal with the duties of any governmental body, but with the rights and duties of private persons and corporations. Regardless of what we say, trustees and beneficiaries of trusts may reach different conclusions, and our opinion will have no significance.

However, we can say that the statute can be construed to prohibit investments in financial institutions, which may be sufficient for your purposes.

The opposite construction is possible, and a plausible argument can be made that §30-2821(2) is a grant of power to trustees, and not a restriction on such powers. Subsection (1) of that section provides:

> From time of creation of the trust until final distribution of the assets of the trust, a trustee has the power to perform, without court authorization, every act which a prudent person would perform for the purposes of the trust including, but not limited to, the powers specified in subsection (2) of this section.

Were we required to come to a definition conclusion, we might argue that subsection (2) (f) was intended to authorize a trustee to make deposits in financial institutions, but was not intended to specifically authorize investments in such institutions. If, however, such an investment was an act which "a prudent person would perform," as contemplated by subsection (1), we might argue that subsection (2) was not to be construed as a limitation on that power.

However, the deliberate insertion of the phrase, "but not to invest" into subsection (2) (f) can certainly be interpreted as a manifestation of an intention of the Legislature, not very clearly expressed, to prohibit such investments. We have discussed this matter with some attorneys representing institutions acting as trustees, and their general approach seems to be that it would be dangerous for a trustee to make such investments, as the statute now reads. Therefore, if it was not the intention of the Legislature to prohibit investments by trustees in financial institutions, corrective legislation would seem to be called for.

Re: Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-160
Opinion Request

Dear Senator Landis:

We are in receipt of your letter in which you request an opinion as to the constitutionality of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-160 (Reissue 1977), and you indicate a desire to recommend its repeal if it is indeed constitutionally infirm. That statute provides:

> No person, partnership, or corporation, not holding a live permit issued under the provisions of section 1-136, shall hold himself or itself out to the public as an accountant or auditor by use of either or both of such words on any sign, card, letterhead, or in any advertisement or directory, without indicating thereon or therein that such person, partnership, or corporation does not hold such a permit; Provided, that this section shall not prohibit any officer, employee, partner, or principal of any organization from describing himself by the position, title, or office he holds in such organization nor any act of any public official or public employee in the performance of his duties as such.

You inform us that the Board of Accountancy has threatened action against two (2) Lincoln businessmen because they are admittedly holding themselves out to be "Accountants" by way of several means of advertisement when in fact they do not hold a permit pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-136 (Reissue 1977). In your letter you indicate that these gentlemen provide "general accounting services to their clients."

Your letter further sets forth substantial information regarding the constitutionality of statutes from other states, which statutes have attempted to regulate the use of the terms "Accountant or Auditor." We have carefully reviewed your letter and the information provided and would submit the following comments and opinion on this matter.

We first wish to emphasize that the statute does not per se probibit the use of the terms "Accountant or Auditor" by nonlicensed individuals but instead requires that any person who is not so licensed must affirmatively disclose that fact. This manner of regulation chosen by the Legislature is of critical importance to our determination as will be noted below.

The use of the terms "Accountant or Auditor" by persons engaged in that general area of business would most certainly appear to be that type of commercial speech which has been given First Amendment protection. Bates v. State Bar of Arizona, 433 U.S. 350 (1977), and Virginia Pharmacy Board v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, 425 U.S. 748 (1976). Such holdings have not been without some restraint, and in fact the court emphasized in Virginia Pharmacy, that restrictions on commercial free speech are permissible provided that "They are justified without reference to the content of the regulated speech, that they serve a significant governmental interest, and that in so doing they leave open ample alternative channels for communication of the information." Virginia Pharmacy, 425 U.S. at 771.

Most recently the Maryland Court of Appeals has had the opportunity to test the constitutional firmness of a statute which appears at first glance to be similar to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-160 (Reissue 1977). In Comprehensive etc. v. Maryland State Board, 397 A.2d 1019, the Maryland Court held that the State had a right to regulate the practice of public accountancy and in so doing could restrict the use of the words "Certified Public Accountant," "Public Accountant," or abbreviation "CPA" to those certified or registered by the State. However, that Court further held that "To prevent the possibility of public confusion and deception, the Legislature cannot consistent with the First Amendment choose the most drastic remedy - the complete suppression of the use of certain words to describe the lawful activity of non-certified accountants." Id. at 1027. It therefore held the statute unconstitutional as violating the First Amendment.

Unlike the regulatory approach taken by the State of Maryland in Comprehensive etc. v. Maryland State Board, supra, the Unicameral has chosen to not totally ban the use of the terms "Accountant and Auditor" by those not so licensed but instead has required that unlicensed persons using those terms make an affirmative disclosure that they do not hold a permit pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-136 (Reissue 1977).

We believe that it could be effectively argued that the unrestricted use of the titles "Accountant" or "Auditor" by an unlicensed person could in fact cause confusion which would be detrimental to the public and therefore the State regulation of those terms is rationally related to a legitimate state interest. Since the "speech" at issue here is "commercial" it is subject to "reasonable regulation that serves a legitimate public interest." Bigelow v. Virginia, 421 U.S. 809 at 825-26.

It is our opinion that should Neb.Rev.Stat. § 1-160 (Reissue 1977) be challenged on Fourteenth Amendment due process grounds or First Amendment free speech grounds, it would probably be found to be constitutional.

Dear Senator Higgins:

This is in reply to your letter of December 26, 1980, in which you state that you anticipate introducing a bill to make it illegal for county governments to make donations to private corporations, etc. You inquire if there are any laws already on the books which would make such legislation redundant.

So far as we know there is no specific legislation which would cover the problem indicated. The Nebraska Constitution does have certain limitations but questions still arise as to their applicability.

For example, Article XIII, Section 3, of the Nebraska Constitution provides in part, "The credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation, ..."

There is still a question of interpretation whether or not any particular expenditure is for a public purpose and therefore authorized to be expended by the county, city or governmental subdivision involved. In the case of United Community Services vs. The Omaha National Bank and The Omaha Public Power District, 162 Neb. 786, the pledge of a donation by the power district to the United Community Services was involved inasmuch as the power district was a governmental subdivision. The Supreme Court of Nebraska first stated that whether or not the purposes of the United Community Services were for such a public purpose that a governmental subdivision should be permitted to contribute to them was a matter for the Legislature; that in the absence of express statutory authority the public power district would not have the authority to make such contributions. However, the Legislature had passed a broad statute authorizing any governmental subdivision which was engaged in a business in a proprietary capacity such as production of light, power, etc. to contribute funds for charitable purposes.

The Supreme Court stated that such statute did not violate the above provision of the Nebraska Constitution but that it did violate the provision contained in Article III, Section 18, prohibiting the passage of any local or special laws because the application of the statutes were limited to the type of public corporations operating in a proprietary capacity in a city of the metropolitan class only and did not apply to such corporations operating in smaller areas.

Of course we do not know the nature or extent of the legislation you intend to propose, but in light of the foregoing history, it does not appear that such would be redundant.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. V. Johnson announced the Administrative Rules & Regulations Review Committee elected Mr. Koch as Vice Chairperson.

PRESIDENT SIGNED

While the Legislature was in session and capable of transacting business, the President signed the following resolution: LR 2.

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 4.

Introduced by Mr. Koch, 12th District.

WHEREAS, the outcome of the recent election for President and Vice President was predicted early in the evening of November 4, 1980, by the national broadcast media, before the polls closed in Nebraska and other midwestern and western states; and

WHEREAS, the broadcast media based their predictions on election returns released by election officials of eastern states after the polls closed in those states; and

WHEREAS, there is strong evidence that the predictions discouraged many citizens in the midwestern and western states from voting and thus affected the outcome of many important and close state and local issues and contests; and

WHEREAS, the Nebraska Legislature recognizes the need for national legislation that will lessen the impact of election returns from eastern states on voters in Nebraska and other midwestern and western states and that will recognize and respect the constitutional rights of the media to report the news.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature urges the Congress of the United States to study and consider seriously the effect that the release of election returns from eastern states has on voting in the midwestern and western states.
2. That the members of the Legislature urge the Congress of the United States to enact legislation that will minimize the impact of the early release of election returns from eastern states but will not discourage any citizen from exercising one of the most precious rights of an American, the right to vote.

3. That the Clerk of the Legislature provide a copy of this resolution to each Nebraska senator and representative in Congress.

Laid over.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Clark announced that the Intergovernmental Cooperation Committee elected Mrs. Marsh as Vice Chairperson.

2. Each standing committee chairperson may designate two of the committee's bills as priority bills.

3. The Speaker may designate any additional number of priority bills.

4. Priority bill designations may be made at any time prior to the annual designation deadline which shall be set each year by the Speaker. The designation deadline shall be prior to the 45th legislative day in the ninety day session and prior to the 30th legislative day in the sixty day session.

5. A senator or committee may withdraw a priority designation at any time, but will not be allowed to designate another bill as a priority bill in its place. The Speaker may withdraw a priority designation made by the Speaker.

6. All committees shall schedule priority bills for public hearing ahead of all unscheduled, nonpriority bills unless the person or committee making the priority designation shall otherwise agree.

7. All bills not designated as priority bills shall be heard on general file in the order in which they are reported to the floor by the committees, unless the introducer of the bill and the Speaker agree to delay the hearing of a particular bill. This provision shall not be construed to prevent the Speaker from placing bills reported out of committee with two or less dissenting votes on a Consent Calendar. Any bill placed on Consent Calendar shall be removed at the written request of three or more senators.

8. Priority bills shall generally be considered ahead of all other bills at each stage of debate, except that priority bills requiring the expenditure of appropriated funds may be held on final reading until such time as the annual appropriations bills have been passed. The presiding officer shall immediately recognize such introducer or chairperson and shall then order debate on the pending amendment or motion to cease. The vote on the pending amendment or motion shall be taken immediately. Following the vote on the pending matter a vote on the cloture motion shall be taken. A 3/4 vote shall be required for the cloture motion to be successful. A motion for cloture shall be in order except while a member is speaking, and is not debatable. MOTION - Escort Governor

Mr. Kremer moved that a committee of 6 be appointed to escort the Governor to the Chamber to deliver his State of the State and Budget Message. The motion prevailed.

The Chair appointed Mrs. Marsh, Messrs. Kremer, Carsten, Clark, Warner, and Maresh to serve on said committee.

The committee returned and escorted Governor Charles Thone and Ruth Thone to the Rostrum where he delivered the following State of the State and Budget address.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, distinguished members of the 87th Legislature, and my fellow Nebraskans:

One hundred years ago the Governor of Nebraska was Albinus Nance. He was the 5th of our Governors. In January, 1881, at the end of his first two years in office, he stood before the Legislature. He pronounced the State of the State as sound.

Now, the 34th Governor of Nebraska is Charley Thone. In January, 1981, at the end of his first two years in office, he stands before the Legislature. His message is the same as that delivered 100 years ago: the State of the State is sound!

In 1881, the United States of America had many serious problems. Despite those national obstacles, the youthful Governor Nance believed that the State of Nebraska could grow and prosper.

As settlement advanced across the state with the development of the railroads and the influx of thousands of thrifty, hard working immigrants from Europe, the youthful Governor Nance foresaw that "as an agricultural state, Nebraska will have no superior, with a large amount of land devoted to grazing in the western part." Senator Goll reechoed the importance of our basic industry just last week when he said, "If agriculture prospers, so will main street" . . . and food becomes more and more important internationally day by day.

In 1981, the United States of America has many serious problems. Despite those national obstacles, the not-so-youthful Governor Thone believes that the State of Nebraska can grow and prosper. Without doubt, the best years are yet ahead.

Do you share my optimism?

Our faith in the strength of Nebraska is well justified. In the past year, the nation has been battered by economic storms. Yet our state has made some advances. Let me share with you preliminary figures from the State Department of Economic Development. They show that, in 1980, 22 new industries located in Nebraska—creating almost 1,300 additional jobs. They also show that 63 existing industries expanded last year—to increase their employees by nearly 1,400 people. This is good, but we can do better!

During 2 months in the last 7 for which state-by-state unemployment figures have been reported, Nebraska has had the lowest jobless rate of any state in the nation. And that is good!

One reason that Nebraska is not experiencing the worst of the national recession is the diversity of our state economy.

Another reason for Nebraska's strength is because of our tax policy. Actions of the Legislature and the Governor have left more income in the pockets of the people of this state.

In the past 2 years, we have reduced the state income tax from 18 percent of the federal tax liability to 15 percent. That means that Nebraska citizens and businesses will have more than 100 million dollars to invest and spend that otherwise would have been taken by state government.

We also provided 70 million dollars of state aid in property and other tax relief last year.

These reductions in taxes just mentioned would not have been possible had we not held the state budget to increases of 7 percent. You will recall that the only exception to that self-imposed lid occured last year with the $40 million increase to state aid to education; $20 million of which I approved, and $20 million which was passed over my veto.

Yes, the Legislature and Governor have not always agreed on precisely where restraints on state spending should be applied. Last year, I exercised my constitutional responsibility and vetoed some 54 million dollars in spending approved by the Legislature.

We have been criticized—you and I—for our actions in holding the line on state spending. We have been accused of lacking "bold new leadership." Too often, I have found, these words, "bold, new leadership," are code words for new spending programs. I submit that it requires more boldness, more courage and more leadership to do the necessary job and to maintain and support a policy of fiscal restraint.

I have every confidence that view is shared by the over-whelming majority of Nebraskans.

And, I believe, it is now shared by some of our neighboring states. Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota didn't exhibit the fiscal restraint that Nebraska did. While Nebraska is cutting taxes, our neighbors are in deep trouble. Because of lack of revenue they are having to make drastic cuts in funds already appropriated by their Legislatures and approved by their Governors.

The budget I submit to you today is consistent with the philosophy of fiscal prudence I have described. It is within the 7 percent operating increase we have adopted the past two years. Let's remember that 7 percent is the limit the Legislature has imposed on local governments. A lid which I support, if there be any question about it.

Hard work and even harder decisions underlie the budget I recommend to you. It is a pretty austere budget. It is, nevertheless, a budget which carries forward every necessary service. It even provides for improvement in some priority programs.

Those groups and individuals who demand an open door to the state treasury will be disappointed. I repeat what I said last year: "Government is not, never was, and cannot be all things to all people. Our budgetary task, difficult as it is, is to allocate the limited resources available with wisdom and self-restraint."

My budget recommendations are based on forecasts recently completed by the Department of Revenue and shared with your Appropriations Committee. These forecasts necessarily reflect economic uncertainties. The unknowns include 1981 congressional action on federal income tax reductions. My budget maintains the current state income tax rate just reduced to 15 percent last November. My budget maintains the current sales tax rate of three percent. This no tax increase, but very adequate budget, must be one of your top priorities for this session, I strongly urge. I assure you it will be one of mine.

I now renew my request of last year—that the State Board of Equalization be given the authority to set sales and income tax rates in smaller increments. Flexibility is needed to fine-tune our revenue system. And, by the way, thank you for giving the Tax Commissioner and the State Board of Equalization the tools and money to pretty much straighten out the property tax valuation mess our administration inherited.

As I forewarned last year, the federal revenue-sharing program for state governments has been terminated. Its prospects for new life are bleak. This budget necessarily replaces those federal dollars with state General Fund dollars.

It will not be my policy, however, to recommend General Fund dollars to offset all lost federal funds. State government is under severe fiscal pressures. On the one hand, there will be growing demands for the state to take over expiring federal programs. But on the other hand, there will be even faster growing demands for more state assistance to local governments. Economic conditions and our limited state resources require that we respond prudently and with great caution.

The budget I am presenting anticipates net receipts to the General Fund during fiscal 1982 of 721.9 million dollars. Fiscal 1981 ending clear balances, minus anticipated deficits and transfers, including anticipated lapses, are estimated at 37.9 million dollars. Those 2 figures provide a General Fund total of 759.8 million dollars in Fiscal 1982.

To offset any shortfall in projected revenue receipts, I recommend a 5 percent General Fund reserve.

Of the total General Fund budget of 721.2 million dollars, I recommend 706.7 million dollars for state operations and state aid.

Included in the state operating and aid budget are 383.8 million dollars—or 54.3 percent of the total—for state aid to local subdivisions and aid to individuals. Some 167.3 million dollars—or 23.7 percent—is for post-secondary education. That leaves 155.6 million dollars—or just 22 percent of the total—for all other operations of state government.

My General Fund recommendation for capital construction is 14.5 million dollars. I recommend continuing funding for projects for which partial appropriations have previously been provided. I support continuation of the LB 309 program for deferred building maintenance, handicapped access, and energy-related projects.

Moreover, I recommend and have provided funding for the development of six-year comprehensive master plans by the University of Nebraska, the state colleges, and the Department of Administrative Services. Such planning is necessary to insure adequate utilization of existing buildings. It will permit better evaluation of requests for new facilities.

I suggest your cautious appraisal of all proposed new or expanded programs that are set before you. Particularly, I urge you to insist on having the full annual costs of such programs accurately computed and widely disseminated. Future budgets and budgetary planning will depend heavily on decisions made this year.

Last year, I reported to you that the administration would seek improvement in competitive salary levels through pay grade and classification revisions and adjustments. On the basis of its salary survey, the State Department of Personnel adopted as its first priority the revision of state workers in the labor, trades and crafts area. As a result of this review, which encompassed almost 10 percent of the non-postsecondary education work force, the first reclassification and commensurate pay increases of a major occupational category were accomplished.

The Department of Personnel is now preparing a new pay and job classification system which reduces the total number of pay grades. This new pay and classification system will be ready for implementation July 1, 1981. My recommendations include authorizing state agencies to use no more than 2 percent of their personal services budgets for conversion to the new pay and classification plan. This 2 percent will be made available by savings through the hiring freeze and other reductions made by state agencies.

I also recommend for your approval an 8 percent increase in state employees' salaries effective July 1, 1981. Later, I shall recommend that the state undertake the major portion of any additional premiums necessary under the state employees' health plan. For 3 years there has been no increase in premiums. The Director of the Department of Insurance is now requesting bids on the health plan. When this process is complete, I shall inform you and deliver my recommendations.

Our postsecondary education institutions do not participate in this health plan. I therefore included in my budget an increase of 8 percent for salaries and wages for the University of Nebraska and the state colleges, and an additional 1 percent for salary or benefit improvement.

Last year I indicated to you some progress in efforts to limit growth in the number of state employees. On July 1, 1980, I ordered agencies under my direct control to implement a hiring freeze. Other boards, agencies and commissions were requested to comply voluntarily. The past 6 months have brought a net reduction in permanent full-time positions of more than 700. Those reductions were achieved even while opening and staffing the new veteran's hospital in Omaha. Quality and less quantity must still be the goal on state employment.

A hiring freeze by its very ntaure is unselective. We have exempted from the freeze most positions involving direct care of patients or supervision of prisoners. Overall, state employees have responded admirably to the burdens of the hiring freeze. Some of the dollars saved have been and should be reallocated to improve salaries and benefits. The new pay and classification plan recommended today will, in large part, accomplish this objective.

In this budget you will find additional staff recommended for the new maximum security prison in Lincoln and the expansion of the Omaha Veteran's Hospital. The completion of the Omaha Correctional Center will place additional employees on the state payroll. We will attempt to meet these new demands without a net increase in the number of state employees.

I strongly endorse legislation tightening the procedure for dealing with persons acquitted of crimes by reason of insanity. Specifically, judges should retain jurisdiction over such persons.

All Nebraskans share my pride in our institutions of higher education: The University of Nebraska, Nebraska's state colleges, and the vocational-technical system. Their contributions to the present and the future are recognized and appreciated by us all. Indeed, support of post-secondary education is one of the largest areas of expenditure made by state government. And contrary to some pretty much localized reports, it is just not true that Nebraska has not adequately supported post-secondary education in this administration. We most certainly have and we continue to do so in this budget.

This year, I recommend a 12.8 percent increase for the University of Nebraska—from 128.2 million dollars to 144.6 million dollars—an increase of 16.4 million dollars. As in the past, I recommend that this appropriation be made in lump sum to afford the regents the opportunity to address the university management and program priorities within a systems-wide approach.

In developing this recommendation, recognized university cash balances were not used to offset General Fund support; and cash and federal fund estimates were left unchanged. In addition to increased funding for clinical and instructional services at the medical center, I recommend 150,000 dollars of State General Fund support for continuation of research activities at the Eppley Institute. Continuation of state funding for such research should be contingent on Eppley Center's demonstration that it can attract and maintain a quality staff and additional sources of funding.

Adequate computer facilities and services at the university are essential for instruction research support and administration. It is my recommendation that the regents make every effort, within funds provided, to place its computer facilities on a proper and solid foundation.

At the Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources, my recommendations provide for additional instruction and research activities in the areas of agricultural biochemistry and international agricultural marketing.

Consistent with my overall policy on capital construction, my recommendation for the university includes funding for fire and life safety and minor renovations. My budget also includes funding for the incinerator project at the medical center. No new major construction projects are recommended at this time.

For our state college system with campuses at Peru, Wayne, Chadron and Kearney, I recommend an 11.4 percent increase, or a 2.3 million dollar increase. I propose that 2 percent of the personal services budget appropriated to the Board of Trustees be used to address inter-campus salary differences.

Further, at Chadron, planning funds are provided through the design-development phase for the new activities center. At Kearney, funding is recommended at the requested level for the renovation of the A. O. Thomas Building.

The fiscal 1982 recommended appropriation for the technical community colleges is 10.6 percent, or 1.9 million additional dollars.

Nebraska's Educational Television network provides a rich variety of educational and cultural opportunities not otherwise available. My recommendations include a 19.1 percent increase for NETV to provide for needed equipment replacement. In addition, I recommend the requested Microwave Interconnect Project; and, I recommend that any savings from the North Platte transmitter project be used for additional equipment replacement.

Many of you have heard me suggest on other occasions that because we are limited in our resources does not require that we be limited in our resourcefulness. An example of that is contained in this budget in a 7-point program. It would improve the economic climate of our state by developing new markets and expanding opportunities for more jobs. The Nebraska Development Council will be supported by the University of Nebraska, State Department of Agriculture, Department of Economic Development and other state agencies. The council will seek to increase international trade, assist existing industry in the state, "market" the Nebraska economy both at home and abroad, provide training for new and existing industry, offer technical assistance to Nebraska communities for commercial development, and provide a program of research in new uses for farm crops.

My 1979 agricultural marketing trip to Europe convinced me of the need for us to have our own Nebraska office in western Europe. Perhaps it should be located with the Frankfurt, Germany office of the Old West Regional Commission. Similarly, I believe we should contract for a Nebraska representative in the far east, most likely in Tokyo.

This 715,000 dollar investment in agricultural marketing will pay generous dividends in the future. If we expect others to invest in Nebraska, surely we can do no less.

My recommendation for local sub-divisions of government provides for 70 million dollars for the personal property tax exemption program recently set aside by the Nebraska Supreme Court. On the final day of last year's legislative session, your body passed and sent to me LB 882. LB 882 made positive changes under the then current law and formula embodied in LB 518, passed in 1977 before I took office, for distributing state funds replacing local revenues lost through the exemption of various categories of personal property. LB 518 was at that time under constitutional challenge, and it was hoped that LB 882 would meet those objections. Rejection of LB 882 would, in my opinion at that time, have most certainly led to the successful challenge of LB 518 or to a special session of the Legislature. Hence, I signed LB 882.

I realize that all of you share my concern and sense of urgency in devising a solution to this most difficult problem. But, it is essential, let me repeat, it is essential—that a solution be quickly arrived at that allows for distribution of these badly needed funds not only this year but in future years as well. In directing local governments to operate within narrow fiscal constraints, and pledging the same ourselves, it is unthinkable that uncertainty over the distribution of such a large revenue source will continue long into the future.

There is no doubt that this will not be an easy task. Agreement on a fair and reasonable distribution formula will be most difficult to achieve even among men and women of common sense and good will such as yourselves. But we jointly, the Governor and the Legislature, have the responsibility for acting on this matter responsibly, with good judgment and with all possible speed.

Water continues to be an issue of vital importance to our state. During the coming months I intend to continue to emphasize and look for new ways to bring about water conservation from all our water sources, be it soil moisture, precipitation, streamflow, storage reservoirs or our ground water reservoirs.

In 1979, I formed the Interagency Water Coordinating Committee (IWCC) composed of ten state and university department heads with the Governor as chairman, to better coordinate water policy planning and water management issues in Nebraska. By a brief review of the minutes of the first 13 meetings, it is obvious that communication between department heads and agency employees who can and must work closely together has taken place.

For the first time, we have a management structure to get water agency heads with diverse responsibilities and points of view to sit down together and hash out those differences. It has been a very beneficial experience for all involved, and, as the Natural Resources Commission led policy issue analysis reports directed by this Legislature come through the commission I will have the personal input and views of each agency head to consider and carry out policy decisions on the key water resources issues facing Nebraskans in the decade of the 80's. You will find in my recommendations 446,683 dollars for the third phase of your five-year ordered water planning process.

On December 19, 1980, I made a major water supply and conservation proposal to the Natural Resources Commission, that proposal, which I am recommending to you today, would involve the dedication of 2 cents of the state cigarette tax for natural resources projects and certain project planning purposes. In addition, I will soon announce the appointment of a natural resources coordinator as recommended by the government improvement task force.

"The public interest demands the implementation of management practices to conserve ground water supplies and to prevent the inefficient or improper use thereof ..." I fully endorse and concur with that quote from section 46-656 of our 1975 Nebraska Ground Water Management Act. Our 24 Natural Resources Districts were given the responsibility to prevent irrigation water runoff and waste.

I believe it is time to take another step and assess state policy—to conserve our underground water supplies and manage our uses of underground water—by taking an inventory of how far along our NRD's are in ground water conservation. I am going to ask NRD boards and managers if they would be willing to report to me on their actions and progress through annual reports in 1981 and 1982 to my natural resources coordinator.

I'm not sure how effectively our NRD boards and staff have implemented this ground water conservation policy over the past five years. I am pleased that the responsibility was given to the local level, and I'm now interested enough to take the leadership to find out how well they are administering the 1975 policy. I would also ask that you now give the Natural Resource Districts authority upon vote of the people to create interim control areas before serious water decline occurs, during which time the district would gather data on the scope of its water problem.

I am pleased that the state water planning process has produced its final report on water quality. Senator Kremer, Chairman of your Public Works Committee, has informed me that legislation will be considered during the current session as a result of that report. A sound water quality bill allowing for creation of a control area to combat water pollution problems will have my support. As each of the remaining reports are completed, we will obtain all of the facts needed for sound decision-making on water issues. That will be the time for definitive legislation on water.

I intend to continue my strong support of our state's Natural Resources District system. It has long been my firm belief that local water problems can best be handled at the local level.

Nebraska irrigates 7,637,190 of 23,000,000 acres of cropland, and 85% of irrigation is from gound water. Serious problems have obviously developed. There are also conflicts between surface and ground water interests and users, and there is obviously physical interrelationship between surface and ground water. The final instream flow study and the ground water reservoir management study from the NRC will be ready October first and November first respectively of this year. A careful review by me indicates that major water law overhaul by you before you get the results of your own near two million dollar ordered studies is just not wise. A hard look now at protecting selected stream flows and adopting a sustained yield concept is most inviting, I concede. Proper water management and conservation are essential to our continued economic prosperity.

Replacement of our current bicentennial issue of state motor vehicle license plates is necessary. I recommend a $280,000 deficit appropriation in this fiscal year and 2 million dollars next fiscal year. This will permit the start of production so new license plates can be issued beginning January 1, 1982, as currently provided by law.

Necessary provision for state human resource services is a major consideration in my budget. Human resources covers many areas of state services. It is my intention to draw planning and coordination of these diverse services more closely together as recommended by the government improvement task force by naming a coordinator of human services. Significant benefits in service management, delivery, and access should result from this effort.

An increase in the aid to families with dependent children from the current 270 dollars per month for the first dependent child to 280 dollars per month is recommended. Also recommended are corresponding increases in the level of maintenance payments for foster children and the subsidized adoption program.

In the area of community mental retardation, my recommendations include 850,000 dollars to support movement of an additional 80 residents from the Beatrice Developmental Center and 750,000 dollars to continue services to those placed in community programs through proposals approved in the past year. Barring further federal roadblocks, medicaid funds will be available next year to support further deinstitutionalization. In addition, I recommend aid for continuation of community programs in lump-sum to the Department of Public Institutions. I will report to you at a later date my region-by-region recommendation, based upon the recently completed Touche-Ross Report. I hope also to report to you a conclusion to the lengthy Beatrice court suit. These important programs need to move forward under an agreed-upon plan.

My recommendations in mental health include the closure of the Norfolk Regional Center on which your Interim Health and Welfare Committee indicated concurrence. Closure of the Norfolk Regional Center is merited and will result in savings of more than 2 million dollars annually. Such savings would be available to enhance programs in our fine community mental health system.

To comply with a long-standing understanding, I also recommend that the statutory level of the Nebraska Veteran's Aid Fund be increased by 500,000 dollars to 11.5 million dollars, effective July 1, 1981, with a further 500,000 dollars to be added on July 1, 1982. The interest from this fund is used to provide grants to Veterans in need of short-term assistance.

The Department of Correctional Services continues to build upon the foundation of correctional reform laid out by the Legislature in LB 417 six years ago. The new Lincoln maximum security prison should be open by midsummer. Groundbreaking for the new Omaha Correctional Center should take place in early fall, 1981. My budget recommendation for the Department of Correctional Services provides a General Fund increase of 10.8%. In large part, this increase reflects the cost of additional staffing for the new maximum security facility. Also included in this recommendation is 25,000 dollars to expand vocational education opportunities for adult offenders and 60,000 dollars to improve opportunities offered in the Work Release Program.

Last year, on this occasion, I placed special emphasis on improving state government to achieve greater accountability to the public. Greater responsiveness and greater efficiency. On September 26, 1980, Earl Luff and 54 distinguished Nebraskans delivered to me a hard-nosed report. That document set in motion a number of initiatives which will have a profound and beneficial impact on the way we manage state government. It's time to shift back from Washington some of the programs rightfully belonging to states, but we must modernize and streamline state government to be able to most efficiently administer these programs. State responsibility, rather than just a cry of states rights, is the key here. And, economy and efficiency is a state constitutional mandate and of high priority in this administration.

By executive action I have already implemented some of the task force recommendations. In the months ahead, I will act upon many more. Speaker Marvel, Senator DeCamp and other senators are working on at least a score of legislative bills dealing with task force recommendations. To name only a few: establishment of a biennial appropriations cycle: a thorough forecasting of costs of new programs: consolidation of administrative support for an array of licensing functions: and strengthening of the Governor's accountability to the public by having additional agencies report directly to the chief executive.

I urge the Legislature to give favorable consideration to legislation to provide a new source of credit for hard-pressed farmers and ranchers. The proposed tax-exempt agricultural development revenue bonds could do a great deal to help preserve the family farm.

Faced with unstable farm prices and record inflation, Nebraska's agricultural sector is more heavily dependent than ever on the availability of farm credit at affordable rates. Agricultural development revenue bonds have demonstrated their effectiveness in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Alabama; and the Iowa Legislature recently authorized their use.

The bonds are secured by and payable from a portfolio of farm loans which are used to purchase land, buildings, equipment, machinery and livestock. Issued by the state, as mortgage revenue bonds now are, agricultural development revenue bonds are repaid from program revenues. No funds or revenues of the state are required to repay the bonds or to defray the expenses of issuance or servicing.

The success of the Nebraska mortgage finance fund is now widely accepted. The fund was created as a method of tapping the tax-exempt financial markets to obtain low cost capital to finance the purchase of single family housing by low and moderate income families.

The fund has the potential to provide further assistance to low income persons who have no other hope of buying homes in today's economy. To realize this potential, I recommend that the Legislature increase the authority of the fund in three areas: 1. Expand the Governmental Cooperation Powers to take maximum benefit of both present and future housing dollars. 2. Authorize the fund to use its borrowing authority to finance rental housing for low and moderate income persons, particularly the elderly. I am advised that today there is virtually no source of long-term capital to finance housing for such persons. Statewide, apartment vacancy rates, which averaged from 5 to 10 percent throughout the 70s are now significantly lower. When vacancy rates drop, rents rise and low income persons and the elderly are forced to vacate. I want to stress that the fund would remain strictly a financing vehicle. It would not own, build or manage housing. 3. Authorize the fund to provide rehabilitation financing for housing which fails to meet fire and safety standards and is energy inefficient. The fund is in a unique position to work with towns and cities to enable them to leverage their community development block grant moneys to increase by tenfold the number of low and moderate income persons who can be assisted.

Turning to the subject of unemployment compensation, Senator Hefner has discussed with me his bill to limit it to those who are unemployed through no fault of their own. I endorse this concept enthusiastically and urge the Legislature to take prompt action.

I also support legislation that would make the Attorney General, rather than the Legislative Counsel, responsible for the preparation of the explanatory language which accompanies proposed constitutional amendments placed on the ballot by the Legislature. As you know, the Attorney General already does this for amendments proposed by initiative petition. This change was unanimously recommended by the state board of canvassers. If it is adopted, the proposal would help avoid repetition of the confusion which last year surrounded the meaning of proposition 4.

Last year, the Jail Standards Board proposed local jail standards. They were approved by me, except for one standard dealing with the design of existing jails. I declined to approve that standard because it entailed a projected cost of 6 million dollars or more. The remodeling costs would have fallen solely and unfairly on local governments. I felt that spending lid would, in many cases, impede local officials from complying. The mandate to create jail standards came from the Legislature. It was, and is, my feeling that the Legislature should also provide a state share of the costs to local governments for bringing existing jails up to state standards.

When I addressed you a year ago, petroleum was in much shorter supply than it is today. The war between Iraq and Iran gives us prospects for shortages and even higher energy prices later in 1981. Therefore, we must continue and increase our efforts to conserve energy and turn to alternative fuels.

The people of Nebraska are doing a good job of conservation. They used about 9 percent less gasoline in 1980 than in 1979.

In the past 2 years, the amount of gasohol sold in Nebraska has increased by more than 6 times--and the number of service stations offering gasohol has grown by more than 7 times.

Early in 1980, I was the first Governor to order that all state automobiles use gasohol exclusively. And, since August, 2 Nebraska State Patrol cars have been driven using only straight alcohol. In 1981, we will convert additional state cars to operate on alcohol only.

Present Nebraska law provides that the Legislature should review its partial state gasoline tax exemption for gasohol whenever the use of the fuel in the state exceeds 20 million gallons annually. In 1980, the gasohol use was about 35 million gallons. I recommend that the law be changed, in order not to discourage alcohol producers from locating in our state.

In Nebraska, there are at least 50 sites where electricity was once provided through water power. It is again becoming economical to produce hydro-power through low-head dams. Therefore, I recommend enactment of legislation to allow Nebraska Municipalities to band together for financing of such power plants.

Under a federal program, the Nebraska Energy Office has for the past 17 months been performing energy audits on buildings such as schools and hospitals.

Results show that by following operation and maintenance recommendations of these audits, 20 percent of the energy costs can be saved, without any investments. Most state buildings are not eligible under this federal program. I am directing agencies under the Governor's control to request these audits and pay for them. Since these audits will pay for themselves through decreased energy use in a few months, no General Fund money need be budgeted for this activity.

Other details of my budget proposals will be found in the executive budget document which has been furnished you. I welcome--indeed, solicit--your careful consideration. I renew the invitation I extended to each member of the Legislature two years ago to call on me to discuss issues of concern. Let's work together. Like Governor Nance, I view "with pleasure the kindly relations which I have sustained toward those who occupy official positions throughout the state."

In the coming months, I hope we can work together very closely and harmoniously.

When Governor Nance addressed the Legislature a century ago, not more than a tenth of Nebraska's 48 million acres were under cultivation. Only a third of the state was populated. One hundred years is not a long time by many standards, but most of Nebraska's development has taken place in that period. When we reflect on the beneficial changes that have taken place since January, 1881, we can rejoice. We can renew together our commitment of service. We can vow to make the next years ones of even greater growth and development for our state.

It won't be an easy task. It will require wisdom and courage. Let us then, with the author of the old hymn, ask our creator to grant us wisdom, grant us courage, for the living of this hour, for the living of these days.

The committee escorted the Governor and Mrs. Thone from the Chamber.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 3

Dear Senator Beutler:

You have asked our opinion as to whether political subdivisions holding deferred compensation funds withheld from their employees' salaries pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1401 (Reissue 1978) may invest such funds in state or federal savings and loan associations. You state that you desire this opinion so that you may see if it is necessary or advisable to introduce a legislative bill this session. We conclude that such political subdivisions may make such investments.

Our court held, in Nebraska League of Savings and Loan Associations v. Mathes, 201 Neb. 122, 266 N.W.2d 720 (1978), that political subdivisions of this state were prohibited by Article XI, Section 1 of the Constitution of this state from depositing funds in savings and loan associations, except as authorized by Article XV, Section 17(2) of that Constitution. The reason for the prohibition was that a deposit in such an association constituted the acquisition of an ownership or proprietary interest in a private corporation or association, prohibited by Article XI, Section 1.

Article XV, Section 17(2) authorizes the Legislature, notwithstanding any other provision of the Constitution, to authorize the investment of retirement or pension funds of political subdivisions in such investment as the governing body of the subdivison may determine, but subject to such limitations as the Legislature may provide.

The question, then, is whether deferred compensation funds are "retirement or pension funds," as that term is used in Article XV, Section 17(2). The answer to that question is certainly not beyond dispute, but we have concluded that they are.

Deferred compensation plans for state and local government employees are authorized by 26 U.S.C. §457. This statute provides that sums may be withheld from the salaries of the employees, to be paid to them at a later time. Such sums withheld are not subject to federal income taxes in the year earned, but only in the year in which they are paid.

The answer to the question of whether this is a retirement or pension plan is made unclear by the fact that 26 U.S.C. §457 provides that the sums withheld may not be made available to the participant earlier than when he or she is separated from service or is faced with an unforeseeable emergency. This means that an employee who started participation in the plan at age 30 and who terminated employment at age 35 and took employment in the private sector could immediately receive all of the sums deferred. It can be argued that this is not a retirement plan, since the employee has not "retired" in the ordinary sense, since he is still actively employed, and has not qualified for the ordinary retirement of public employees. Furthermore, the provision about payment because of an emergency means that the employee, under certain conditions, can get the money while he is still employed by the governmental subdivision.

Nevertheless, we are inclined to feel that the deferred compensation plan is a retirement program. In the first place, one of the purposes of deferring the income is to avoid including it during the years when one is employed, and, perhaps, in a high tax bracket, and to permit showing it during retirement years when the employee will, presumably, be in a much lower bracket. To accumulate it for several years and then show it all in one year, while still employed, as in the case of the 35 year old worker who received it when he ceased public employment, would defeat one of the basic purposes of the program. We believe this is not ordinarily contemplated, but, instead, the withheld compensation is planned to be paid during retirement years, as a supplement to other retirement programs.

This belief is reinforced by §48-1401(4), which provides that the program shall be in addition to, and not a part of, any existing retirement or pension system. Further, in 1978 U.S. Code Cong. & Ad. News, p. 6828, we find a reference to salary-reduction deferred compensation plans as a means of providing retirement income. We are confident that most participating employees regard the plan as a retirement program, and the various plans are geared to that end.

The word "retire" is not defined in the Constitution to mean cessation of public employment at any particular age, or to preclude other nonpublic employment afterwards. In State ex rel. Haberlan v. Love, 95 Neb. 573, 145 N.W. 1010 (1914), the court used a dictionary definition defining "retire" as meaning to withdraw from active service, as an officer of the Army or Navy, or to separate or withdraw. Under this definition, perhaps any termination of service would be "retirement," even though the employee did not yet qualify for the agency's regular retirement benefits.

Furthermore, the Legislature apparently regarded the funds deferred as retirement funds, since §48-1401(3) authorizes political subdivisions to invest the deferred income in savings and loan associations. If these are not pension or retirement funds, such investments would be prohibited by our Constitution, and we would be required to hold the provision unconstitutional. We try to avoid that result, if possible. We therefore conclude that such funds held by political subdivisions of the state are pension or retirement funds, as contemplated by Article XV, Section 17(2) of the Constitution.

You also ask whether University of Nebraska, state college and public school employees may come under deferred compensation plans, either by virtue of §48-1401, or other statutory provision. Section 48-1401 applies to all political subdivisions or agencies of the state, except an agency subject to Neb.Rev.Stat. §§84-1504 to 84-1506 or Neb.Rev.Stat. §§85-106, 85-195, or 85-320.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-1504 (Reissue 1976) makes provision for a deferred compensation program for "any state employee or any judge who is not a state employee, including a person under contract providing services to the state who is not employed by the University of Nebraska, or any of the state colleges, or technical community colleges."

Neb.Rev.Stat. §85-106 (Supp. 1980) authorizes the Board of Regents to enter into agreements with its employees for a reduction of salary or wages for the purchase by the Board of Regents of annuity contracts for such employees, under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §85-195 (Supp. 1980) authorizes the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges, any technical community college area board, and the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska to enter into similar contracts with their employees, under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended. Section 85-320 (Supp. 1980) gives the same authority to the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges.

Section 48-1401 applies to any political subdivision of the State of Nebraska, with the exceptions noted. A public school district is a political subdivision of the state, and is not specifically excepted by §48-1401. Therefore, public school districts may offer deferred compensation programs to their employees pursuant to that section.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 4

Dear Senator Sieck:

By letter dated January 13, 1981, you requested from this office an opinion on the constitutionality of LB 58 introduced in the 1981 legislative session. Inasmuch as your letter did not reveal constitutional concern for any particular aspect of LB 58, and not wanting to engage in guesswork or speculation, we limited our review to two issues and conclude as follows:

LB 58 envisions a grant of power only to airport authorities of cities of the primary class. While the Legislature may make reasonable classifications of persons, property or corporations, including public corporations, for the purpose of legislation concerning them, Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution requires that such classifications must rest upon real differences in situation and circumstances surrounding the members of any class relative to the subject of the legislation. The obvious question which arises from recognition of this precept is whether there is any valid reason for limiting the grant of power to so transfer title to land only to airport authorities of primary class cities. It strikes us that there may well be no such valid reason, and if so, LB 58 is constitutionally suspect.

Second, we note that LB 58 would empower airport authorities of primary class cities to transfer title to land for research purposes only to nonprofit corporations. This gives rise to the question of whether LB 58 grants a special privilege, right, or power to a class of entities, nonprofit corporations, which also is forbidden by Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution. The answer to this question will depend on whether there is a substantial difference of situation or circumstance relative to nonprofit corporations that would naturally suggest the limitation of the grant of power envisioned by LB 58 to such corporations. Frankly, we are not able to resolve this question on the basis of the scant information incorporated in LB 58 and your January 13 letter. Nevertheless, we felt this issue important enough to call to your attention.

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

MESSAGE FROM THE STATE TREASURER

January 16, 1981

President Luedtke, Speaker Marvel, and Members of the 87th, 1st Session,
Nebraska Legislature

Section 84-602, Revised Statutes of Nebraska, Reissue of 1976, requires, as a duty of the State Treasurer, to report "a detailed statement of the condition of the treasury and its operations for the preceding fiscal year."

Your present Treasurer is unaware of the complete intent of the "detailed statement" wording, to which this statute makes reference. Alternatively, we respectfully suggest that any legislator or interested person seeking more complete treasury information will be promptly assisted by our staff to interpret and inspect any treasury record.

Our records indicate that during the last fiscal period, July 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980, we received, deposited, and accounted for a total of $714,724,345.61. The balance on hand July 1, 1980, was $116,375,759.36. This was the best position of liquidity during my six (6) years in office, and the best ever in Treasury operation, history.

January 1, 1981, the treasury balance remained at $158,136,068.28 which reflects a very acceptable cash flow position.

This communication is not the place to describe in detail the latest innovative treasury management practices, in use. We do want to encourage inquiries and observatory visits whenever the Senators are so inclined.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Frank Marsh
State Treasurer

STATE OF JUDICIARY MESSAGE

Presented By Chief Justice Norman Krivosha
Nebraska Supreme Court

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Distinguished Senators, Fellow Nebraskans:

May I begin this first State of the Judiciary Message by expressing to each of you the Court's profound appreciation for your very kind invitation and for the opportunity of sharing with you the state of the Nebraska Judiciary.

This report which I present to you this morning is the report of the Supreme Court of Nebraska and not just the report of the Chief Justice. Just as a board of directors operates with its appointed members and a chairman of the board, so too does your Supreme Court operate. We are a collegial court in which all decisions, both those involving cases pending before us and those affecting the administrative process are reached as a result of a majority of the Court concurring in the action. And while there may not always be unanimity among the Court as to how each and every problem now facing the judicial system in Nebraska should be resolved, nevertheless, each and every member of the Court participates in the decision-making process.

This is the first opportunity that I have had to share with you the Court's thoughts as to what the relationship between the legislative branch of government and the judicial branch of government should be. You are aware, I am sure, that the Constitution imposes upon the Supreme Court two very separate and distinct functions. On the one hand, we are the highest court of this State and as such are assigned by Article V of our constitution the responsibility of reviewing each and every lawsuit which the parties may choose to bring to our Court by way of appeal. In that regard and in connection with that function, the work of this Court and all other courts of this State must of necessity be independent from all outside pressures. It is this very independence which Alexis DeTocqueville, writing more than 100 years ago in his now famous work "Democracy in America," saw as one of the system's most valuable attributes.

In making his observations, he wrote, and I quote: "I have thought it right to devote a separate chapter to the judicial authorities of the United States, lest their great political importance should be lessened in the reader's eyes by a merely incidental mention of them. Confederations have existed in other countries besides America; I have seen Republics elsewhere than upon the shores of the new world alone; the representative system of government has been adopted in several states of Europe; but I am not aware that any nation of the globe has heretofore organized a judicial power in the same manner as the Americans." We must not either ignore or forget this uniqueness of our system. Courts by design do not have constituencies. They are not created to represent the public at large. They have been created by you and the people to represent the law. We are indeed a country of laws and not of men. That distinction plays a significant role in protecting each of us from arbitrary and capricious action of government known to most of the rest of the world.

If the evidence introduced at trial is insufficient to sustain the government's burden to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, courts have no choice but to acquit. If evidence is obtained in violation of an accused's constitutional rights, courts have no choice but to suppress the evidence. No public pressure can or should change that fact. That is the essence of our legal system.

All of us today are angry and upset by the violence and unlawfulness being experienced in our country. But neither the blame for its existence nor the failure to eliminate such crime and violence can be laid at the courthouse door. Courts do not enact constitutions and courts do not pass legislation. The ability of a felon once convicted to obtain his release from prison, at a time far in advance of the announced minimum sentence, is beyond the control of the courts. Statutory ''good-time'' enacted by Legislatures and decisions of parole boards created by Legislatures have much more to say about a prisoner's release than do courts. Statutes requiring that the minimum sentence imposed by a court may not be more than one-third of the maximum cannot be ignored by our courts. And it is boards created by statute and not courts who, after a convicted murderer has been sentenced to be imprisoned for his natural life, commute that life sentence to a term certain, thereby often making the individual eligible for release after 10 or 12 years. If minimum sentences are thought to be too lenient then legislation should be enacted to increase the minimum. I am not advocating such changes. Those decisions are for you. I merely point out that the control over minimum punishment is in your hands, subject only to the dictates of the Eighth Amendment prohibiting cruel and unusual punishment.

The fact of the matter is that the problem of crime and violence in America is a social problem which each of us working together must seek to solve. No one branch of government holds the exclusive key to the solution. Yet, we should not, in our anger and frustration, seek to destroy the very system which DeTocqueville observed and which time has proven is our fortress of freedom. The courts' independence in the decision-making process serves as a significant guardian of that fortress.

There is, however, a second side to the obligations and duties of the Supreme Court and it is this second side which I would like to now address. In 1970 the citizens of the State of Nebraska amended Article V, Section 1, of our State Constitution to provide that the general administrative authority over all courts in this State was to be vested in the Supreme Court and to be exercised by the Chief Justice. Moreover, the article provided that the Chief Justice was to be the executive head of the courts. In a real sense, the Supreme Court has become an Executive Branch of government with regard to the administration of the courts. In those few lines of the Constitution the people of the State of Nebraska placed upon the Supreme Court and its Chief Justice the responsibility for administering and supervising each and every court within the State of Nebraska and all of its personnel.

Yet, that function cannot be performed either alone or in a vacuum. The Constitution has likewise vested in this body, the Legislature, the general authority to adopt and pass laws; to approve budgets; and to set salaries. It should therefore be clear that just as the Executive Branch of government cannot perform its administrative functions without establishing lines of communication with the Legislature, so too the Judicial Branch of government cannot fulfill its administrative functions over the courts without establishing adequate lines of communications with the Legislature. Not only does the clear logic of it compel that conclusion, but, likewise, Article V, Section 25, of our Constitution specifically provides that for the purpose of affecting the administration of justice, the Court may, and when requested by the Legislature, shall certify to the Legislature its conclusions as to desirable amendments or changes in the general laws governing the practice and proceedings in the courts.

What I simply mean to indicate to you is that the Supreme Court is obligated to do more than pass judgment on cases coming before it. It must administer the courts either by promulgating rules under its constitutional, statutory, or inherent authority or come to this body and seek legislative action. For that reason we desire to establish open lines of communication between our two branches of government insofar as the administration of the courts are concerned. We ask to be able to come to you and, as the Constitution suggests, indicate to you when we believe changes need to be made. To be sure, the decision as to whether those changes should be made must, in the final analysis, be yours. But if you are to adequately and effectively carry out your function and we are to adequately and effectively carry out our function, we must have the opportunity of discussing these matters with each other. And, likewise, you must be at liberty and comfortable to discuss with us problems concerning you and affecting the administration of justice so that we might provide you with the benefit of our knowledge and experience, if any, in the area.

To be sure, the Court must not pass upon the specific language of a proposal unless and until the matter, in fact, is brought before the Court in a proper action. But, it appears to us to make good sense and to be in the public's best interest if we can at least discuss with each other general concepts and attempt to arrive at mutual solutions to these problems.

To that end, I am authorized on behalf of the court to invite you to call upon us at your leisure whenever you believe that an appropriate matter needs discussion. As I have indicated, we cannot and should not pass upon the validity of specific language, but we are desirous of providing you with what information and background we may have. And likewise, we would ask you to consider extending to us a similar invitation so that, as the Constitution contemplates, we may, indeed, come to you when we believe that amendments or changes involving the administration of justice are desirable. Such action will not, in any manner, affect either branch of government.

No one for a moment has suggested that either the Executive Branch or the Legislative Branch of government in this State have ever sacrificed their independence by maintaining a relationship, one with the other. I would suggest to you that it will likewise be true that neither the Legislature nor the Judiciary will sacrifice any of its independence if a similar relationship is established between those two branches of government.

Having said that then, I would now like to share with you certain facts concerning the state of the Judiciary. Were I to attempt to provide you in detail at this time with all of the various activities of the Judiciary, I fear that I would have more than overstayed my welcome. I wish not to do so. For that reason, I shall attempt at this time to highlight for you the state of the Judiciary, its activities and future goals, and invite you to obtain from the Court such other and additional information as you may desire with regard to these various matters.

As I start to think about the condition of the Judiciary within our State and the work yet waiting to be done, I am reminded of the very wonderful story concerning the former English Prime Minister, Winston Churchill. The story is told that a group of British subjects paid visit to Churchill, the purpose being to express their displeasure with his behavior. During the course of the discussion, one of the subjects turned to him and said, "Mr. Prime Minister, we are embarrassed by your behavior--your cigar smoking and your brandy drinking. It is reported, Mr. Prime Minister, that you have consumed enough brandy in your lifetime to fill this room to the windowsills." At which point Churchill, it is reported, looked about the room, turned to the subjects and said, "My God, so much yet to do, so little time to do it." Indeed, that is the situation with the Judiciary of this State.

On the positive side, I think that I can report to you without fear of contradiction that the Judiciary of Nebraska, by and large, stands equal or superior to any other courts of this land. While there are exceptions, and those exceptions must be addressed, by and large, the Judiciary of Nebraska is composed of men and women of high integrity, moral character, legal knowledge, and devotion to the principles of equality before the law. In this day and age, that is not something to be lightly considered or quickly overlooked. To be sure, there are problems which we must address, but I am confident that we have both the personnel and the desire to meet the challenges and overcome them. Our Supreme Court is a leader among state courts. Its decisions are well-received and oftentimes cited as authority elsewhere. The individual members of the Court, present company excepted, are recognized nationally for their legal acumen. We need not take a back seat to any other court. We are among the leaders. And, likewise, though faced with numerous obstacles, we have continued to maintain a State Judiciary at the other levels of court which likewise is equal to or better than most state court systems. One may take issue with a judge here or there for reasons real or otherwise, but in the main I am proud to serve as Chief Justice of this state system and I publicly thank each judge of Nebraska for his or her service on the bench. Let me now share with you some of the problems facing the Judiciary now and in the near future.

In both my annual address delivered to the House of Delegates of the Nebraska State Bar Association in October of 1979 and the mid-year address delivered in April of 1980, I shared with the members of the House of Delegates our concern about the condition of the Supreme Court docket. Specifically, in April of 1980 I said, and I quote, "While we have reported to you (members of the House of Delegates) that much progress has been made in improving the docket condition, I must, nevertheless, warn you that there are signs appearing which indicate to us that further consideration must be given and further devices considered if we are to succeed in maintaining a reasonably current docket."

I regret to advise you that those signs which we observed then continue to grow as do our concerns. On January 1, of this year, there was a total of 622 cases docketed in the Supreme Court as compared to 494 cases just one year ago. Likewise, there were 205 cases at issue, unsubmitted, as compared to but 150 just one year ago. And most alarming of all is the statistic which indicates that during the months of September, October, November and December, new cases were filed with the Supreme Court at an average of 76 appeals per month as compared to some 52 per month for the same time a year ago. Should this trend continue, and there is no reason to believe that it will not, it should be apparent to everyone that in the not too distant future a severe and critical condition would exist. Should we continue to receive 75 appeals a month, we would have more than 900 cases per year on the Court docket. No appellate court can dispose of that number of cases and do an adequate job. We are, nevertheless, committed to the view that to the extent humanly possible, we will attempt to anticipate problems and design solutions to those problems before we are submerged into a crisis. We, nevertheless, believe that we must share those problems with you because it may very well be that ultimately we will need your aid and assistance in resolving those problems.

As is so often the case, identifying the problem is much easier than designing the solution. At this point in time we are relatively limited as to the solutions available. We are in part limited by our own judicial structure and in part limited by certain principles which we believe we should attempt to follow until there appears to be no other alternative. One of those principles is to the effect that the Court is intended to be a collegial court and, therefore, the decision-making process should be done by the entire Court whenever possible. Adding members to the Court and sitting in panels, sitting more frequently in division or sitting with only part of the Court each day but for more days per month does not fulfill that principle. The experience of the various federal circuit courts of appeal would seem to support the Court's view that the decision-making process should be by the entire Court for as long as possible and not by panels made up of various members of the Court.

Likewise, the Court adheres to the principle that the decision-making process should be performed by the Court itself and not by professional staff as is sometimes the case in other jurisdictions. Both the bar and the general public expect the decisions to be made by their judges and not by the judges, staff. While these are important principles, they do indeed narrow the posssible alternatives.

One may question whether a docket with 622 cases or 900 is so unmanageable that 7 judges and staff cannot quickly dispose of such matters. However, it should be apparent to anyone familiar with the law that making argument in support of a cause is much easier than making law in answer to those arguments. Experience throughout the country has disclosed that when courts of last resort are called upon to write more opinions than can carefully and thoughtfully be done, problems are quick to occur and only result in more litigation. The decision-making process at the Supreme Court level is indeed a clear example of where "haste makes waste." Decisions should be rendered only after thorough examination of the briefs and records, the cases cited, and, unfortunately, sometimes the cases not cited. The opinions should be drafted and redrafted with care and deliberation so that words are not gratuitously thrown into an opinion thereby creating future uncertainty. As we have already experienced, when we are not permitted that opportunity, confusion does arise. While every effort is made by the Court to minimize that happening at the present time, we recognize that even now such uncertainties occasionally occur and adding to the caseload will only compound those problems.

Should the docket reach 900, each member of the Court would be called upon to write an average of 11 opinions a month. All known methods would indicate that such a goal is not reasonably attainable.

Therefore, with the principles I have described to you in mind and with an understanding of the potential for problems, we began to examine possible alternatives. More than a year ago we began a settlement conference experiment in hopes that by bringing litigants and their lawyers together before argument in the Supreme Court some cases could be settled and removed from the docket. Strangely enough, the experiment has shown some positive signs. During the period beginning April 1, 1979, to and including December 31, 1980, 201 conferences were held before the Honorable Harry Spencer, a retired member of the Supreme Court. As a result of those conferences, 90 cases were settled and removed from the Court docket prior to argument. Strictly on a percentage basis, one would have to conclude that the experiment was successful. Unfortunately, however, because the procedure was voluntary the total number of conferences held were woefully few as compared to the size of the docket. A host more cases could have been disposed of in that fashion had they been brought to conference.

Because the response on a voluntary basis has not been as good as we had hoped it would be and because the results of the conference indicate some positive signs, the Court has now determined that some further experiment should be conducted on a mandatory basis in at least a limited number of cases so that we might determine what the results of such an experiment might be. Therefore, beginning February 1 of this year, we will institute what we now call a Prehearing Conference. All domestic relations cases and all tort cases will be required to go to this Prehearing Conference before any steps are taken in connection with the appeal other than filing the notice of appeal.

We have succeeded in securing the services of not only Justice Spencer but as well, Judge Herbert Ronin and Judge William Colwell, both of whom have distinguished themselves in the past while serving on the District Courts. The meetings will be held within 20 days after the filing of the notice of appeal and before either a transcript or Bill of Exceptions is prepared. The purposes of the meeting with the Prehearing Conference Officer will be several. In the first instance, the parties will meet for the purpose of attempting to narrow the issues. Too often appeals concern matters over which there is either no real dispute or at least should not be any real dispute. Likewise, the parties will attempt to agree on the Bill of Exceptions, the typewritten evidence taken during the course of the trial. Reducing the size of the Bill of Exceptions so that it contains only that evidence necessary for a determination of the appeal will serve several purposes. In the first instance, and not at all of little importance, is the fact that such an agreement may result in a substantial cost savings to the litigants. Bills of Exceptions are costly and whenever pages and volumes can be reduced or eliminated, the corresponding costs can be reduced or eliminated. Too often matters come to the Court with pages and pages of testimony involving the proof of matters over which there is no dispute.

It will not be easy to accomplish this goal. We recognize that. And in some instances there may not be any way to reduce the size of the Bill of Exceptions. Oftentimes it may be important to bring all of the evidence to the Court. Nevertheless, an honest effort will be made to try to minimize wherever possible. In addition, the parties will agree upon the preparation of an appropriate transcript containing the pleadings upon which the case was tried. Again, oftentimes the Court is confronted with a transcript containing far more documents than those that are necessary for the proper disposition of the case. Again, such efforts will serve the same two purposes: (1) reducing the cost of litigation, and (2) reducing the amount of paper which the Court must handle in an effort to try and decide the case.

Further by attempting to narrow the issues and limit, if possible, the matters which the Court must consider and decide, the workload of the Supreme Court may be reduced and, in any event, the size of the briefs will be reduced, thereby again resulting in a cost saving to the litigants.

And finally, the Prehearing Conference Officers will attempt to bring about a settlement between the parties. That aspect is, of course, of great importance in reducing our docket. And if such attempt is unsuccessful, they will recommend to our Court whether oral argument, either in a reduced form or any form should be granted the parties or whether the appeal can be disposed of without oral argument and whether a formal opinion should be written or simply a notice of decision.

Should this experiment prove successful, we will undoubtedly expand the program to cover all cases coming before the Court.

Such a program will require some additional funds, though far less than what would be required by the creation of either additional judges or an intermediate court of appeals. We had included in our budget request this year, funds sufficient to conduct this experiment. The Governor has removed these funds and we ask your favorable consideration in restoring them. The public deserves better. It is indeed a fact, justice delayed is justice denied. We must develop a system whereby such does not occur.

And yet, after all of that, I must nevertheless advise you that the growth of litigation may make it impossible for us to resolve the matters administratively and may, indeed, require us to follow the great number of other states which have been compelled to create an intermediate court of appeals. Before, however, we proceed to that step, we assure you that we will exhaust every reasonable administrative device. If and when we come to you with the suggestion that some form of intermediate court be created, you can rest assured that we will have exhausted everything we know how to implement and have no further alternatives available.

What I have said with regard to the Supreme Court is equally as true with regard to the lower courts. They, too, are experiencing continuing growth. As we have attempted to design programs to attack the docket problem at the Supreme Court level, we shall likewise begin to direct our attention to programs seeking to attack the docket problems at the lower court levels. The Judicial Conference which is made up of representatives of the various courts will be meeting next month and one of the items on the agenda will be that very matter. We shall continue to keep you advised of our progress on these matters.

Another problem which is of vital interest and concern to all today, including your Supreme Court, is the matter of court delay, real or imagined. The Court is of the opinion that the general public feels that oftentimes cases take too long to come to trial and too long to be decided. The evidence presently available to the Court discloses that such is not generally the case in Nebraska, though, to be sure, isolated cases may be found. In fact, that matter of docket control is not yet a serious problem in our State. Nevertheless, the Court believes that some type of rules should be considered for all courts at all levels so that both the court, the lawyers, and the litigants may be advised in advance as to what is expected of them. The Court has therefore appointed Justice William Hastings of our Court to chair a committee to study that problem and to make recommendations to the Supreme Court. After determining the extent of the problem, if any, the committee will be asked to recommend to the Supreme Court what rules should be promulgated that will provide the time frames in which a suit must be brought to issue once it is filed, unless good cause is shown, and once at issue, must be tried, unless good cause is shown; and once tried, must be decided, unless good cause is shown.

In all of these areas it is contemplated that the Supreme Court, in its administrative role, would be acting in a supervisory capacity. We have no idea as to what these rules should look like but we believe that some consideration must now be given to such matter. If for no other reason, the public must be assured that there is some system in operation that does, indeed, assure to them that litigation does not take any longer than is reasonably necessary, though, to be sure, it sometimes seems too long. That committee has already met and is beginning to consider the problem and the Court anxiously awaits their report and recommendations.

Another matter of vital concern to the Court, as it is I know to you, is the matter of unpaid child support. We have become so concerned about this matter that we have now instituted an experimental program in both Douglas County and Lancaster County. Let me say at the outset, however, that this is not a simple problem and the numbers involved, both in dollars and in people, are staggering. It is, indeed, not only a legal problem but a social and moral problem as well. Persons who before divorce refused to recognize their obligation to support their family, do not by reason of divorce gain that insight. Nevertheless, we must make every reasonable effort to try to see that the orders of the court are carried out and that persons entitled to support receive that support. We must, nevertheless, be mindful of the fact that no program which you may design or we may design will be effective absent sufficient funds for adequate personnel to carry out that program. Merely decreeing that one must pay or go to jail without the personnel necessary to carry out that mandate will not work.

We have, however, concluded that perhaps the most effective means of insuring child support collection is to take action before the delinquency gets out of hand. For that reason referees have now been appointed in both Douglas and Lancaster Counties who serve under the direction of the District Court and whose sole and only function is to meet with delinquent parents at the first moment they become delinquent in their payments. The purpose of those discussions with the individual is to try to point out that we are aware of their existence; that we insist that they meet their lawful obligation; and that we do not intend to ignore them. The programs have not been in place long enough to make any value judgment. Nevertheless, early indications are that these programs may prove to be the most effective means of attacking the matter of unpaid child support. We are hopeful that after some additional time and monitoring, we will be in a position to better advise you regarding the success of these programs. At the moment we need no further legislation to implement the programs. We may, however, discover as we proceed, that such additional legislation is necessary and in that case we will so advise you. I should further advise you that because of existing available federal funding, little if any, state or local money has been required to institute these programs.

I should briefly like to report to you that likewise during the past year the Court has further developed and adopted guidelines to limit when courts may be closed to the public and press; has conducted and is now conducting a study to determine whether there are significant disparities in sentencing; has appointed a committee to review ways of reducing cost of litigation and has successfully developed and implemented a personnel code and job description for all of the employees of the Judicial Branch of government under the supervision and control of the Supreme Court. I would like to make particular mention of the Office of the Court Administrator, and to thank the Administrator and his hard-working and dedicated staff for all their efforts during the past year. They have more than adequately met the challenges we have placed upon them and have performed in a most commendable fashion for which the Court is extremely grateful.

Many jurisdictions are now encountering all manner of problems not yet experienced by Nebraska but which time and history discloses will be confronted in Nebraska. We are fortunate to be at a time and a place when we have the privileges of examining many of these matters in our leisure and making critical and careful judgment with regard to them rather than having to make determinations in haste and under crisis. Matters involving the administration of justice should never, if possible, be made in haste.

The Court, therefore, has concluded that it is appropriate to consider potential and future problems and solutions involving the entire judicial system. Appropriate because of the constitutional mandate that the administration of the judicial system is vested in the Supreme Court and appropriate because the Constitution calls upon the Supreme Court specifically to make recommendations to you with regard to proper and necessary changes which should be made in the operations and management of the judicial system. Everyone involved in the matter recognizes that the ultimate decision is vested in the Legislature. No one fails to recognize that fact. Nevertheless, there is a general recognition by the Supreme Court that to the extent possible and with the staff available, we should attempt to put our expertise to work in an effort to bring to you all of the available facts and information so that you may make the appropriate determination. In that regard, then, let me take just another moment to share with you some legislation which has either already been introduced or will be introduced during this session affecting the Judicial Branch of government and its administration.

Amendments to the county courts statutes have been introduced in the form of L.B. 189. Those amendments are the result of some very thoughtful and careful studies by members of both the Nebraska Bar Association and representatives of the County Judges' Association working with the Supreme Court. We believe that the changes that are suggested in that bill will bring about needed improvement within the county court system. The principal changes will be to eliminate the "non-lawyer county judge" and substitute a clerk magistrate. The functions of a clerk magistrate will be limited generally to the handling of non-contested matters and matters which are in the main ministerial and not judicial. In 1970 when the people of the State of Nebraska amended Article V of the Constitution so as to eliminate non-lawyer judges and to provide all Nebraskans with judges who were trained in the law, this one area was left undone. L.B. 189 now completes the promise which was made to the people of the State of Nebraska that the non-lawyer judge would be eliminated. We ask your careful deliberation on this matter.

Likewise, you have or soon will receive a bill proposing certain amendments to the procedures for taking appeals from county courts and municipal courts to the district courts. Again, this is a bill which comes about by reason of a study conducted by a special committee appointed by the Supreme Court and chaired by District Judge Dale Fahrnbruch. We believe that these proposed changes will enhance the procedures whereby appeals are taken from county court and municipal court to district court and, likewise, deserve your careful consideration.

On a further matter, I would like to suggest to you as I have publicly in the past, that consideration should be given at the earliest possible time to merge the municipal courts which exist in Omaha and Lincoln into their respective county courts. The existence of the municipal court is a historical fact whose time, in my view, has come and gone. However, consolidation cannot come about quickly. There are, indeed, a number of problems which must be resolved, not the least of which is the amalgamation of the various staffs. In that regard, I would suggest to you that a study committee be appointed consisting of representatives of this body, of the Judiciary, of the Bar, and of the public at large to the end that a carefully designed, thoughtful program of consolidation can be developed. Consolidation cannot be brought about in this session, but I would be hopeful that a study committee could be appointed that would begin looking at this very necessary problem so that some positive action might be taken in the not-too-distant future.

In another area, the people of the State of Nebraska, in my opinion, wisely amended the Constitution to expand the authority of the Judicial Qualifications Commission. I believe that this expanded authority will afford to the Commission all of the tools necessary to ensure that the quality of the bench will be maintained at the highest level humanly possible. It is a delicate balance which must be maintained. On the one hand, judges must, as I have already indicated, be free and independent so that they can render fair and impartial judgment. On the other hand, courts and judges are created, not for the benefit of lawyers, but rather are created to fulfill the needs of the general public. The public is entitled not only to receive the best services that can be provided, but to believe that the system is so designed and so monitored that, in fact, they are receiving the best services possible.

The Judicial Qualifications Commission can fulfill an important role in maintaining and keeping, on the one hand, the independence of the Judiciary while assuring to the public that such independence is not abused. In that regard, it is necessary for this body, at the earliest possible time, to amend the existing statutes applicable to the Judicial Qualifications Commission so as to repeal those which now exist and adopt new statutes to conform with the constitutional changes. I am anxiously looking forward to the implementation of those statutes and believe that as we proceed with them, the public will be satisfied that their having amended the Constitution was, indeed, in the public's best interest.

Before departing I must make comment about one further matter. Admittedly, I am somewhat reluctant to do so for fear that I may thereby have overstayed my welcome and incur your wrath. I would hope such would not be the case and I apologize in advance. Nevertheless, if I am to provide you with the state of the Judiciary, then I must provide you with information concerning all aspects of the Judiciary. One of the areas which I must mention to you concerns the matter of compensation of judges. It is a matter which lies solely and wholly within your power, but, nevertheless, affects the Judicial Branch of government and its ability to carry out its necessary function.

There are three aspects which make up judicial compensation. One is the relationship of the salaries paid to the judge of the various courts. The second is the actual dollar amount paid. And the third is the future benefits or retirement provided for a judge.

With regard to the matter of the relationship between the judges, a bill has now been introduced which, if approved by you, would establish a system of setting salaries for all judges by setting the salary of the Supreme Court. The District Court and the Separate Juvenile Court would then be paid an amount equal to 92 1/2% of that which is paid to the Supreme Court and all other judges would be paid an amount equal to 85% of that which is paid to the Supreme Court. We believe that system, in and of itself, will be of great aid in furthering the needs of the Judiciary.

The bill as introduced to you is the result of many long hours of debate and discussion and compromise by and between the various judges of the various courts. With the exception of the Workmen's Compensation Court, all of the other judges of Nebraska have agreed that the bill as drafted is indeed an appropriate device to establish the relationship between the various courts and would properly establish their compensation. The numbers were not arrived at by accident, but rather after careful and deliberate consideration of what is now being paid to the various judges and how, if at all, it should be adjusted. Moreover, the adoption of this bill would put an end once and for all to the fighting among the Judiciary as to a share of the available funds and would establish their salaries in an appropriate and dignified manner. We ask your careful and deliberate consideration of this bill and your support of its adoption. I believe it will be significant and helpful in attempting to induce those not now on the bench to join us and to further keep those who are now with us.

The relationship, of course, is not alone sufficient. As I have indicated to you, there are two other aspects of judicial compensation. The second, of course, is the actual dollar amount which is paid. My concern about judicial salaries is not simply because I wish to obtain a raise for myself or for the other members of the Judiciary, though to be sure that is one of the goals. My concern, however, is much greater than that. It is because I wish to maintain the high quality of the Judiciary in this State. As anyone who has had experience with the law can tell you, no lawsuit and no lawyer is better than the judge before whom the case is tried. The best of the lawyers must be those who are willing to come to the bench--else all else is for nought.

I fear that there are signs now appearing on the horizon that indicate that the disparity between what the practitioner, either private or public, receives when compared with the judge is so great that it will be difficult to continue attracting the quality judges which this State needs and deserves. As vacancies occur, fewer and fewer lawyers make application. In Lancaster County with more than 775 lawyers, 8 applied for the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Herbert Ronin. And of those 8, 6 were already in the public sector. Similar experiences have been noted by us with regard to vacancies in the 6th District and the 11th District. Senior members of lawfirms do not as a rule apply for appointment to the bench. Experienced trial lawyers as a rule do not apply for appointment to the bench. When one compares the salary of the Judiciary with other public sector lawyers, let alone private sector lawyers, one discovers that there is even here a wide disparity. It is difficult to understand why lawyers in the public sector, paid by tax dollars, should be paid considerably more than judges in the public sector, also paid by tax dollars.

When considering the matter of judicial salaries, you must keep in mind that the cannons of judicial ethics preclude a judge from having any other employment, save and except that of a judge; and, likewise, preclude him from serving on any other corporation or board. Likewise, because of the potential for conflict, a member of the Judiciary is extremely limited, if not totally prevented, from having outside investments. A judge must live on his judicial salary by and large. And while, to be sure, it is not a pittance, and I make no claim to that; when one considers what these same individuals might today earn in the public or private sector as a lawyer, one must immediately conclude that a difficult problem exists. Nebraskans deserve the best and not just what can be obtained.

The entire judicial budget represents less than 2% of the total general fund commitment of this State and less than 1% of total appropriations. It would not require a great deal more in terms of the overall budget to ensure that the high quality of the Nebraska Judiciary be maintained for the benefit of the public who must seek justice before that body.

And finally, with regard to the third element of the equation, the matter of retirement, there will be submitted to you a proposal to amend the judges' retirement to conform to what has generally been recommended by your retirement committee. The amendments will simply provide that all judges, regardless of when they came to the court, be under the same type of retirement, rather than the varying types with their inequities which now exist. Again, I would ask your careful consideration of these matters. Your support of these bills will do much to say to those now on the bench and those interested in considering the bench as a career that the people of the State of Nebraska desire the best in their judges and are willing to encourage them to come and stay. It is indeed as true on the bench as it is in the private sector that it is a foolish waste of public funds to spend sums of money training judges until they become most productive and then have them leave the court for other, more lucrative positions.

If, indeed, there are judges who are not performing as you believe they should, the appropriate method to get at that is through the Judicial Qualifications Commission and not through the withholding of salary. If any of you had employees or hiredhands, most of whom worked hard, but one or two of whom did not, I assume that you would direct your wrath against those who were not working hard and not against those who were. By withholding adequate salaries for all judges, you punish those who work hard and who deserve better and leave untouched those who do not.

It was in 1829 that Henry Clay said, and I quote, "Government is a trust and the officers of the government are trustees and both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people." That description has not lost its appeal by passage of time. Indeed, government is a trust and each of us who serve are co-trustees. And as co-trustees of a trust, we must be ever mindful of the beneficiaries and their needs. We must never let our own anger or our own personal experiences stand in the way of providing for our beneficiaries and fulfilling the mandates of the trust. The Judiciary of the State of Nebraska stands ready to join with you to the extent it is charged by the Constitution to do so in carrying out that mandate.

As I began, so may I now close by again thanking you for your very kind invitation and your patience in listening. I apologize for having overstayed my time, but I believe it was important for us to share these thoughts on this our first occasion together. I am hopeful that you will find this experience of sufficient benefit in the work that you must do that you will again extend to us a similar invitation. In any event, we renew our invitation to work with you in furthering the administration of justice and the fulfilling of our administrative duties. I thank you.

MOTION - Proposed Rule Changes

Mr. Warner offered the following rule changes:
1. Amend subsections (a), (e), and (g) of Sec. 6 of Rule 5 to read as follows:

"(a) A copy of every bill introduced shall be transmitted by the Clerk to the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall review each bill and make an estimate of the anticipated change in state, county, or municipal expenditures or revenue under the provisions of the bill. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall prepare a statement to be known as a fiscal note to be attached to each bill prior to its public hearing by a committee, or its first consideration on General File if the bill is referred directly to General File. The fiscal note shall set forth the fiscal impact of the bill and the government subdivision affected by the fiscal impact as determined by the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. No bill which has a fiscal impact ~~of more than five thousand dollars~~ shall be heard by a committee or considered on General File unless the fiscal note is attached.

(e) When amendments to a bill are adopted by ~~a committee or~~ the Legislature and such amendments would change the fiscal impact of the bill, the appropriate changes shall be made in the fiscal note each time the bill is advanced to Enrollment and Review or upon the written request of an member of the Legislature.

(g) When any bill proposes adoption of a new program or change of an existing program either of which would require an appropriation ~~of $50,000 or more~~ to implement in the ensuing fiscal year , an appropriation bill for the purposes of funding the provisions of such bill shall be prepared from the information contained in the fiscal note. Such appropriation bill shall be prepared at the direction of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. Such bill shall be placed on General File and considered as introduced by the introducer of the original bill or by the committee which offered the amendments creating the expenditure, and shall bear the number of the original bill with the letter "A" added, and shall accompany the original bill through all stages of the legislative process. All bills for which an "A" bill is prepared shall be bracketed on Final Reading until the "A" bill is advanced to Final Reading."

2. Strike subsection (f) of Sec. 6 of Rule 5 and renumber remaining subsections (g) to (l) as subsections (f) to (k) respectively.

3. Insert Rule 8 as follows:

"Section 1. The purpose of this Rule is to provide a procedure for the Legislature to develop appropriations for all state agencies, boards, and commissions. Such procedure shall consider the need to (1) continue the services and financial assistance provided by state agencies and programs, and (2) restrict the growth in state appropriations.

Sec. 2. The Legislature's Appropriations Committee, by majority vote of its members, shall annually prepare a report summarizing the recommended total General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Such report shall include information based upon the committee's initial review of (1) state agency, board, and commission budget requests, (2) the Governor's budget, (3) the estimated revenue receipts for each year of the following biennium, (4) General Fund reserve requirements, (5) express obligations, and (6) economic conditions affecting the State of Nebraska.

Sec. 3. The report required in section 2 of this Rule shall be presented by the chairperson of the Appropriations Committee to the Legislature, or his or her designee, to the Legislature within ten Legislative days after the Governor presents his or her budget.

Sec. 4. Based upon the Appropriations Committee's report, the Legislature shall adopt a resolution which specifically establishes a maximum General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Any resolution or amendment to the resolution which provides for a maximum General Fund appropriation in excess of the recommendation made under section 2 of this Rule shall require thirty-three votes for adoption. Any resolution to endorse the recommendation made under section 2 of this Rule or any amendment to the resolution to reduce the maximum General Fund appropriation shall require twenty-five votes for adoption.

Sec. 5. Not less than one per cent of the General Fund biennium appropriation provided for in section 4 of this Rule shall be allocated for the funding of "A" bills, legislative bills that result in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, and amendments to the appropriation bills as reported to General File by the Appropriations Committee of the Legislature. All "A" bills which appropriate General Funds shall not be read on final reading until the Appropriations Committee has reported to General File the appropriation bills which provide for the ongoing appropriation to state agencies, boards, and commissions. Such appropriation bills reported, plus the allocation for the funding of "A" bills, shall not be in excess of the appropriation provided for in section 4 of this Rule. The appropriation provided for in an "A" bill shall be for not less than two fiscal years.

Sec. 6. In order to provide a standard for reviewing competing appropriation requests within the sane appropriation policy area and to provide a system for prioritizing appropriations, the priority for appropriations shall be: (1) Priority 1 - state appropriations to continue the services and financial assistance currently provided by state agencies, boards, and commissions; (2) Priority 2 - state appropriations for an increase to current appropriations due to (a) an increase in population or individuals served, (b) the cost of adding a new service, or (c) an increase in the quality of services currently provided; (3) Priority 3 - state appropriations for the continued payment of current aid to any political subdivision; (4) Priority 4 - state appropriations for increased aid to any political subdivisions pursuant to legislation passed prior to the effective date of this Rule; and (5) Priority 5 - state appropriations for legislation passed after the effective date of this Rule which requires the state to provide increased aid to political subdivisions or assume financial responsibility for services or programs currently being provided by political subdivisions. Such appropriation priorities shall be used by the Appropriations Committee of the Legislature during the development of appropriation bills which provide for the ongoing operation of state agencies, boards, and commissions.".

Referred to the Rules Committee.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 7. By Wesely, 26th District; Hoagland, 6th District; V. Johnson, 8th District.

WHEREAS, it is the responsibility of the Nebraska Legislature to determine which occupations will be subject to the restrictions and privileges of professional licensure in order to protect the health, safety, and economic well-being of the public; and

WHEREAS, the requirements and evaluation procedures for obtaining a professional license should specifically relate to the qualifications of an applicant to effectively practice his or her profession; and

WHEREAS, procedures for evaluating applicants and disciplinary proceedings of practitioners, including the procedure for handling complaints by the public, should be fair and expeditious to the applicant, the practitioner, and the general public; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of regulation is to protect the public and not the economic interests of the occupational group, thus, the public should be involved in the regulatory process; and

WHEREAS, professional licensure procedures should include assurances of the continued competency of each practitioner to the public he or she serves; and

WHEREAS, licensure, accreditation, and clinical experience, jointly, in any given profession is essential for the protection of the public health and safety.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Legislature approve professional licensure for an occupational group not previously licensed only when potential harm to the general public is easily recognizable or can be demonstrated.

2. That the Legislature, when considering a new area of professional licensure, should consider all elements of competency determination.

3. That the Legislature should approve professional licensure for occupational groups which are not independent practices and require supervision only after very close examination and scrutiny.

4. That the Legislature, when determining whether a need for regulation exists in an occupation and when determining whether to grant professional licensure is the most appropriate mode of regulation, address the following issues:

(a) To what extent has the public's health, safety, or economic well-being been harmed because the occupational group has not been regulated?

(b) Is there a high degree of independent judgment required of practicing members of the occupation and how much skill and experience are required in making these judgments?

(c) Has the occupational group established a code of ethics?

(d) Have alternatives to licensure been considered?

(e) Could the use of applicable laws and current standards or the strengthening of such laws and standards resolve the problems confronting the public or the occupational group?

(f) How will regulation of the profession assure that those licensed are competent to practice and what standards are proposed for granting licensure?

(g) Will applicants for a license be required to pass an examination?

(h) What assurance will the public have that those licensed in the profession will maintain their competence through such methods as continuing education?

(i) How will complaints of the public against those licensed in the profession be addressed?

(j) Will professional licensing restrict competition by the professional group?

(k) Will regulation increase the costs of goods and services to the consumer?

(l) Will regulation decrease the availability of professionals in the group?

(m) How will membership of the regulatory agency be composed?

(n) What will be the powers of the regulatory agency and how will their actions be subject to review?

(o) What groups are supporting the licensure of the occupation?

(p) Is the occupational group seeking to enhance its status by requiring licensure to practice?

(q) Is the public seeking greater accountability of the occupational group?

Laid over.

PRESIDENT SIGNED

While the Legislature was in session and capable of transacting business, the President signed the following resolution: LR 6.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 5

January 20, 1981

Dear Senator Remmers:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning the constitutionality of LB137 which you state "would require all people to show proof of financial responsibility before being issued a registration for a motor vehicle," the proof limited to insurance.

The present financial responsibility law requires that persons show proof of financial responsibility after having an accident of stated severity as a condition of retaining his or her license to operate a motor vehicle.

In the case of Hadden v. Aitken, 156 Neb. 215, the constitutionality of the present act was questioned in several respects. The Supreme Court of Nebraska in upholding the constitutionality of the act stated in part:

> The purpose of this Act is to protect the public on the highways against the operation of motor vehicles by financially irresponsible persons and thus is referable to the police power of the state. This power is inherent in every sovereignty and permits the enactment of laws, within constitutional limits, to promote the general welfare of its citizens. Therefore, in the interests of the public the state may make and enforce regulations reasonably calculated to promote care on part of all who use its highways.
> As stated in Escobedo v. State of California, 35 Cal. 2d 870, 222 P.2d 1: "The state, in the exercise of its police power, could constitutionally have required deposit of security by the owners of all vehicles as a condition to licensing them. (Opinion of the Justices, In re (1925), 81 N.H. 566 [129 A. 117, 39 A.L.R. 1023]; Opinion of the Justices, In re (1925), 251 Mass. 569 [147 N.E. 681]; Brest v. Commissioner of Insurance (1930), 270 Mass. 7 [169 N.E. 657]; Ex parte Poresky (1933), 290 U.S. 30[54 S.Ct. 3, 78 L.Ed. 152].) Instead, the state chose to allow financially irresponsible licensed operators to drive until they became involved in an accident with the consequences described in sections 419 and 420 of the Vehicle Code and their financial irresponsibility was thus brought to the attention of the department, and then to require suspension of their licenses." See also, Doyle v. Kahl, 242 Iowa 153, 46 NW.2d 52; Rosenblum v. Griffin, 89 N.H. 314, 197 A. 701, 115 A.L.R. 1367.

You will note the court apparently approved the language from the California case contained in the above case that a deposit of security before licensing could have been required.

We do not see sufficient difference in LB137 from the act approved by the Nebraska Supreme Court to cause us concern over the defense of the constitutionality of LB137 except perhaps in the situation where a party is unable to buy insurance because no company wants to insure him. Most states take care of this problem by including an assigned risk plan which provides that the state's liability insurance carriers are required to accept and insure individuals as equitably apportioned under a plan or, in the alternative, provide for a deposit of security by those who are unable to obtain insurance. LB137 would be easier to defend constitutionally if provisions such as those just mentioned were added.

Respectfully submitted,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 6
January 23, 1981

Dear Senator Higgins:

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of LB 256. This bill would amend Neb.Rev.Stat §77-208(1) (d) (Reissue 1976). Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2702(12) (a) (iv) (1980 Supp.) includes in the definition of retailer, "every person engaged as a public utility in furnishing telephone, telegraph, gas, electricity, sewer, and water service, and every person engaged in furnishing community antenna television service as defined in subdivision (4) (b) of this section."

Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2703 (Reissue 1976) requires retailers to collect the sales tax from the consumer. Section 77-208 (1) (d) now provides that the taxpayer (i.e. the retailer collecting the tax) shall deduct from such taxes to be remitted to the Tax Commissioner three percent thereof to reimburse himself for the cost of collecting the tax. LB 256 would amend this subsection by providing that such withholding shall not apply to public utilities.

We cannot at this point say categorically that this amendment is or is not valid, but it appears to be constitutionally suspect as constituting unreasonable classification.

Article III, section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution provides, with certain exceptions, that where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted. This provision has been construed many times to prohibit the Legislature from creating unreasonable classes. The rule is that the Legislature may make a reasonable classification of persons, corporations, and property for purposes of legislation concerning them, but the classification must rest upon real differences of situation and circumstances surrounding the members of the class relative to the subject of legislation, which render appropriate its enactment. See, State ex rel. Rogers v. Swanson, 192 Neb. 125, 219 N.W.2d 726 (1974).

LB 256 would make one class of all retailers collecting sales tax, except public utilities, and make a separate class consisting of public utilities, permitting the first class to be reimbursed for collecting the tax, and denying this right to the second class. It may be that some factual showing could be made that public utilities incur no expense in the collection of the tax, or incur less than other retailers. Or some other justification may exist which is not readily apparent to us. In any event, the court would have to be convinced that such a "difference of situation or circumstances" existed before the act could be upheld.

We point out that §77-2702(12) (a) (iv) more or less lumps together public utilities and persons furnishing community antenna television service, without defining the furnishers of the television service as public utilities. Therefore, under LB 256, the public utilities could not withhold the three percent of their sales tax collections, whereas the furnishers of the television service could. In many respects the two classes seem very similar, and it would be hard to distinguish between them.

In summary, if the Legislature were to enact this bill on the basis of some supportable conclusion on its part that substantial differences, relevant to the legislation, exist between public utilities and other retailers, the act could probably be sustained. Such differences are not readily apparent, however, and, at the moment, we consider the bill's validity doubtful.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 8.

Introduced by Burrows, 30th District.

WHEREAS, a new administration has begun in Washington and must deal with the staggering economic problems of the nation, including spiraling inflation, unemployment, and high interest rates; and

WHEREAS, high interest rates historically have hastened major recessions and depressions and have typically resulted in increased income disparities; and

WHEREAS, high interest rates force extreme hardships upon selected businesses such as home builders, farmers, contractors, manufacturers, shippers, energy producers, and major processors, which require massive capital expenditures for efficiency and quality advancements; and

WHEREAS, high interest rates force extreme hardships upon consumers, add to the costs incurred by American businesses which are passed on to the American consumers, and cause the inflationary spiral to accelerate.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the members of the Legislature send their best wishes and encouragement to President Reagan and his administration as it attempts to resolve the nation's economic and other problems.

2. That the Legislature encourages President Reagan, the Cabinet, Congress and the Federal Reserve Board of the United States to do all within their power to lower the rate of interest charged by any and all lending institutions.

3. That the members of the Legislature urge that the President, Cabinet, Congress, and Federal Reserve Board of the United States deal with the problem of inflation through means other than artificial increases in interest rates.

4. That the Clerk of the Legislature is directed to send copies of this resolution to President Reagan, members of his Cabinet, Nebraska's delegation in both houses of the Congress of the United States, members of the Federal Reserve Board of the United States and to the presiding officers of the legislative houses in each of the other states in the country.

Laid over.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 8

Dear Senator H. Peterson:

You have asked for our opinion concerning the constitutionality of LB 182 of the Eighty-Seventh Legislature, First Session, 1981. The same is hereinafter discussed.

If enacted into operative law, LB 182 would adopt a Balanced Treatment for Creation-Science and Evolution-Science Act. Section 2 of the legislative bill contains purported legislative findings that public school presentation of only evolution-science without any alternative model of origins abridges the United States Constitution's protection of freedom of religious exercise and of freedom of belief and speech; that it further abridges the United States Constitution's prohibition against establishment of religion; that it also violated the principle of academic freedom; and that it is not required by any compelling interest of the state. Thus, without more, it is readily apparent that LB 182 contains numerous conclusions of law. The powers of the government of this state are divided into three distinct departments, the legislative, executive and judicial, and no person or collection of persons being one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others, except as expressly directed or permitted. See, Neb.Const. Art. II, §1.

In State, ex rel. Sorensen, v. State Bank of Minatare, 123 Neb. 109, 114, 242 N.W. 278 (1932), the court stated:

> French legislators once imprisoned judges for failure to comply with the legislative will. Montesquieu suggested a government with legislative, executive and judicial departments, each independent of the other. The framers of the American Constitution and the people of Nebraska adopted that plan. It has been regarded by statesmen and philosophers as an outstanding advancement in the science of government. Throughout the judicial history of the present system the courts have scrupulously respected the prerogatives of the legislative and executive departments and extended to them the comity due to governmental divisions of equal rank, but courtesy does not extend to the surrendering of judicial power. It is an imperative duty of the judicial department of government to protect its jurisdiction at the boundaries of power fixed by the Constitution.

LB 182, in our opinion, violates Neb.Const. Art. II, §1. It is therefore unnecessary to consider at this time other constitutional issues raised by this legislative bill.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 9

Dear Senator Wesely:

In your letter of January 12, 1981, you call the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 32-1001.33 and § 32-1001.29 (Reissue 1978) to our attention.

Specifically you direct our attention to that portion of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 32-1001.33 (Reissue 1978), which requires the filing of a corporate surety bond by the unsuccessful candidate for the office of member of the Legislature seeking a recount and solicit our opinion as to whether this section is constitutional given the fact corporate surety bonds are not required of unsuccessful candidates for other elective offices. You indicate a desire to amend this section if it is our opinion that this provision is constitutionally infirm.

As to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 32-1001.29 (Reissue 1978), you direct our attention to the final portion of that section which allows the unsuccessful party in such recounts to recover costs including attorneys fees up to a maximum of $500.00. You ask our opinion of this section's constitutionality given the fact that successful candidates facing recounts in elections for other offices are not entitled to reimbusement for such costs. As in the case of the corporate surety bond requirement provision, you indicate a desire to delete this language if it is in our opinion unconstitutional.

We do not believe that either section is constitutionally suspect. Neither the Constitution of the United States nor the Constitution of the State of Nebraska requires that all persons in all instances be treated identically.

Generally speaking, only those persons similarly situated are required constitutionally to be treated alike. Therefore, while the Legislature most likely might not be constitutionally able to require such bonds and award such costs in challenges involving males but not females because both males and females are similarly situated and there is no rational basis for such a distinction. We do believe that the Legislature can treat legislative challenges differently than challenges to other elective offices.

Also applicable to your inquiry, are several other general principles of law which lead us to the conclusion expressed above. First, the right of an unsuccessful candidate to contest the election of his rival, is not a constitutional right, but purely a statutory right. Sutton v. Anderson, 176 Neb. 543, 126 N.W.2d 836 (1964). Secondly, as a general principle of law, courts would give preference to interpretations which would result in a statutes being constitutional as opposed to an interpretation which would render a legislative enactment invalid. Application of City of Seward v. Gruntorad, 158 Neb. 143, 62 N.W.2d 537 (1954).

Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, the Nebraska Constitution provides in Article III, Section 10: ". . . ; the Legislature shall determine the rules of its proceedings and be the judges of the election, returns, and qualifications of its members, . . ." In interpreting this constitutional provision, the Nebraska Supreme Court stated in State ex rel Johnson v. Hagemeister, 73 N.W.2d 625 (1955), that Article III, Section 10, gives the Legislature the power to determine: ". . . the propriety and effect of any action as it is taken by the body as it proceeds in the exercise of any power, in the transaction of any business, or in the performance of any duty conferred upon it by the Constitution." Therefore, given this constitutional provision making the Legislature the sole judge of the election of its members, and the provisions of Article II, Section 1, generally providing for the separation of powers between branches of government, we believe that a court would be extremely reluctant to pass judgment on the constitutional validity of either of the statutory provisions about which you inquire since they pertain directly to the procedure to be utilized in recounts concerning the office of member of the Legislature.

We therefore conclude that the two provisions about which you inquire would most likely be considered by a court to be a matter for the Legislature's exclusive determination or if subject to the court's jurisdiction, to be a constitutional exercise of the Legislature's discretionary powers.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 10

Dear Senator Warner:

You have inquired concerning the legality of a semitrailer which is towed by a farm tractor, and whether or not such a combination may operate on our road system without a license. We conclude that the operation of such a combination on a public highway is not permitted under current law. A farm tractor is defined in Neb. Rev. Stat. §39-602 (25) (Supp. 1980): "Farm tractor shall mean every motor vehicle designed and used primarily as a farm implement for drawing plows, mowing machines, and other implements of husbandry." Implements of husbandry are defined in subsection 35 as "... every vehicle designed and adapted exclusively for agricultural, horticultural, or livestock-raising operations or for lifting or carrying an implement of husbandry and in either case usually primarily used off of any highway;" It is obvious that a semitrailer does not fall within the purview of the definition of an implement of husbandry.

A farm tractor is specifically exempted from the definition of motor vehicles in Neb. Rev. Stat. §60-301(3) (Supp. 1980). Therefore, it is not included within the catagory of vehicles required to be registered pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. §60-302 (Reissue 1978). It may be operated casually on the highways of this state if that operation is incidental to its use as a farm implement. It is clear from the various statutory references that the classification of a farm tractor as a farm implement is dependent upon its use in connection with agricultural operations. Further, both farm tractors and implements of husbandry are designed for use off of any highway. The exemption from registration for farm tractors and implements of husbandry is in recognition of the fact that these vehicles are used primarily in connection with farming operations. As such their occasional and infrequent operation on a highway is incidental to their primary use.

On the other hand, a semitrailer is required to be registered and is designed for the transportation of persons or property and is to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Neb. Rev. Stat. §§39-602(89) and 60-301(5) (Supp. 1980). Although not specifically stated, it is implicit that a semitrailer be drawn by a motor vehicle required to be licensed and registered. In that farm tractors are not designed to be operated on highways and not required to be registered, it logically follows that they may not legitimately be used as a power unit on a public highway in combination with a semitrailer.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 11

Dear Senator Sieck:

On January 15, 1981, we furnished you with an opinion responding to an inquiry you had submitted for our review about the constitutionality of LB 58, a bill to authorize airport authorities to transfer title to land to non-profit corporations for research purposes.

On January 20, 1981, we received your request for a supplemental opinion asking us to review LB 58 in light of Sections 20 and 21 of Article III of the Nebraska Constitution.

It appears to us that the essence of your question is whether LB 58 can constitutionally authorize airport authorities to convey title of land owned by them to non-profit corporations for research purposes for less than the full market value of the property. We find no violation of Article III, Section 20 of the Nebraska Constitution by such an arrangement, but we can be much less definitive with respect to Article III, Section 21, which provides as follows: "Lands under control of the state shall never be donated to railroad companies, private corporations or individuals."

We feel compelled to note preliminarily that we are not convinced that the effect of LB 58 would be to authorize the sale of land at less than market value in many, if not most, instances. The land sold pursuant to LB 58 would carry with it the stringent and perpetual restriction that it be used only for research purposes. It strikes us that the market value of property so restricted in use would be significantly less than that without such a restriction.

Notwithstanding that it has been contained in the Nebraska Constitution for over a century, the Nebraska Supreme Court has had little opportunity to interpret Section 21 of Article III. Similarly, cases from other jurisdictions that might be helpful are virtually non-existent. Nevertheless, our review has given rise to several observations. First, the larger the discrepancy between the authorized sales price and the market or appraised value of the property, the more suspect is the legislation. Second, the less that the legislation authorizing the sale to a private entity furthers a public purpose, the more suspect the legislation is on the question of donation. Third, where the legislation would restrict the sale only to certain purchasers, the more reasonable, appropriate and valid their classification, the less suspect the legislation with respect to the question of donations.

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 12
January 28, 1981

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have submitted to us a copy of LB 284, and have asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of the distribution formula found in section 11 of the bill. We conclude that this formula is constitutionally suspect.

Sections 1 through 5 of the bill provide for an appropriation of $70 million dollars, to be distributed to the counties pro rata upon the basis of the assessed value of real estate in each county. The money is then to be distributed to the taxing subdivisions in the county on the basis of the property tax revenues to be received by each such taxing subdivision during the current fiscal year. You have asked for no opinion on the validity of these sections, nor of sections 6, 7, and 8 of the bill, so we express no opinion.

Section 9 of the bill recites the fact that the Supreme Court recently struck down sections 2, 3, 4, and 5 of LB 882, Laws 1980 (Neb.Rev.Stat. §§77-3601, 77-3602, 77-3603, and 77-3604 (Supp. 1980)). See, State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598 (1980). LB 882 and LB 882A had appropriated $70 million dollars to be distributed to the counties, and ultimately to the taxing subdivisions within the counties, on a basis which the court held was arbitrary and unreasonable, and therefore unconstitutional. Section 9 also recites that the subdivisions had relied, to their detriment, upon getting the money allocated to them by LB 882, that the disaster facing them was not their fault, and that it was the responsibility of state government to mitigate the damage caused by this situation.

Section 10 of the bill creates the Governmental Subdivisions Economic Emergency Disaster Relief Fund, and appropriates $6 million dollars to it.

Section 11 provides:

> It shall be the responsibility of the State Auditor to determine which subdivisions of state government, in reliance upon Laws 1980, LB 882, budgeted funds which they will not now receive, to total all the losses of subdivisions affected in this manner, and to distribute the fund created in section 10 of this act on a pro rata basis to the losing subdivisions to compensate them for their loss in this one-time economic disaster.

This section is far from clear. It could be interpreted to mean that the Auditor was to determine how much each subdivision expected to receive under LB 882, which it will not now receive because of the action of the court, and to distribute the $6 million dollars pro rata on the basis of such losses.

From reading your letter, however, it is obvious that that is not what you intended. What you intended was that the difference between what the subdivisions would have received under LB 882 and what they will receive under LB 284 be calculated, and that the $6 million dollars be distributed to those which will receive less under LB 284, pro rata with respect to the differences.

We find this provision of doubtful constitutionality. First, of course, it is vague and uncertain, and does not properly express your intention. This could be easily corrected, but the more fundamental objection is that we again have unreasonable classification.

The court struck down sections 2, 3, 4, and 5 of LB 882 because the bill put each county in a separate class, and froze the classes. There was no rational basis for the distributions under LB 882. Section 11 of LB 284 proposes to make a one-time distribution of $6 million dollars based in part on a formula which the court has already found unreasonable.

To illustrate, let us take two school districts, A and B, located in different counties. Under LB 882, District A would have gotten $175,000.00, and District B $125,000.00. Both, of course, took these sums into account in their budgeting process. Under section 4 of LB 284, each of them will receive $150,000.00. This indicates that, if the formula for distribution set up in sections 3 and 4 of LB 284 is correct and reasonable, the two districts are in the same class in the relevant respects, and should be treated alike with respect to the largesse of the state.

However, under the formula created by section 11 of the bill, District A will receive a portion of the $6 million dollars, based on its $25,000.00 "loss" while District B will receive nothing. We believe the court would strike down this system. It is an attempt to give some effect to the formula for distribution found in LB 882, which the court has already found unreasonable. An unreasonable formula cannot be the foundation for a reasonable one. We therefore believe that the formula for distribution found in section 11 of the bill would be difficult to define.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 13

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding LB 68 which would amend Neb.Rev. Stat. §48-818 (Cum.Supp. 1980). Said statute presently authorizes the Commission of Industrial Relations to establish rates of pay and conditions of employment which are "... comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid and conditions of employment maintained for the same or similar work of workers exhibiting like or similar skills under the same or similar working conditions . . . ." LB 68 would amend §48-818 by adding the following: ". . . except that the commission shall also consider, compare and adjust for dissimilarities in the financial capability of employers to meet the increased costs of altered rates of pay, hours of labor, or conditions of employment."

Essentially, the provisions of LB 68 would require the Commission to consider an employer's financial capabilities, as well as prevalent wages and conditions, in establishing rates of pay and conditions of employment. Our research reveals that numerous states enumerate the financial ability of the governmental unit employer as a factor to be considered by the dispute resolution body in establishing wages and conditions, although the language employed in articulating such criteria differs from LB 68. See, for example, Iowa Code Ann. §20.22(9) (c); Fla.Stat.Ann. §447.405(5); New York Laws Ann. 9 §209(4) (v) (b) (Cum.Supp.). We are aware of no cases challenging the validity of such criteria.

In our opinion, there exists no legal prohibition to the statutory inclusion of the criteria proposed by LB 68.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 11.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, in 1975, Nebraska applied for and received funds pursuant to the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act (JJDP) of 1974; and

WHEREAS, in 1976, the Legislature denied Nebraska's participation, mandating the return of funds due to a fear that the cost of local and State compliance with Federal requirements would far exceed the benefits gained by receiving the funds; and

WHEREAS, the funds were to be used to place juvenile status offenders in community-based non-secure/non-detention alternative facilities; and

WHEREAS, status offences usually stem from complex family problems; and

WHEREAS, the JJDPA urges participants to utilize more local, regional, and community resources in resocializing status offenders without moving them long distances from their homes and families; and

WHEREAS, the incarceration of status offenders plays an important role in the potential future of criminal activites by status offenders; and

WHEREAS, in 1980, the Legislature removed language from appropriation legislation which previously had barred Nebraska's participation in the JJDPA; and

WHEREAS, in 1978, the Legislature created the Office of Jail Standards, culminating in the provision for separation of adults and juveniles, which is one of the compliance factors for participation in JJDPA; and

WHEREAS, 40 other states have assigned the responsibility of status offenders to non-institutional agencies; and

WHEREAS, in 1978, the Legislature passed LB 700, removing the State Youth Development Centers in Geneva and Kearney as post-adjudication resources for status offenders and appropriated funds to the Department of Public Welfare for alternative resources; and

WHEREAS, the fundings provided by LB 700 to the Department of Public Welfare have been considered insufficient; and

WHEREAS, Governor Thone has recommended that Nebraska should participate in the JJDPA.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That Nebraska, in compliance with Governor Thone's recommendation, re-apply for funds pursuant to the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act.

"Sec. 2. That section 60-407, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

60-407. (1) No license or permit to operate a motor vehicle shall be granted to any applicant until such applicant satisfies the examiner that he or she possesses, with or without the aid of glasses, sufficient powers of eyesight to enable him or her to operate a motor vehicle on the highways of this state with a reasonable degree of safety. If, from the examination given any applicant, it appears that the applicant's powers of eyesight are such that he or she cannot operate a motor vehicle on the highways of this state with a reasonable degree of safety, the examiner shall require the applicant to present a doctor's or optometrist's certificate to the effect that the applicant has sufficient powers of eyesight for such purpose before issuing a license to such applicant. If it is indicated by such examination by the examiner or by the doctor's or optometrist's certificate that the applicant must wear glasses to meet the minimum visual standards set by the department, then the applicant shall have the use of any license issued to him or her restricted to wearing glasses while operating a motor vehicle. If the application to operate a motor vehicle required by this act discloses that the applicant for such license suffers from any other physical defect or defects of a character which may affect the safety of operation by such applicant of a motor vehicle, the examiner shall require such applicant to show cause why such license should be granted, and shall require such applicant, through such personal examination and demonstration as may be prescribed by the director, to show the necessary ability to safely operate a motor vehicle on the public highways. If the examiner is satisfied, after such demonstration, that such applicant has the ability to safely operate such motor vehicle, an operator's license may be issued to the applicant subject, at the discretion of the director, to a limitation to operate only such motor vehicles at such time, for such purpose, and within such area as the license shall designate. The director may, at the request of a law enforcement officer, or when he or she has reason to believe that such person may be physically or mentally incompetent to operate a motor vehicle or whose driving record appears to the department to justify such examination, give notice to the holder of an operator's license to appear before an examiner for examination to operate a motor vehicle safely. A refusal to appear before an examiner for such examination shall be unlawful. If such license holder cannot qualify at such examination, his or her operator's license shall be immediately surrendered to such examiner and forwarded to the director who shall cancel his or her license and privilege to operate a motor vehicle; Provided, that a refusal to appear before an examiner for examination after notice to do so or to surrender an operator's license on demand, shall be unlawful and any person failing to surrender his or her operator's license as required by the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a Class III misdemeanor. No operator's license referred to in this subsection shall, under any circumstances, be issued to any person who has not attained the age of sixteen years but, upon application therefor and proof of age in the manner provided in subsection (3) of this section, any such person may take the examination required by this subsection at any time within sixty days prior to his or her sixteenth birthday.

(2) A person who has not attained the age set forth in subsection (1) of this section but is over the age of fourteen years, except within metropolitan, primary, and first-class cities, may be issued, by the county treasurer, a limited permit to drive a motor vehicle, moped, or motorcycle to and from the school building where he or she attends school, by the nearest highway or street from his or her place of residence, if such child lives a distance of one and one half miles or more from such school. Such limited permit shall be used for the sole purpose of transporting such person to attend school, except that the holder of such a permit may drive under the personal supervision of his or her parents or guardian; Provided, such a permit shall not be issued until such person has appeared before an examiner to demonstrate that he or she is capable of successfully operating a motor vehicle or motorcycle and has in his or her possession an examiner's certificate authorizing the county treasurer to issue a school permit. Any such person desiring such limited permit may first obtain a learner's permit from the county treasurer, which permit shall be valid for a period of two months. While holding such a permit, the person may operate a motor vehicle on the highways of this state if he or she has seated next to him or her a person who is a licensed operator or, in the case of a motorcycle or moped, if he or she is within visual contact with and is under the supervision of a person who, in the case of a motorcycle, is a licensed motorcycle operator and, in the case of a moped, is a licensed motor vehicle operator. Such licensed motor vehicle or motorcycle operator shall either be a parent or guardian of the child or a person over the age of nineteen years who is authorized in writing by the child's parent or guardian to supervise the actions of the child in operating the vehicle. Prior to issuance of such learner's permit it shall be required that such person demonstrate that he or she has sufficient powers of eyesight to safely operate a motor vehicle or motorcycle.

(3) Each individual, under the age of nineteen years, who is making an application for his or her first operator's license or a limited or learner's permit, must furnish proof of age, either by birth certificate or written information signed by one of his or her parents or his or her guardian, to show that such applicant has attained the age, respectively, as required by subsection (1) or (2) of this section. All licenses and limited permits issued, as provided by subsection (2) of this section, shall be subject to revocation under the terms of section 60-427, and any person who shall violate the terms of such license or limited permit shall be deemed guilty of a Class III misdemeanor.

(4) Any person who shall have attained the age of fifteen years or more may obtain a learner's permit from the county treasurer which shall be valid for a period of twelve months and he or she may operate a motor vehicle on the highways of this state if he or she is accompanied at all times by a licensed operator who is at least nineteen years of age and who is actually occupying the seat beside the driver or, in the case of a motorcycle or moped, if he or she is within visual contact with and under the supervision of, in the case of a motorcycle, a licensed motorcycle operator and, in the case of a moped, a licensed motor vehicle operator. Any person who shall have attained the age of fourteen years may operate a motor vehicle over the highways of the state if he or she is accompanied or, in the case of a motorcycle or moped, supervised, at all times by a licensed operator who shall be a high school driver training instructor certified by the Commissioner of Education.

(5) Any person who is thirteen years of age or older and resides upon a farm in this state or who is fourteen years of age or older and who is employed for compensation upon a farm in this state may obtain a special permit authorizing the operation of farm tractors and other motorized implements of farm husbandry upon the public highways and roads of this state, if the applicant for such a restricted permit furnishes to a license examiner satisfactory proof of age and satisfactorily demonstrates to the examiner that he or she has knowledge of the operation of such equipment and of the rules of the road and laws respecting the operation of motor vehicles upon the highways and public roads of this state. Any person under sixteen years of age but not less than thirteen years of age may obtain a temporary permit to operate such equipment for a six-month period after presentation to the Department of Motor Vehicles of a request for such temporary permit signed by such person's parent or guardian and payment of one dollar. After the expiration of such six-month period it shall be unlawful for any person under sixteen years of age to operate such equipment upon the public highways and roads of this state unless he or she has been issued a special permit under the provisions of this subsection. The fee for such special permit shall be two dollars, and such special permit shall be subject to revocation for cause.

(6) The county treasurer shall collect a fee of ~~one dollar~~ three dollars from each successful applicant for a school or learner's permit."

46-631. The board of directors may levy and collect annually taxes necessary to finance the activities of such district to the amount of not more than ~~three~~ and ~~five-tenths cents~~ one cent on each one hundred dollars of the actual value of all taxable real property within such district. It shall, on or before the first day of August in each year, certify its tax levy to the county clerks of the counties wholly or partially within the district, who shall extend the same on the county tax list, and the same shall be collected by the county treasurer in the same manner as state and county taxes. It shall be the duty of the board to apply for and to receive from the county treasurers all money to the credit of the district. The county treasurer shall disburse the same on the order of the treasurer of the district.".

RESOLUTION

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, through the issuance of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds, has made possible for nearly four thousand low and moderate income families in Nebraska realization of the American dream of home ownership; and

WHEREAS, realization of that dream would otherwise have been denied those families because of their inability to meet the high down payment requirements and high monthly mortgage payments of conventional financing; and

WHEREAS, the housing industry in Nebraska, beleaguered by high interest rates and the high cost of housing, fueled by runaway inflation, has been materially benefited by the additional financing provided by the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund; and

WHEREAS, the 96th Congress enacted the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980, which was signed into law by President Carter on December 5, 1980, as Public Law 96-499, and which imposes such unduly restrictive federal requirements on the use of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds as to make the program virtually unworkable in Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980, because of its 1 percent arbitrage limitation, unfairly discriminates against the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund which, unlike similar agencies in other states, has not been in existence long enough to accumulate a reserve fund; and

WHEREAS, other provisions of the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980, are so administratively burdensome as to nullify the action of the Nebraska Legislature in creating the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the 97th Congress be urged to take prompt action in amending the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 to remove the unnecessary and unwarranted restrictions.
2. That each member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation be urged to support such amendments in order that the fine record of the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund may be continued.

3. That the Clerk of the Legislature forward a copy of this resolution to the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, the President of the U.S. Senate and each member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation.

Laid over.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 14
January 28, 1981

Dear Senator Warner:

You have asked certain questions in regard to appropriations made last year in LB 999 in light of line item vetoes by Governor Thone and an opinion of our office on the effect of a particular line item veto from last year. You indicated that it is necessary to have these questions answered so that the appropriations process for this legislative session may be taken in full understanding of certain aspects of the line item vetoes exercised by Governor Thone.

As background, in the last legislative session, in LB 999, section 5, paragraph 4, $13,000 was appropriated for the purpose of paying utilities at a bond financed structure on one of the State College campuses. Governor Thone line item vetoed that $13,000 by reducing the budget for that particular program by that amount. We indicated in a letter to the Director of Administrative Services that that line item veto of $13,000 should not be made up by the expenditure of discretionary funds by the Board of Trustees for that same amount. With that factual background, you ask several questions which we will answer in the order asked.

In your first question you state that similar line item vetoes of utilities language were made in sections 10, 12, and 13 of LB 999, Eighty-sixth Legislature, Second Session, 1980. You ask into what category such vetoes fit, either (1) a specific cut of utilities funding, (2) elimination of earmarking for the purpose of providing increased management flexibility, or (3) a combination of both (1) and (2). In investigating this matter we have determined, through information supplied by the Department of Administrative Services, that the reductions you refer to above dealt solely with earmarking of a part of a fund otherwise appropriated in those sections. It is our understanding that the line item veto of those earmarked sums did not result in a reduction of the amount appropriated for the particular program which was under discussion in those funds. This is unlike the section 5 action which reduced the total appropriation by $13,000. Therefore, it is clear that the line item veto was utilized for the purpose of excising the earmarked amounts but not the total fund. Thus, the earmarking of a specified sum was stricken but the total appropriation remained the same. Conceivably, that total would be available for any of the authorized purposes of that fund.

In your second question you ask whether or not it would be appropriate for the University to expend the state general funds appropriated by sections 10, 12, and 13 for utilities expenses of any facility. It is our understanding that these particular sections in referring to the underlying budget documents do include sums to be utilized for the purposes of paying utilities expenses as well as other expenses designed to fund the operation of University activities.To the extent that requires the expenditure of sums for utilities expenses, obviously the University would be authorized to expend those sums for those purposes.

In the second part of your question you ask whether or not this would include expenditure of General Fund money for utilities for revenue bond facilities. We would point out to you that Neb.Rev.Stat. section 85-409 (Reissue 1976) provides that the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges and the Board of Regents may furnish heat, light, power and other similar utilities to any building or structure for any activity covered under Neb.Rev.Stat. sections 85-403 to 85-411 (Reissue 1976) without charging those amounts against the revenue derived from the operation of such buildings. Thus, the Legislature has clearly authorized the expenditure of General Fund monies for the provision of utilities to revenue bond structures. The Nebraska Constitution, in Article XIII, Section 1, contains a proviso that in part provides:

> [T]he Board of Regents . . . the Board of Trustees . . . and the State Board of Education may issue revenue bonds to construct, purchase or otherwise acquire, extend, add to, remodel, repair, furnish and equip dormitories, residence halls, single or multiple dwelling units or other facilities for the housing and boarding of students, single or married, and faculty or other employees, buildings and structures for athletic purposes, student unions or centers, and for the medical care and physical development and activities of students, and buildings or other facilities for parking, which bonds shall be payable solely out of revenue, fees and other payments derived from the use of the buildings and facilities constructed or acquired, including buildings and facilities heretofore or hereafter constructed or acquired, and paid for out of the proceeds of other issues of revenue bonds, and the revenue, fees and payments so pledged need not be appropriated by the Legislature, and any such revenue bonds heretofore issued by either of such boards are hereby authorized, ratified and validated.

There is no specific limitation in this section of the Constitution which prohibits the Legislature from providing operational fundings for such things as utilities. It is certainly a questionable practice for the Legislature to provide such sums. The question would become even more tenuous if you were dealing with renovation or repairs or rebuilding such buildings should there be a complete loss with no insurance coverage. Obviously, a great many murky legal questions could arise were this section construed in an overly broad manner.

For these reasons, we feel constrained to say that while not clearly a constitutional violation, such use of general funds has serious constitutional implications if carried too far.

In your last question you ask whether or not it would be inappropriate for the Board of Trustees to use their Discretionary Fund to exceed the Governor's 8 percent salary policy. We would refer you to the Governor's veto message on LB 999, LB 998, and LB 1001, as well as his veto message on LB 995 and LB 996, Eighty-sixth Legislature, Second Session, Legislative Journal, pp. 1732 and 1854. We believe those veto messages make clear that the Governor is reducing General Fund appropriations to a sum which would fund an 8 percent salary increase for the employees of the Board of Trustees. We believe that veto message also makes clear that the Governor has indicated that if the board can come up with other money, they are free as far as he is concerned to exceed the 8 percent increase he recommended for employee salaries. We believe, given this factual situation, your question is answered by the terms of the veto message which the Governor issued.

If you have any further questions in this regard, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 15

Dear Senator Johnson:

By letter dated January 20, 1981, you requested an opinion of this office on the constitutionality of proposed legislation concerning real estate practices. Essentially, the legislation would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. section 81-885.24 by adding to numerous real estate broker unfair trade practices two additional practices. The first would be the negligent or intentional misrepresenting that a change has occurred or will or may occur in a neighborhood's composition with respect to religion, race or national origin, age, sex or marital status, or the negligent or intentional misrepresenting that any such change will or may result in reduced property values, increased criminal or antisocial behavior, or a decline in the quality of the schools. The second unfair trade practice would be the failure to identify neighborhoods or residential areas not subject to mandated school busing requirements when supplying information to an individual regarding busing.

The legislative objectives of the practices encompassed by the proposed legislation respectively are to prevent a certain kind of misrepresentation in the real estate sales process and to require that certain relevant information be divulged. It seems to us that such objectives can be said to further a public purpose and in that regard the legislation would appear to be a valid exercise of the police power of the state. However, we find constitutional problems with each provision because of vagueness and uncertainty.

It occurs to us that the essence of a misrepresentation is the conveying of false or wrong information. We note that the first provision of the proposed legislation purports to deal with a misrepresentation that a change in neighborhood composition not only has or will occur but may occur. Mindful that a present statement to the effect that a future occurrence may or may not take place cannot be said to amount to a misrepresentation, we find ourselves speculating about the practice to which this provision is to apply. Thus, we cannot ignore the constitutional principle that where legislation would exact obedience to a particular rule or standard, the legislation must not be so vague or indefinite so that the ordinary person exercising common sense would be unable to sufficiently understand it and fulfill its prescriptions. In our view, this first provision carries with it a degree of vagueness and uncertainty which renders it constitutionally infirm.

Similarly, we think the second provision fails to pass constitutional muster for vagueness and uncertainty. When a prospective buyer requests information about busing, the provision in question does not indicate whether the broker's duty to inform must include every block or every area or every neighborhood in a particular community, or only those adjacent to the residential area with regard to which the original question was asked. Moreover, the provision affords no guidance as to when the information obliged to be given can properly be restricted to a block or must include an area as large as a neighborhood. While the basic objective of this provision is discernible from its present language, we feel that it is not nearly certain enough to provide adequate advance notice as to what precise information would be required to be divulged in any particular instance during the real estate sales process.

You specifically asked in your January 20 letter that we review the proposed legislation for any freedom of speech violations. Your concern no doubt stems from recent United States Supreme Court cases holding that commercial speech is to be afforded the same First Amendment protection as traditionally has been afforded personal or private speech. Bates v. State Bar of Arizona, 433 U.S. 350 (1977). While this may be true, it also seems clear that a state may, without violating the First Amendment, deal with the problem of commercial speech that is deceptive or misleading in furtherance of its police power. The First Amendment does not prohibit the state from insuring that the stream of commercial information flows cleanly as well as freely. See, Virginia State Board of Pharmacy v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, 425 U.S. 748 (1976). Inasmuch as the legislation you submitted to us for review is concerned with misrepresentations, we find no free speech violation. Additionally, in view of the numerous cases which indicate the state may regulate the time, place and manner of commercial speech, we find no free speech objection with that provision requiring certain information be given in connection with school busing.

We hasten to point out that our conclusions with respect to the free speech analysis are based on the assumption that the proposed legislation is intended to deal only with misrepresentations rather than representations. Had the import of the provisions been to forbid real estate brokers to speak to the matter of the composition of any particular neighborhood at all, we are convinced that substantial free speech questions would have come into play.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

(c) The Tax Commissioner shall pay the levying sheriff, constable, or deputy commissioner the same fees, commissions, and expenses pursuant to such warrant as are provided by law for similar services pursuant to a writ of execution, except that fees for publication in a newspaper shall be subject to approval by the Tax Commissioner rather than by the court. Such fees, commissions, and expenses shall be an obligation of the taxpayer and may be collected from the taxpayer by virtue of the warrant. (d) Any such warrant shall show the name and last-known address of the taxpayer, the year for which such tax, interest, penalty, or addition to such tax is due and the amount thereof, and the fact that the Tax Commissioner has complied with all provisions of sections 77-2701 to 77-27,135 in the determination of the amount required to be paid, and that the tax, interest, penalty, or addition to such tax is due and payable according to law.

(5) Whenever any property which is seized and sold under the provisions of this section is not sufficient to satisfy the claim of the state for which distraint or seizure is made, the sheriff, constable, or deputy commissioner may thereafter, and as often as the same may be necessary, proceed to seize and sell in like manner any other property liable to seizure of the taxpayer against whom such claim exists, until the amount due from such taxpayer, together with all expenses, is fully paid.

(6) All persons and officers of companies or corporations shall, on demand of a sheriff, constable, or deputy commissioner about to distrain, or having distrained any property or rights of property, exhibit all books containing evidence or statements relating to ~~the subject of distraint, or~~ the property or rights of property liable to distraint for the tax due.

(7) The distraint provisions of this section shall not be deemed exclusive, but shall be in addition to any and all other existing remedies provided by law for the enforcement of the income tax provisions of sections 77-2701 to 77-27,135.

(8) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the commencing of any action at law by the Tax Commissioner to collect any income tax, interest, penalty, or addition to such tax due under the provisions of sections 77-2701 to 77-27,135 whenever in the opinion of the Tax Commissioner the commencement of such action

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MEMORANDUM

TO: The Membership of the 1981 Unicameral
FROM: Senator Richard D. Marvel, Speaker
RE: Rule 5, Section 6

Because of the adoption of the Priority Bill System, as embodied in Rule 5, Section 6, there are certain operating procedures that must be followed in order to insure compliance with the Rule. I suggest and recommend the following procedure:

1. Each individual member is entitled to one (1) Priority Bill designation. Each Standing Committee is entitled to two (2) Priority Bill designations. These designations must occur no later than the 45th Legislative Day which, under our present calendar, will be Tuesday, March 17, 1981.
2. Upon each legislator, or committee, determining his or her priority bill or bills, notice should be provided to the Speaker's Office. An announcement will be made in the Legislative Journal regarding priority bill designation.
3. Once notice is received, a letter to the Committee Chair will be directed to him or her, advising them of the particular bill's designation as a priority bill.
4. Once so notified, the Chairperson is required to set the bill for public hearing" ahead of all unscheduled, nonpriority bills unless the person or committee making the priority designation shall otherwise agree."

5. Assuming the bill reaches the full Legislature for consideration, priority bills shall generally be considered ahead of all other bills at each stage of debate.

I would propose that this policy be our operating policy with respect to the priority bills. I also would suggest that if you have concerns or comments, you should contact my office.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 7

Dear Senator Haberman:

By letter dated January 19, 1981, you requested an opinion from this office as to the constitutionality of LB 226 which has been introduced for consideration by the current Legislature and which would authorize the state, working through the Department of Environmental Control, to regulate water well and water pump installation contractors. More specifically, it appears to us that you wanted us to review the role the Nebraska Well Drillers' Association, a private entity, would play in the licensing of water well and pump installation contractors were LB 226 to be enacted.

Essentially, LB 226 would require each water well or pump installation contractor seeking a license to make initial application to the Association. While the approval of the application by the Association appears to be necessary before the application can be sumbitted for final action to the Department of Environmental Control, the bill sets out no standards or criteria for approval to be applied by the Association. Apparently, the approval process is to be left entirely to its discretion. We find this arrangement to be constitutionally impermissible.

One of the most fundamental principles of a constitutional form of government is that legislative power cannot be delegated by the Legislature to private entities. This principle has been confirmed in a long line of cases by the Nebraska Supreme Court which began as early as 1924. Elliott v. Wille, 112 Neb. 86, 200 N.W. 347 (1924). It is our view that allowing the Nebraska Well Drillers' Association to play the role contemplated by LB 226 in the licensing of water well and pump installation contractors would effect the kind of delegation of power the Nebraska Constitution will not permit.

Additionally, notwithstanding that Association approval would be a condition precedent to applying for the actual license to the Department of Environmental Control, the bill's lack of any standards or criteria to be applied by the Association in its initial approval process is even more conspicuous. It is our view that the potential for arbitrary treatment under this provision, and its vagueness and uncertainty as well, also render it constitutionally void.

It occurs to us that LB 226 would give to the Association virtual control over entry into the trade or business of water well and pump installation contracting. We conclude that the bill thereby would bestow on the Association a special privilege, the kind of which is prohibited by Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution. Moreover, while the regulation of water well and pump installation contractors might reflect a valid public purpose in general, the regulation inherently would interfere with one's pursuit of a particular trade or business which is constitutionally permitted only where the interference is fair, reasonable, and is not arbitrary or capricious.

Since the Association would not be required to apply any reasonable standards or criteria in its approval of prospective licensees, we are of the view that a prospective applicant is not provided the kind of due process safeguards with respect to the interference in his or her pursuit of a lawful trade or business which is required by the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution, and by Article I, Sections 1, 3, 16, and 25, of the Nebraska Constitution.

With respect to your concern about possible antitrust implications of LB 226, we can be less definitive. We do feel that to the extent the bill would effectively grant to the Association monopolistic control over the entry into water well and pump installation contracting, as we think it would, the climate would be much more ripe for possible antitrust violations than otherwise would be the case.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Newell asked unanimous consent to print the following amendments to LB 211 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

Req. #2051

1. Insert a new section as follows:

"Section 1. That section 77-2715, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

77-2715. (1) A tax is hereby imposed for each taxable year on the entire income of every resident individual of this state and on the income of every nonresident individual of this state which is derived from sources within this state. The tax shall be a flat percentage of, for each resident individual, the taxpayer's adjusted federal income tax liability for the taxable year, and for each nonresident individual, the taxpayer's adjusted federal income tax liability for the taxable year which is attributable to income derived from sources within this state.

The taxpayer's adjusted federal income tax liability shall be the amount of federal income tax, as determined under Subtitle A, Chapter I, subchapter A, Parts I, V, and VI of the Internal Revenue Code, for which the taxpayer would have been liable if such taxpayer had paid federal income tax based on federal taxable income as adjusted by the modifications provided in section 77-2716 without any allowance for credits against such tax permitted under the Internal Revenue Code.

The adjusted federal income tax liability of each nonresident individual taxpayer which is attributable to income derived from sources within this state shall be determined by multiplying his or her adjusted federal income tax liability by a fraction, the numerator of which is his or her taxable income derived from sources within this state as determined by section 77-2733, and the denominator of which is his or her total federal taxable income, after first subtracting from each the amounts provided in subsection (1) of section 77-2716; Provided, that if the above determination attributes more or less federal income tax than is reasonably attributable to income derived from sources within this state, the taxpayer may petition for, or the Tax Commissioner may require, the employment of any other method to attribute an amount of federal income tax which is reasonable and equitable in the circumstances.

(2) (a) A resident of this state shall mean an individual who is domiciled in Nebraska or who maintains a permanent place of abode in this state and spends in the aggregate more than six months of the taxable year in this state; and

(b) A nonresident shall mean an individual who is not a resident of this state.

(3) (a) There shall also be allowed to resident individuals as a credit against the tax imposed by sections 77-2714 to 77-27,135, a food sales tax credit equal to twenty-eight dollars multiplied by the number of allowable personal exemptions claimed for individuals who are residents, exclusive of the extra exemptions allowable for age or blindness. In the event a dependent is claimed as an exemption on a federal return by a nonresident taxpayer who files no return in this state, such dependent resides in this state, and the support claimed by such nonresident taxpayer is substantially spent in this state, the taxpayer in this state who has legal custody of such dependent may claim such food sales tax credit for each such dependent. A refund shall be allowed to the extent that the food sales tax credit exceeds the income tax payable by the resident individual for the taxable year but no refund shall be made in any amount less than two dollars.

(b) No individual who may be claimed as a personal exemption on another individual's return shall be entitled to a food sales tax credit or refund for himself or herself. If a food sales tax credit or refund is claimed on more than one return for the same individual, the Tax Commissioner is authorized to determine the individual entitled to claim the credit or refund provided herein.

(c) Any individual, other than a person who for more than six months of the taxable year is a resident patient or inmate of a public institution or an organization exempt from tax as a charitable institution, who maintains a permanent place of abode within this state, spending in the aggregate more than six months of the taxable year within this state, shall be conclusively presumed to have paid or paid with respect to such personal exemptions retail sales and use taxes imposed by this state equal to the maximum food sales tax credit allowable.

(d) The credits or refunds for sales taxes allowed by this subsection shall be claimed on income tax returns or in the case of an individual not having tax liability in this state on such forms or claims for refunds as the Tax Commissioner shall prescribe.

(4) Credits to minors, including any child whose parent or guardian is a recipient of aid to dependent children, shall be claimed by the parent or guardian.

(5) There shall also be allowed to resident individuals as a credit against the tax imposed by sections 77-2714 to 77-27,135, a utilities sales tax credit equal to four dollars multiplied by the number of allowable personal exemptions claimed for individuals who are residents, exclusive of the extra exemptions allowable for age or blindness. A refund shall be allowed to the extent that the utilities sales tax credit exceeds the income tax payable by the resident individual for the taxable year but no refund shall be made in any amount less than two dollars. The provisions of this section applicable to the determination of eligibility for the food sales tax credit shall also be applicable to the determination of eligibility for the utilities sales tax credit.".

2. On page 6, line 1, after "sections" insert "77-2715,".

3. Renumber original section 1 to 6 as sections 2 to 7, respectively.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 17

February 3, 1981

Dear Senator Chambers:

You inquire as to the legality of paying expenses to legislators at various times. You indicate you have introduced LB 206 which is intended to authorize expenses to be paid to legislators during a legislative session. You do not ask for any opinion of our office on the constitutionality of LB 206. You do ask are expenses (recovery) legal during the interim? May expenses be recovered during the session?

In response to your first question we have in a number of opinions previously advised the Legislature that expenses during the interim may constitutionally be paid. We refer you to Opinion Nos. 60 and 63, Report of the Attorney General, 1959-1960, see attached Opinion Nos. 60, 164 and 178, Report of the Attorney General, 1977-1978. These opinions have substantially set forth the basis upon which this office has in the past advised the Legislature that payment of expenses during the interim between legislative sessions are payable and are not in contravention of Article III, section 7.

The answer to your second question is of course no. The same opinions referred to in answer to your first question also deal with the question of whether or not such payments may be made during the session of the Legislature. Particularly, reference is made to Opinion No. 60, Report of the Attorney General, 1959-1960, referred to above. In that opinion we referred to a 1937 opinion directly on point which was rendered at the time the specific constitutional provision about which you inquire was adopted. That opinion essentially stated that such expenses were not payable during the session and set forth the reasons why. No significant change has been made either by the Legislature or in the Constitution from 1937 to the current date which would in any way alter our opinion.

We therefore reaffirm our previous opinions which have stated that it is unconstitutional for members of the Legislature to receive payment for their expenses incurred during legislative sessions except as those payments are in accordance with Article III, section 7, of the Constitution.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 18

Dear Senator Wesely:

By letter dated January 29, 1981, you requested that we respond to a question you raised concerning the constitutionality of a change in the legislative rules which has been proposed. Essentially, the proposed rule change would provide that at the time of adjournment of regular sessions of the Legislature held in odd-numbered years, all bills not otherwise disposed of shall be indefinitely postponed whether or not a motion to that effect has been adopted.

You express concern that such a rule might violate Article III, section 10, of the State Constitution which provides in pertinent part: "Bills and resolutions under consideration by the Legislature upon adjournment of a regular session held in an odd-numbered year may be considered at the next regular session, as if there had been no such adjournment." Viewed in light of the language contained in Article III, section 10, the proposed rule does not appear to conflict therewith in our opinion. We note that in your January 29 letter you state that Article III, section 10, provides that any such bills or resolutions shall be considered as if there had been no adjournment, when in fact the language of that constitutional provision provides that such bills and resolutions may be so considered. It strikes us that that error may have resulted in your concern.

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

BILLS ON FIRST READING

LEGISLATIVE BILL 188A. By Nichol, 48th District.
This bill introduced on behalf of: LB 188.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to appropriate funds to aid in carrying out the provisions of Legislative Bill 188, Eighty-seventh Legislature, First Session, 1981; and to declare an emergency.

LEGISLATIVE BILL 234A. By Maresh, 32nd District.
This bill introduced on behalf of: LB 234.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to appropriate funds to aid in carrying out the provisions of Legislative Bill 234, Eighty-seventh Legislature, First Session, 1981.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 19
February 5, 1981

Dear Senator Maresh:

We have reviewed LB 518 in accordance with your request dated February 2, 1981. In our opinion the constitutionality of LB 518 is seriously suspect.

Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution prohibits the Legislature from passing any special laws granting to any "individual any special or exclusive privileges, immunity or franchise whatever." A law waiving the state's immunity for the benefit of an individual violates this provision. Cox v. State, 134 Neb. 751, 279 N.W. 482. Nor can the Legislature waive the statute of limitations for benefit of a few within a class. Bordy v. State, 142 Neb. 714, 7 N.W.2d 632.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 (Reissue 1976) provides for handling "miscellaneous claims" as follows:

> In addition to the powers, duties, and authority with regard to tort claims imposed by sections 81-8,209 to 81-8,235, the State Claims Board also shall receive and carefully investigate (1) all other claims against the State of Nebraska for the payment of which no money has been appropriated,...

(Emphasis added).

The above statutory provision establishes a class of claims for specific handling by the State Claims Board and Legislature. However, to avoid the constitutional difficulties imposed by Article III, Section 18, the claimant must strictly follow the procedures in Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 through §81-8,239 (Reissue 1976). For instance, a claim which is properly a tort claim (negligence) probably would not be included within the class established by §81-8,236 since there is an appropriation for payment of tort claims in the tort claims fund. See Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,2225 (Reissue 1976). In any event, a special bill for the payment of a claim for one person without following the statutory precedure would appear to contravene Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 20
February 10, 1981

Re: Neb.Rev.Stat. §§71-1901 to 71-1905 (Reissue 1976)

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

This letter is in response to your request for clarification concerning Neb.Rev.Stat. §§71-1901 to 71-1905 (Reissue 1976). Since your inquiry involves a question to be presented to the Administrative Rules and Regulations Review Committee, it concerns a legislative matter and is therefore a proper subject for an opinion from this office.

In regard to your first question, Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1904 (Reissue 1976) authorizes the Department of Welfare to promulgate rules and regulations consistent with the child care statutes (Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1901 to 71-1905 (Reissue 1976)). Section 71-1904 specifically states that the department shall make such rules and regulations as it shall deem necessary for (1) the proper care of children by licensees, (2) the issuance, suspension, and revocation of child care licenses, and (3) the proper administration of said sections.

Under the authority set out above the department has established a list of exceptions to the requirements of licensure of board and care facilities in section 1454.02 of the Social Service Manual (SSM). Your inquiry concerns one such exception which states, "preschool programs that are educational only and do not feed or nap the children." It is our opinion that the making of such an exception is pursuant to and within the confines of the statute for the reason that in §71-1901 (2) child care is defined as the business of exercising the care, supervision, custody or control over children under sixteen years of age, for compensation or hire, in lieu of the care or supervision normally exercised by parents in their own home. A preschool program which is educational only would not fall into the category of care that is normally exercised by parents in their home. Such preschool programs usually accept a child three to five years of age for approximately two to two and one-half hours a day. It is our opinion that in view of the nature of such preschool programs, the exception is reasonable and that the rule (SSM 1454.02(4)) properly expresses the legislative purpose.

In regard to your second question, it is necessary to again refer to Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1901(2) which defines child care in terms of parental substitution for compensation or hire as set out above. Therefore, if the employer is not receiving compensation or is not hiring out its services, such a child care arrangement between employer and employee would not fall within the confines of Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1901(2) and would not be subject to license requirements. The State Plan and Manual SSM 1454.02 states: "The following services are exempted from licensure but may voluntarily be licensed: . . . (2) Care that is provided without cash or any form of compensation; . . . (5) Child care which is provided while each child's parent(s) are on the premises."

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 21

Dear Senator DeCamp:

In your letter of February 5, 1981, you asked our opinion as to the legality of a proposed amendment to LB 45, which would increase the amount of court costs to be paid under Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-1429 (Reissue 1976) and would in addition direct that such money be placed directly in the State General Fund to be spent as the Legislature sees fit.

The use of the term "court costs" in your letter is not entirely clear, but since you are referring to LB 45, and in effect §81-1429, it would seem reasonable to assume that you refer to that amount, presently one dollar, which is charged to the defendant in a successful criminal prosecution as a cost and which is in turn placed in a special Law Enforcement Improvement Fund.

In a criminal action no costs can be assessed against the defendant except where specifically authorized by statute. State v. Jungclaus, 176 Neb. 641, 126 N.W.2d 858 (1964). Normally such costs involve statutory filing fees, and other similarly designated fees. In addition some such costs are in partial recompense for the expenses of the court operation, while others reimburse the successful party for expenses incurred. DeCamp v. City of Lincoln, 202 Neb. 727, 277 N.W. 2d 83 (1979). Also in Nebraska there are such statutory costs as the one dollar assessed for the Nebraska Retirement Fund for Judges, Neb.Rev.Stat. §24-703(4) (Reissue 1979), and, of course, one dollar assessed under §81-1429 for the Law Enforcement Improvement Fund.

In a previous opinion dated November 25, 1977, this office responded to a proposal to increase the amount of the cost assessed under §81-1429 by the amount of one dollar. In that opinion we indicated that it was not entirely clear as to the overall constitutionality of such legislation including the existing statute, but nevertheless believed that the existing law, together with the proposed amendment, could probably be successfully defended. That opinion noted that the present law had been referred to by the Nebraska courts, but that the specific question as to its constitutional validity had never been dealt with. The opinion also noted that in other jurisdictions which had dealt with similar provisions, the courts had reached conflicting results.

The courts that have struck down such provisions have generally first found that proper court costs must be directly related to the actual costs of prosecution. Where this relationship could not be found, the "costs" have been found to be in actuality taxes, Ex parte Coffelt, 228 P.2d 199, 93 Okl.Crim. 343 (1951), and in violation of the doctrine of separation of powers because the court was in effect made a tax gathering agency. The same result was reached in Ex parte Miller, 263 P.2d 522, 97 Okl.Crim. 351 (1953). Likewise, in People v. Barber, 14 Mich.App. 395, 165 N.W.2d 608 (1968), the court found such "costs" to be in actuality fines and hence in conflict with other constitutional provisions providing for the specific allocation of fines.

On the other hand, in the more recent case of State v. Young, 238 So.2d 589 (Fla. 1970), the court found that a statute, which involved the assessment of a dollar as a court cost against every person convicted of violation of a state criminal statute or a municipal or county ordinance to be deposited in the state fund for the general improvement of law enforcement agencies, was a validly assessed cost. Specifically, the assessment was held not to be a tax, thus raising no problems concerning the violation of the principle of separation of powers. The court there noted that, "It is not unreasonable that one who stands convicted of such an offense should be made to share in the improvement of the agencies that society has had to employ in defense against the very acts for which he has been convicted." Id. at 590. Other courts have subsequently upheld this reasoning. State v. Champe, 337 So. 2d 880 (Fla. 1978); and State ex rel. Brown v. Galbraith, 370 N.E.2d 478 (Ohio 1977). In contrast to the conflicting line of cases, these decisions have made a finding of a relationship between the assessed court costs and the overall expenses involved in maintaining a law enforcement and criminal justice system, albeit not a direct relationship to the actual prosecutorial costs.

The proposal contained in your letter of February 5, 1981, involves the placement of such "costs," directly into the General Fund of the state to be spent as the Legislature sees fit. This, of course, does away with any relationship between these "court costs" and the expenses of maintaining the criminal justice system, as is presently found in §81-1429, wherein the money is placed into a Law Enforcement Improvement Fund. The "costs" would become in essence merely a tax for general revenue purposes. Relying upon the rationale in the previously mentioned cases wherein such a cost has been found to be improper and in reality a tax, the proposal would very likely be in conflict with the constitutional requirement of separation of powers, Article II, section 1 of the Nebraska Constitution, by making tax collectors out of the state's courts. In addition, a substantial increase in the amount of this court cost, could possibly result in the "cost," being found to be in the nature of a fine, thus placing the provision in violation of Article VII, section 5 of the Nebraska Constitution providing for disposition of all penalties and fines. To avoid such characterizations it would appear to be at least necessary to be able to make an affirmative showing involving a reasonable relationship between the assessed court costs and the maintenance of the law enforcement and criminal justice systems. Consequently, it is our opinion that while the present §81-1429 is probably valid, a proposal such as the one contained in your letter of February 5, 1981, would likely be held unconstitutional.

PAUL L. DOUGLAS

The Legislature finds that the institutions making small loans and the institutions administering a bank credit card are categorically different. The transactions carried on by these institutions are categorically different. The Legislature finds that small loan borrowers and bank credit card users are not synonymous or comparable. In establishing a small loan rate, the Legislature has recognized a risk factor that is different and greater than other financial transactions and therefor justifies the charging of a higher interest rate than installment loans, personal loans, retail involving credit plans, or bank credit card interest rates.".

WHEREAS, Nebraska is one of the nation's leading states in grain production and this state's agricultural commodities are a significant factor in maintaining a stable and predictable national economy; and

WHEREAS, the Nebraska Legislature on January 14, 1980, was the first elected public body to oppose the imposition of the embargo by adopting a resolution which pointed out to President Carter that the grain embargo would not be effective and asked that it be lifted; and

WHEREAS, that prediction has proven to be true; and

WHEREAS, the free market system used to exchange agricultural products is a delicate balance between the world markets and the continuing production capability of American agriculture; and

WHEREAS, the American farmer must be given the incentive to produce commodities in order to feed this nation and the world; and

WHEREAS, the continued exportation of farm commodities at a price commensurate with commodity prices in Europe could be a major factor in correcting this nation's balance of trade deficit; and

WHEREAS, various Nebraska associations of commodity producers have chosen to tax themselves through check-off programs, using the proceeds to encourage and expand export market prospects; and

WHEREAS, the continuing embargo has placed many family farms, the mainstay of American agriculture, in serious jeopardy without curtailing the adventurism of the Soviet Union, and the embargo has directly affected the American farmer through lower grain prices and loss of potential future exports; and

WHEREAS, the lack of grain has not been known to produce a democratic society, relax military tension, or influence military policy consistent with American expectations; and

WHEREAS, the embargoes imposed have a history of creating artificial international disruption of the orderly process of grain marketing which is detrimental to American agricultural interest in the following manner:

(A) Creates the equivalent of a black market in grain with a depressed grain price in the United States and that some depressed grain being routed through foreign countries and then being purchased by the Russians or whoever the embargo is against at exorbitant prices and the windfall profits going to the speculators rather than the producers of grain;

(B) destroys all predictability and, therefore, profitability in grain marketing and grain needs by forcing concealment of who the true purchasers of grain are in the world markets.

WHEREAS, any attempt to expand the embargo to other areas can only be expected to meet with the same dismal failure as have the efforts to embargo commodities and President Reagan has acknowledged the problems caused by the grain embargo; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Legislature urges President Reagan to rescind the grain embargo and to immediately restore normal trading of agriculture commodities.
2. That President Reagan, recognizing the positive impact of the sale of agricultural commodities upon the United States' trade deficit, resume negotiations with those countries that choose to purchase the commodities at a price that is commensurate with cost of production and world market prices.
3. That the Clerk of the Legislature sent a copy of this resolution to President Ronald Reagan, Secretary of Agriculture John Block, Secretary of State Alexander Haig, and to members of the Nebraska congressional delegation.

Laid over.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 23

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This letter is in response to your request of January 30, 1981 that this office furnish an opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 134, a bill to modify the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act. The effect of the revision is to restrict the disposition of campaign funds and the apparent purpose for the restriction is to prevent the funds from being used in a manner which would benefit the candidate's personal financial interests other than by promoting his nomination for, or election to, a public office. The purpose is a legitimate one for legislative action. However, the manner in which the bill attempts to accomplish its purpose is not without question.

As the United States Supreme Court has noted in a case arising under the Federal Election Campaign Act, "[c]lose examination of the specificity of the statutory limitation is required where, as here, the legislation imposes criminal penalties in an area permeated by First Amendment interests.'' Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1, 40, 41, 46 L.Ed.2d 659, 700, 95 S.Ct. 612 (1976). Therefore any questions of vagueness and overbreadth in the proposed statutory language will be closely scrutinized.

Questions you have posed focus on the language ''directly influencing the nomination or election of the candidate'' (proposed § 49-1446(3)) and ''personal services'' (proposed § 49-1446(4)(f)). Standing alone, the term ''directly influencing'' might fail to pass constitutional muster. However, a person is assisted in ascertaining the meaning of the language by Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1429 (Reissue 1978), defining the term ''influencing'' as '' . . . promoting, supporting, affecting, modifying, opposing, or delaying by any means, including the providing of or use of information, statistics, studies, or analyses'' and § 49-1419, defining ''expenditure'' as a payment '' . . . in assistance of, or in opposition to, ...'' Further assistance is provided in proposed paragraph (4) to § 49-1446, which lists certain items for which payments cannot be made from campaign funds. It becomes obvious that the language's intent is to limit legal payments made from campaign contributions to expenses incurred in order to carry on a campaign, such as filing fees, advertising expenses, rental of campaign headquarters, travel expenses incurred to further the campaign effort, salary for campaign aides, polling costs, and so on. We begin to approach a gray area, however, as the expenses become more personal. The proposed legislation approaches this problem by prohibiting certain types of payments altogether, even though such payments could arguably have been made to directly influence the nomination or election of the candidate. For instance, making installment payments for an automobile owned by a candidate are prohibited, even though the candidate uses the automobile exclusively for his campaigning. (proposed § 49-1446(4)(b)). Therefore any vagueness is eliminated, at least as relates to the particular areas where specific prohibitions are encountered. Considering the difficulty that would be encountered in attempting to make a listing of allowed and disallowed expenditures and in light of the apparent intent of the bill, it is likely to withstand a ''void for vagueness'' challenge.

The section relating to ''personal services'' (proposed § 49-1446 (3) (f)) is also sufficient to put one on notice as to what conduct is prohibited. It is impermissible to use funds from campaign contributions to pay for an individual's services unless such services are in furtherance of the campaign.

Proposed § 49-1446(4)(g), prohibiting the use of funds from campaign contributions to purchase office supplies, staff, or furnishings for the incumbent, is overbroad in violation of the First Amendment and discriminatory in violation of the Fifth Amendment. The law as written prohibits these purchases even though the use of the supplies and staff are directly related to the campaign, such as campaign literature and campaign aides. A challenger is not prohibited from making these expenditures, however. This provision has no rational relationship to the state's interest in maintaining the integrity of the political process by preventing the use of political contributions as a means of personal financial gain. The deficiency in this paragraph will not affect the validity of the remainder of the bill however.

Lacking less restrictive alternatives to accomplish the state's interest, it is our opinion that the proposed legislation, with the exception as noted, is constitutional.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 24

Dear Senator Beutler:

In your letter of February 4, 1981, you ask our opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 245 and whether such proposed legislation constitutes an impermissible interference with the discretion of the Board of Regents to govern the University of Nebraska. LB 245 contains an appropriation and a direction to the University of Nebraska at Lincoln to proceed with plans for the building of a College of Veterinary Medicine.

Article VII, Section 10, of the Nebraska Constitution provides in part that, "The general government of the University of Nebraska shall, under the direction of the Legislature, be vested in . . . the Board of Regents. . . . Their duties and powers shall be prescribed by law." In your letter you make reference to the case of Board of Regents v. Exon, 199 Neb. 146, 256 N.W.2d 330 (1977), in which the court stated in reference to this constitutional provision that:

> We think it is clear that the purpose of the constitutional provision was to remove the University from the plenary control of the Legislature and establish the Board of Regents as an > independent body charged with the power and responsibility to manage and operate the University as free from political influence and control as possible.

Id. at 148.

The court in addition stated that:

> The Legislature cannot use an appropriation bill to usurp the powers or duties of the Board of Regents and to give directions to the employees of the University. The general government of the University must remain vested in the Board of Regents. In prescribing the powers and duties of the Regents a legislative act must not be so detailed and specific in nature as to eliminate all descretion and authority on the part of the Regents as to how a duty shall be performed.

Id. at 149.

Before giving an overly broad construction to the case of Board of Regents v. Exon, it is necessary to examine the context in which that decision was rendered. In that case the primary dispute involved an appropriations bill which contained numerous statements directing the Board of Regents and, in addition, directing employees of the University, to take certain actions. In this regard the Supreme Court noted that:

> The trial court held that the statements in these bills which did not constitute an appropriation of funds were advisory only and not mandatory and that the Legislature was without authority to direct employees of the University. Although the defendants did not challenge this finding in their assignments of error, we have considered it and agree that it is correct.

Id. at 149. From these statements it seems clear only that the attempt to direct employees of the University was an impermissible interference with the Board of Regents' power to govern the University. This, of course, is not the situation with LB 245 which merely gives direction to the Board of Regents.

The court also said in Board of Regents v. Exon, supra, that "the Legislature may add to or subtract from the powers and duties of the Regents," even though the general government of the University must remain vested in the Board of Regents. An apparent example of this constitutional authority of the Legislature to alter the duties of the Board of Regents is found in State v. Whitmore, 85 Neb. 566, 123 N.W. 1051 (1909), in which the court upheld the authority of the Legislature to direct the Board of Regents to establish an experimental agricultural station. This case was, of course, not overruled by the Exon decision.

It is not clear from Exon or any other case, however, what precisely constitutes the "duties" of the Board of Regents. It thus seems entirely possible that the Legislature could amend the duties of the Board of Regents to include the building of a College of Veterinary Medicine. It is not clear, however, that this is the actual intent of LB 245, despite the language which states that, "The University of Nebraska at Lincoln shall cause plans, working drawings, and specifications to be prepared for building a College of Veterinary Medicine." Certainly discretion is granted to the Board of Regents as to the method by which this directive may be carried out and in this regard such a proposed addition to the duties of the Board of Regents would not appear to be in direct conflict with the decision of Board of Regents v. Exon. It should be noted, though, that LB 245 contains no direct language which would alter the existing statutory duties of the Board of Regents in governing the University of Nebraska. In particular, we note Neb.Rev.Stat. §85-107 (Reissue 1976) which states that the University of Nebraska may embrace, among other colleges, a College of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery. In this regard the Board of Regents has considerable existing discretion and latitude in determining the actual courses of study to be offered at the University. Thus, without amendments to the existing statutory language, it would seem entirely possible that it is within the power of the Board of Regents to refuse to expend monies as appropriated in LB 245, if it deemed this expenditure not to be in the best interest of the University.

This office has consistently maintained the position that the inclusion in appropriations bills of language which is intended to direct or control decisions of administrative or executive branches of the government is constitutionally improper under Article III, Section 14, of the Nebraska Constitution which prohibits bills containing more than one subject. If in fact LB 245 is an attempt to prescribe new duties or alter existing duties of the Board of Regents, and the directory language is certainly rather strongly worded, the bill would be unconstitutional for this reason alone. There is no question that it is an appropriations bill.

This is not to say that legislation could not be drafted limiting the use of appropriations to the University of Nebraska for a specific purpose. In the case of State ex rel. Meyer v. State Board of Equalization & Assessment, 185 Neb. 490, 176 N.W.2d 920 (1970), the court made it clear that the Legislature does have the power to place limits on an appropriation. This fact was also conceded by the parties in Board of Regents v. Exon, Id. at 150. If that were the situation in regard to LB 245, and the language therein was only a limitation upon the use of the appropriation, the Board of Regents could certainly refuse to make these expenditures, but if they did so, could not then use the money for other purposes.

In summation, it does not necessarily appear that LB 245 is improper under the holding of Board of Regents v. Exon, but, rather, the existing language of the bill makes it unconstitutional under Article III, Section 14, of the Nebraska Constitution because of the apparent attempt to place language directing and controlling the actions of an executive agency of the government, here the Board of Regents, in an appropriations bill.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 25

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of LB 190. We perceive no constitutional problems with it.

LB 190 amends Neb.Rev.Stat. §74-1320 (Supp. 1980), by striking all of the present provisions of that section, and substituting a new section. It would provide for a tax on each railroad transporting freight in this state, as its share of constructing, rehabilitating, relocating, and modifying grade separations at grade crossings. The tax would be measured by the number of train miles operated by the railroad in the state, and the number of public grade crossings on the line of the railroad in this state. The tax would be paid into the Grade Crossing Protection Fund, to provide financial assistance to political subdivisions in the construction, etc., of railroad grade separation facilities. Train mile is defined as each mile traveled by a train in this state, regardless of the number of cars in such train.

We wrote an opinion on April 25, 1979 (Number 95), in which we concluded that LB 42, which eventually became §§74-1320 to 74-1322, was constitutional. We relied upon Complete Auto Transit, Inc., v. Brady, 430 U.S. 274, 51 L.Ed.2d 326, 97 S.Ct. 1076 (1977), in which the court held that a tax on a facility of interstate commerce would be upheld if the activity taxed had a substantial nexus with the taxing state, and the tax was fairly apportioned, did not discriminate against interstate commerce, and was fairly related to the services provided by the state. We believe LB 190 meets those tests.

The purpose of doing work on "railroad grade separation facilities" is to lessen danger to the public from railroad accidents at grade crossings. The number of grade crossings on a railroad's lines, and the number of train miles a railroad runs in this state certainly are rationally related to the danger of such accidents, and to the need for preventive work. This therefore seems a fair way of apportioning the cost of such work.

As amended under LB 190, §74-1320(3) would provide that in any year in which, on January 1, there was ten million dollars in the grade crossing protection fund, the tax should not be collected for that year. We can see no problem with such provision. Certainly the state would not be expected to collect more than was needed for the purpose for which the tax was levied. If the Legislature concludes that ten million dollars is an adequate reserve in the fund, stopping collection of the tax when such sum is reached seems eminently proper.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Mr. V. Johnson offered the following amendment:
Req. #2085
1. Insert the following new sections:
"Section 1. That section 8-440, Revised Statutes

Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

8-440. (1) All charges based upon due performance of the loan contract and computed as provided in section 8-435 may be included in the amount of any installments scheduled to be repaid by the borrower.

(2) For any contract entered into prior to October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection may be used or the provisions of subsection (3) of this section may be used. If charges have been precomputed and included in the scheduled installments, and if the contract is prepaid in full by cash, a new loan, or otherwise after the first installment due date but before the final installment due date, the refund shall be at least as great a proportion of the total charges as the sum of the remaining monthly balances of the principal and interest combined scheduled to follow the date of prepayment bears to the sum of all the monthly balances of principal and interest combined originally scheduled by the contract. For the purpose of computing the refund, any prepayment in full made on or before the fifteenth day following an installment date shall be deemed to have been made on the installment immediately preceding the date of prepayment in full and any prepayment in full made after such fifteenth day shall be deemed to have been made on the installment date immediately following the date of prepayment in full. No refund shall be required for any partial prepayment. No refund of less than one dollar need be made. The charges retained may be increased to the extent that delinquency charges on any scheduled installment or portion thereof, if contracted for, may be taken not in excess of five per cent of each installment or five dollars, whichever is less, or in lieu thereof interest after maturity on each such installment not exceeding the highest permissible contract rate as provided in section 8-435. If judgment is obtained before the final installment due date, the contract balance shall be reduced by the refund amount which would be required for prepayment in full as of the date judgment is obtained.

(3) For any contract entered into on or after October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection shall apply. If the contract is prepaid in full by cash, a new loan, or otherwise after the first installment due date, the borrower shall receive a rebate of an amount which shall be not less than the amount obtained by applying to the unpaid principal balances as originally scheduled or, if deferred, as deferred, for the period following prepayment, according to the actuarial method, the annual percentage rate previously stated to the borrower pursuant to the Federal Consumer Credit Protection Act.

The licensee may round the annual percentage rate to the nearest one half of one per cent if such procedure is not consistently used to obtain a greater yield than would otherwise be permitted. Any default and deferment charges which are due and unpaid may be deducted from any rebate. No rebate shall be required for any partial prepayment. No rebate of less than one dollar need be made. Acceleration of the maturity of the contract shall not in itself require a rebate. If judgment is obtained before the final installment date the contract balance shall be reduced by the rebate which would be required for prepayment in full as of the date judgment is obtained.

Sec. 4. That section 8-822, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

8-822. (1) Charges under section 8-820 shall be computed by application of the rate charged to the outstanding principal balance for the number of days actually elapsed without adding any additional charges, except that at the time the loan is made charges may be computed as a percentage per month of unpaid principal balances for the number of days elapsed on the assumption that the unpaid principal balance will be reduced, as provided in the loan contract, and such charges may be included in the scheduled installments. ~~; Provided, that if~~

(2) For any loan contract entered into prior to October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection may be used or the provisions of subsection (3) of this section may be used. If the loan is repaid in whole or in part prior to the due date unearned charges shall be refunded or credited to the borrower in full, but such refund need not be made until final payment of the loan contract. Such refund shall be at least as great a proportion of the total charges as the sum of the remaining monthly balances of the principal and interest combined scheduled to follow the date of prepayment bears to the sum of all the monthly balances of principal and interest combined originally scheduled by the contract. For the purpose of computing the refund, any prepayment in full made on or before the fifteenth day following an installment date shall be deemed to have been made on the installment date immediately preceding the date of prepayment in full, and any prepayment in full made after such fifteenth day shall be deemed to have been made on the installment date immediately following the date of prepayment in full. No refund shall be required for any partial prepayment. No refund of less than one dollar need be made.

(3) For any loan contract entered into on or after October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection shall apply. If the loan is prepaid in full by cash, a new loan, or otherwise after the first installment due date, the borrower shall receive a rebate of an amount which shall be not less than the amount obtained by applying to the unpaid principal balances as originally scheduled or, if deferred, as deferred, for the period following prepayment, according to the actuarial method, the annual percentage rate previously stated to the borrower pursuant to the Federal Consumer Credit Protection Act. The licensee may round the annual percentage rate to the nearest one half of one per cent if such procedure is not consistently used to obtain a greater yield than would otherwise be permitted. Any default and deferment charges which are due and unpaid may be deducted from any rebate. No rebate shall be required for any partial prepayment. No rebate of less than one dollar need be made. Acceleration of the maturity of the contract shall not in itself require a rebate. If judgment is obtained before the final installment date the contract balance shall be reduced by the rebate which would be required for prepayment in full as of the date judgment is obtained.

(4) The charges retained by the bank may be increased to the extent that delinquency charges are computed on earned charges in accordance with the next succeeding sentence. Delinquency charges on any scheduled installment or portion thereof, if contracted for, may be taken not in excess of five per cent on each installment or five dollars, whichever is less, or in lieu thereof interest after maturity on each such installment not exceeding the highest permissible interest rate.

Sec. 6. That section 45-342, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

45-342. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of any contract to the contrary, any buyer may prepay in full at any time before maturity the obligation of any contract. ~~and if~~

(2) For any contract entered into prior to October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection may be used or the provisions of subsection (3) of this section may be used. If such obligation is so prepaid, any unearned charges shall be refunded. The amount of such refund shall represent at least as great a proportion of the time price differential as the sum of the monthly time balances after the month prepayment is made bears to the sum of all the monthly time balances under the schedule of payments in the contract. Where the amount of credit is less than one dollar no refund need be made.

(3) For any contract entered into on or after

October 1, 1981, the provisions of this subsection shall apply. If such obligation is prepaid in full by cash, a new loan, or otherwise after the first installment due date, the borrower shall receive a rebate of an amount which shall be not less than the amount obtained by applying to the unpaid principal balances as originally scheduled or, if deferred, as deferred, for the period following prepayment, according to the actuarial method, the annual percentage rate previously stated to the borrower pursuant to the Federal Consumer Credit Protection Act. The licensee may round the annual percentage rate to the nearest one half of one per cent if such procedure is not consistently used to obtain a greater yield than would otherwise be permitted. Any default and deferment charges which are due and unpaid may be deducted from any rebate. No rebate shall be required for any partial prepayment. No rebate of less than one dollar need be made. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Dear Senator Haberman:

In your letter of February 11, 1981, you ask for our opinion as to whether the Legislature exercises an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority by permitting state executive officers, agencies, or boards to set, determine, or adjust various rates of taxation. You have informed us that you need this information in connection with a bill now pending before the Legislature.

The guidelines with respect to delegation of this particular legislative power are set out in Anderson v. Tiemann, 182 Neb. 393, 155 N.W.2d 322 (1967), dealing with the delegation of power to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment to set the rates of sales and income taxes. Section 15 of the original Sales and Income Tax Act contained provisions for the setting of such tax rates by the board, which provisions were similar to those now found in Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2715.01 (Supp. 1980). The court upheld the provisions in question, saying:

> The plaintiffs' contentions with respect to unconstitutional delegation of legislative power extend also to the provisions of L.B. 377 which require the State Board of Equalization and Assessment to set the rate of tax on or before November 15 of each year for the taxable year beginning during the subsequent calendar year. Section 15 of L.B. 377, in at least five subsections, explicitly sets out the computations to be made by the state board, the method and manner in which the computations shall be adjusted and determined, and the specific standards to be used in setting the rate of tax. The discussion as to delegation of legislative authority to the Tax Commissioner and the rules set out above also apply with respect to the delegation of authority to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment. L.B. 377 constitutes a valid and lawful delegation of authority to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment and does not violate the Constitution of Nebraska nor the United States.

Therefore, the rule with respect to the delegation of tax rate-setting power to an administrative agency is the same as the rule with respect to delegation of other legislative powers. It will be upheld if the act delegating the power contains standards limiting the delegation, and specifying how it will be exercised. We suppose that the standard with regard to tax rate-setting should be more restrictive than in some other areas. The act should specify pretty clearly how the computation is to be made, and not leave too much discretion to the administrative body. The formula found in §77-2715.01 is a good pattern. In theory, at least, fixing the rates under that section is almost a matter of mathematical computation using the criteria specified in the statute. A delegation using any such formula will, we believe, be upheld.

You also ask under what conditions such delegation would be unconstitutional. We believe our previous discussion answers this question. Clearly, such delegation without legislative standards would fail. Not much administrative discretion would be permitted in this area. Discretion is to be exercised by the Legislature, not the administrative body, which should simply use the standards specified in the statutes to reach the result intended by the Legislature.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 27

Dear Senator Beyer:

By letter dated February 9, 1981, you requested this office to render an opinion on LB 354 which has been introduced for consideration during the 1981 legislative session. Essentially, the bill would amend statutes authorizing municipalities and municipal airport authorities to acquire property for airport purposes so that no such property could be acquired outside the territorial limits of any particular municipality by eminent domain without the prior approval of the county board of the county where the property is located.

The statutory provisions to be amended by LB 354 presently authorize municipalities or their airport authorities to acquire property for airport purposes within or without their territorial limits. These statutes further provide that such land may be acquired by purchase, gift, devise, lease, or other means including eminent domain. Municipalities are given full power to exercise the right of eminent domain both within and without their territorial limits. LB 354 would condition the right to acquire such property outside municipal territorial limits by eminent domain on prior approval of the county board of the county where such property is located.

It strikes us that there well may be legitimate county interests at stake when municipalities or their airport authorities seek to obtain land outside their territorial limits for airport purposes by eminent domain, as opposed to other means of acquisition. If so, these county interests might well render appropriate prior county approval of such municipal action to insure that the county interests are taken into consideration. Mindful of this, the absence of any language in the pertinent portions of LB 354 articulating any such county interests and making clear that they provide the framework for the county approval process is troubling. Essentially, LB 354 would give absolute and total discretion to the county in approving or disapproving such municipal action. No standards, guidelines or criteria are incorporated in LB 354 to which the counties would be required to adhere in undertaking its approval process.

It is our view this grant of power to the counties without control or check, which apparently can be exercised at will and for reasons which may or may not reflect the genuine county interests in municipal acquisition by eminent domain of land located in the county, constitutes an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power. See, McGray Electric Co. v. Lewis & Smith Drug Co., 159 Neb. 703, 68 N.W.2d 608 (1955).

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 28

Dear Senator Goodrich:

By letter dated February 12, 1981, you requested an opinion from this office in connection with LB 30 introduced during the current legislative session and set for final reading on February 18, 1981. This bill would amend existing statutes dealing with the process by which sanitary improvement districts gain approval of plans and costs for public parks, playgrounds, and recreational facilities which they propose. Such proposed improvements are required to be approved by either the municipality or the county exercising zoning jurisdiction over the property which is to be the subject of the improvements. Essentially, LB 30 would provide an alternative method of seeking that approval, the final step of which would be the majority vote of the governing body of the municipality or county involved which the bill specifically states shall not be subject to any veto. You inquire as to whether or not the express prohibition of any veto possibility is constitutionally sound.

Two preliminary observations are in order. First, while the concern you raise has merit, the short time we had to complete our review and the unsettled authority on this issue preclude a definitive response. Second, it strikes us that no county official is empowered in the first place by Nebraska statutes to exercise the kind of veto authority for which you express concern, and thus we limited our consideration of the question to the municipal context. Against this background, we find the portion of LB 30 which is the subject of your inquiry to be troubling in two respects.

The veto power is considered to be an exercise of a separate and distinct function of government. Notwithstanding that it is typically exercised by an official of the executive branch of government, it essentially is legislative in nature and a part of the legislative process. Thus, LB 30's alteration of the normal municipal legislative process in only one specific instance is quite conspicuous.

Mindful that municipalities and municipal officers generally derive their powers from state legislation, we note that mayoral veto power is expressly provided for first and second class cities by Neb.Rev.Stat. §16-313 and §17-111 (Reissue 1977) respectively. It follows that the State Legislature is authorized to revoke municipal powers as well as grant them which, in essence, is what the relevant language of LB 30 would do. However, the granting or revocation of such powers is not without constitutional limitation. LB 30 classifies a particular kind of matter which might come before municipal governing bodies and requires that these matters be dealt with differently than all others by those bodies. It is our view that the bill effects the kind of classification in that regard which the State Constitution commands is valid only if there is such a difference in the situation and circumstances of those particular matters that suggests the necessity or propriety of different treatment. While there well may be such a rational basis for precluding the veto power in the particular instance with which LB 30 is concerned, it is not clear to us from the language of the bill, and for that reason we find it constitutionally suspect.

Additionally, we are troubled by LB 30's application to home rule cities, such as Lincoln or Omaha, whose charters authorize the mayoral veto power. When a Nebraska municipality becomes a home rule city pursuant to the provisions of Article XI of the State Constitution, it is given control over its own affairs subject only to the State Constitution and general laws. On occasion, a conflict between a provision in a home rule charter and a state statute arises which prompts an inquiry as to whether the state statute in question is a general law, and thus, supersedes the conflicting home rule charter provision. If it is demonstrated that the matter in conflict is one of "purely local concern," it is protected from the conflicting legislative provisions by the home rule provisions in the Constitution. Axberg v. City of Lincoln, 141 Neb. 55, 2 N.W.2d 613.

Our review revealed no authority on whether or not the veto power of a mayor provided by home rule charter is or is not a matter of purely local concern. Moreover, the case law on issues somewhat analogous is far from settled with the courts rarely attempting to articulate any all-inclusive rules, preferring instead to examine each conflict on a case-by-case basis. However, that a plausible argument can be made for the proposition that such a veto power is a matter of purely local concern is clear. If such argument should prevail, then the language of LB 30 in question would be unconstitutional and inoperative with respect to home rule cities whose charters authorize the kind of veto power in question.

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 29

Dear Senator Clark:

You have requested an opinion concerning the proposed amendment to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 60-311 (Supp. 1980) which is contained in LB 290. In particular you have asked the following:

1. Does the present language in Section 60-311 prohibit taking bids on reflective systems that cover only a portion of the license plate?
2. Would it be necessary to insert language permitting bids by systems that only reflectorize a portion of the license plate?

The pertinent language dealing with reflectorization is as follows: "Each plate shall be treated with a reflective material which shall provide effective and dependable reflective brightness during the service period required of the plate."

The answers to your particular questions would lie in an interpretation of the above quoted language. It is not clear whether or not the phrase "shall be treated with a reflective material" refers to a portion of the license plate or to the plate itself. That being the case, it is necessary to examine the intent of the Legislature when the original bill was passed which provided for reflectorized plates. In general, legislative intention must be discerned from a general consideration of the whole act, and its intent must be deduced from the whole rather than from a particular part. Equal Opportunity Commission v. Weyerhaeuser Company, 198 Neb. 104, 251 N.W.2d 730 (1977).

The adoption of the requirement of reflectorized plates was prompted by the increased safety benefit provided by such plates. The Committee of Statement on LB 637 of the Seventy-Fifth Session of the Nebraska State Legislature reads in part:

> "Since the proportion of accidents at night is approximately twice as many for the same number of miles traveled, it was felt by the committee that anything the Legislature could do to reduce this accident rate should be done. If only a small percent of the accidents which occur at night were prevented by the use of reflectorized plates, the saving in personal property alone would be more than the additional costs of the reflective material."

The Statement of Purpose for LB 637 indicates that:

> "The purpose of this bill is to provide dependable reflectorized license plates for all motor vehicles in Nebraska in order to improve safety on our highways."

Both the Committee Statement and the Statement of Purpose refer to reflectorized plates and do not refer to reflectorized portions, characters, or background. Therefore, it is logical to assume that the Legislature intended that the plate itself be a reflective material.

The present language in section 60-311 does not appear to specifically prohibit the consideration of reflective systems that cover only a portion of the license plate. However, given the intent of the Legislature in adopting a "reflectorized license plate," and in light of the emphasis placed on the safety benefit of such plates, it would appear that the end result to be achieved its optimum reflectivity. It would also follow that a reflectorized plate, as opposed to a reflectorized portion of a plate, would provide that result. Therefore, it would appear that additional language is necessary in order to provide for the consideration of a system which reflectorizes only a portion of the plate. This conclusion is, of course, based on the assumption that optimum reflectivity is directly related to the amount of reflective area contained on a license plate.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 21.

Introduced by Fowler, 27th District.

WHEREAS, the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 calls for the gradual deregulation of natural gas prices through 1985; and

WHEREAS, the President of the United States has pledged an attempt to deregulate natural gas prices completely and immediately as opposed to gradually through 1985; and

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol of natural gas prices may cost Nebraska several billion dollars more than gradual decontrol through 1985; and

WHEREAS, approximately 75 percent of residential structures in Nebraska are heated with natural gas and the average cost of natural gas to each residential user in the state could increase considerably if prices are deregulated immediately; and

WHEREAS, commercial and industrial users in Nebraska could also incur substantially increased natural gas cost if prices are immediately deregulated; and

WHEREAS, the cost of immediate decontrol to utilities in Nebraska using natural gas to generate electricity may be as high as several million dollars; and

WHEREAS, increased natural gas costs for commerce, industry and utilities in Nebraska will result in higher consumer prices for food, clothing, housing, electricity and other necessities of life; and

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol may drain several billion dollars out of Nebraska's economy into the hands of major oil companies, producing states and foreign governments, resulting in a reduced industrial and tax base, fewer jobs and increased inflation; and

WHEREAS, commerce and industry in Nebraska and the United States could be in a better financial position with the extension of natural gas price controls than with the assumed benefits of the Kem-Roth tax plan.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature supports the gradual decontrol of natural gas prices as outlined in the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.
2. That the Legislature opposes the immediate deregulation of natural gas prices as proposed by the President of the United States.
3. That the Clerk of the Legislature send copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Nebraska Congressional delegation, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the President of the United States Senate.

When the name of one or more candidates of a district appears on ballots in less than one-tenth of the precincts in a county, there shall be no cost to the district. Election expenses shall be due and payable by each public power district within thirty days after receipt of a statement from the county.

Sec. 3. That section 70-612, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

Req. No. 2107

"Section 1. That section 16-302.01, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

16-302.01. (1) In any city of the first class, except any city having adopted the commissioner or city manager form of government, there shall be elected a mayor at large and two council members from each ward, who shall be electors of the city and residents of the ward from which elected. The council may also, by a two-thirds vote of its members, provide by ordinance for the election of the treasurer and clerk. All nominations and elections of such officers shall be held as provided in Chapter 32, or as provided in this act.

(2) Commencing with the statewide primary election in 1976, and every two years thereafter, those candidates whose terms will be expiring shall be nominated at the statewide primary election and elected at the statewide general election.

(3) All elected officers in a first-class city shall serve for a term of four years and until their successors are elected and have qualified. ~~The term of office of any member of a council that would expire prior to the first regular council meeting in December, 1976 is hereby extended to such date.~~

~~(4) The term of office of any member that would expire after December, 1976, and prior to the first regular council meeting in December, 1978, is hereby extended to the first regular council meeting in December, 1978.~~

~~(5)~~ (4) If the number of candidates properly filed for nomination at the primary election does not exceed two for each vacancy to be filled, all candidates properly filed shall be considered nominated, and no primary election for their nomination shall be required.

~~(6)~~ (5) When any second-class city by law becomes a first-class city, and adopts the first-class city form of government, and it becomes necessary to establish the staggering of terms by nominating and electing members for terms of different durations at the same election, the candidates receiving the greatest number of votes shall be nominated and have their names placed on the general election ballot. In no case shall the city clerk, county clerk, or election commissioner place on the general election ballot more than twice the number of names required to fill the vacancies that will occur.

~~(7)~~ (6) In the case of a tie vote of any of the candidates in either the primary or general election, the city clerk, county clerk, or election commissioner shall notify such candidates to appear at his or her office on a given day and hour to determine the same by lot before the canvassing board, and the certificate of nomination or election shall be given accordingly. Notice to appear shall be given by certified mail.

~~(8)~~ (7) The city clerk, county clerk, or election commissioner in preparing the official ballot for the general election shall place thereon the names of the persons who received the greatest number of votes in the primary, but in no event shall the names on the general election ballot be more than twice the number of vacancies to be filled at the general election. Petitions for the filling of a vacancy on the ballot shall be filed in accordance with section 32-537.

~~(9)~~ (8) The city clerk, county clerk, or election commissioner shall place the names of the candidates on the general election ballot in the direct order according to the number of votes received at the primary election. If no primary election was held, the names of the candidates shall be placed upon the general election ballot in the order of their filing. The term of office of all such members shall commence on the first regular meeting of the council in December following their election. Any vacancy on the council resulting from causes other than expiration of the term shall be filled by vote of the remaining members as provided in section 32-4,152.

Sec. 2. That section 17-104, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

17-104. Each ward of each city shall have at least two councilmen, who shall be chosen in the manner provided in Chapter 32, or as provided in this act. ~~Councilmen shall serve for a term of four years and until their successors are elected and have qualified.~~ No person shall be eligible to the office of councilman who is not at the time of the election an actual resident of the ward for which he or she is elected and a qualified registered elector under the Constitution and laws of the State of Nebraska; and if any councilman shall remove from the ward for which he or she is elected, his or her office as a councilman shall thereby become vacant. Any vacancy on the council shall be filled as provided in section 32-4,152. In all cases of an election when the successful candidate or candidate receiving the highest number of votes in such election shall be prevented from assuming office, on account of disqualification, as provided by law or otherwise, the incumbent shall not be entitled to hold over the term, but such office shall automatically become vacant and an appointment shall be made to fill such vacancy in the matter provided in sections 32-4,152 and 32-1045. Whenever there shall be a tie on the election of councilmen, it shall be determined by lot by the duly authorized canvassing board.

Sec. 3. That section 17-107.02, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

~~to the first regular board meeting in December, 1976, is hereby extended to such date.~~

~~(3) The term of office of any member that would expire after December, 1976, and prior to the first regular board meeting in December, 1978, is hereby extended to the first regular board meeting in December, 1978.~~

~~(4)~~ (3) If the number of candidates properly filed for nomination at the primary election shall not exceed two for each vacancy to be filled, all candidates properly filed shall be considered nominated, and no primary election for their nomination shall be required.

~~(5)~~ (4) When any village by law becomes a second-class city, and adopts the second-class city form of government, and such second-class city is holding its initial election of all officers, the city clerk, county clerk, or election commissioner shall place the names of the candidates receiving the greatest number of votes at the primary election, if one was held, on the general election ballot, but in no event shall the names on the general election ballot be more than twice the number of vacancies to be filled at the general election. At the first election, one half or the bare majority of the candidates in each precinct or ward or at-large candidates, as the case may be, receiving the greatest number of votes at the general election, shall be elected to terms of the longest duration, and those receiving the next greatest number of votes shall be elected to the remaining term or terms.

SPEAKER SIGNED

While the Legislature was in session and capable of transacting business, the Speaker signed the following resolutions: LR 23, LR 24, and LR 25.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and
Members of the Legislature
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Speaker:

I hereby return LB 30 without my signature and with my objections.

LB 30 would allow Sanitary and Improvement Districts to undertake improvements upon a petition being signed by a majority of the property owners and approved by the city council or county board, whichever has jurisdiction. The bill would effectively eliminate the mayor's veto authority.

In a letter dated February 18, 1981, to Senator Goodrich, the Attorney General's office raises questions concerning the constitutionality of LB 30. The Attorney General's office states in part as follows:

> If such an argument should prevail, then the language of LB 30 in question would be unconstitutional and inoperative with respect to home rule cities whose charters authorize the kind of veto power in question.

In addition to the constitutional concerns, it is my concern that this bill would alter the checks and balances of the legislative and executive branches of government. The veto power is written in to both our federal and state constitutions for the chief executives of those respective jurisdications.

In my opinion, executive veto authority should be preserved. If it can be set aside in this case, then it can be set aside for other issues as well. Such action does not, and would not, have my support.

Respectfully,
Governor

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 30

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding L.B. 120 which would allow for the recovery of attorneys fees by a successful plaintiff in a mandamus action. Specifically you have inquired as follows:

> "Inasmuch as such actions inevitably are brought against an individual who is an employee of some governmental subdivision or the state itself, would the attorney's fee allowed by L.B. 120 be assessed against and recoverable from the individual defendant or rather would it be assessed against and recoverable ultimately against the governmental subdivision or state that employs him?"

In our opinion, such attorneys fees would be recoverable from the individual. The writ of mandamus is properly directed to the individual holding office in their offical capacity. 55 C.J.S. Mandamus, §2, p. 14; Cooperider v State ex. rel. Stevens, 46 Neb. 84, 64 N.W. 372 (1985). The governmental subdivision is not a party to the suit and therefore an award against said entity could not be made. Theoretically the governmental entity may have an interest adverse to that of an offical who has neglected to perform an act required by law.

You have further inquired as follows:

> "If you conclude that such fees are recoverable only from the personal defendant, what policies exist, if any, to reimburse the personal defendant?"

While we cannot speak definitively regarding the policies of governmental subdivisons, we are aware of no formal policies for such reimbursement by the State of Nebraska.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 31
February 24, 1981

Dear Senator Newell:

In your letter of February 5, 1981, you direct our attention to Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-1021 (Reissue 1977) and indicate that you may be desirous of introducing legislation to amend or repeal this section depending upon our response to your several questions.

You first direct our attention to the portion of that statute which prohibits members of water district boards from unduly participating in municipal politics and the statement that such prohibition was created to remove the directors from the influence of partisan politics.

You observe that municipal elections are no longer partisan in nature and ask our opinion as to whether or not the prohibition and the intent are therefore inconsistent.

Partisan activity has come to mean affiliation with one or another political party but classically the word partisan when used as an adjective implies unreasonable allegiance or adherence to a party, faction or belief. Therefore in the early part of this century when this provision was enacted, a more classic definition may have been in the minds of the legislators. Of course, as you know, there exists no legislative history on statutes of this age, the examination of which might have assisted us in gleening the intended breadth of this prohibition. Therefore, absent any express legislative history we would decline to speculate as to what the Legislature may have intended by the use of these words.

You also ask our interpretation of the phrase ". . . undue activity or participation . . ." Here again without the benefit of express legislative history, it is impossible for us to offer anything other than perhaps a dictionary definition of the word undue, and therefore, would decline to speculate as to what definition the Legislature may have had in mind.

More generally, you inquire as to whether or not such a prohibition would be violative of the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In this regard, the United States Supreme Court has upheld state laws restricting the political activities of public officials. See, for example, Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601. While the court has upheld such prohibitions, it has stated that statutes attempting to restrict or burden the exercise of First Amendment rights must be narrowly construed and reflect a considered legislative judgment that a particular type of expression must be prohibited in order to protect other compelling needs of society. Broadrick v. Oklahoma, supra.

Given the fact that since as you note most, if not all, of municipal political activities are conducted on a non-partisan basis, it would be difficult to conceive a rational basis on which this prohibition might be supported. Additionally, given the uncertainties surrounding the meaning of both the words and phrases used and the original intent, it may be that such a prohibition would be unconstitutionally vague.

Therefore, in spite of the fact that courts have historically upheld prohibitions on public employee participation in partisan politics, we believe that the restrictions contained within Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-1021 (Reissue 1977) are constitutionally suspect at best.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 33

Dear Senator Schmit:

In your letter of February 11, 1981, you advised us about certain amendments which were proposed with regard to the Nebraska Corn Resources Act, Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3601, et seq. (Cum.Supp. 1980). Specifically, you expressed a concern about an amendment to section 2-3622(10) of this act which would strike the words "or to influence legislation."

You attached to your correspondence a letter you received from Mr. Richard Meuret of the Nebraska Corn Development, Utilization & Marketing Board which letter generally advised you that the board was satisfied with its working relationship with the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, and further, did not ". . . want to see our legislation changed to jeopardize this relationship."

In contemplating the proposed amendment, your question to us was whether such a letter was in violation of section 2-3622(10).

The Nebraska Corn Resources Act does not specifically define the term "to influence legislation," and, to our knowledge, that term is not defined in any other legislative provisions relating to grain check-off programs. Furthermore, our research did not disclose any Nebraska case law or pertinent legislative debate which provided specific guidance to interpreting this term.

General legal resource materials define the term "influence," when used as a verb, as meaning "to affect, alter, move or sway." 43 C.J.S., Influence at 708 (1978).

> The verb "influence" also means to procure from, or to put some external constraint upon; to use one's endeavors, although unable to carry his point. It has been held synonymous with "affect" . . . and has been compared with, or distinguished from, "induce" . . . and "procure."

Id.

We also note that the entire prohibition set forth at section 2-3622(10) directs the members of the Corn Board:

> To prohibit any funds collected by the board from being expended directly or indirectly to promote or oppose any candidate for public office or to influence legislation . . .

Considering the entirety of this provision, in light of the standard legal definitions of the term "influence," we would interpret this provision to prohibit such activities as using funds for the support of a candidate for public office, or, with regard to the prohibition of influencing legislation, using funds to employ a lobbyist for the Corn Board.

In further support of our opinion, we note that the term "lobbying" is generally defined as an activity to address or solicit members of a legislative body for the purpose of influencing their votes. 54 C.J.S., Lobby at 659 (1948). Therefore, it would appear to us that the Legislature was concerned about the Corn Board expending funds for lobbying activities in adopting the prohibitions set forth in section 2-3622(10).

Consequently, it does not appear to us that the correspondence attached to your letter of February 11, 1981, would constitute an activity or an expenditure of funds in contravention of section 2-3622(10). While it is difficult for us to ascertain the purpose of this correspondence, nothing on its face appears to represent a specific attempt to "influence legislation." In our opinion, a court would not interpret the provisions of section 2-3622(10) so broadly as to prohibit the use of the funds of the Corn Board which are expended in correspondence to a senator dealing with the legitimate activities of that board.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 34
March 3, 1981

Dear Senator Carsten:

You have submitted to us a proposed amendment to LB 59, and have asked our opinion as to its constitutional validity. The amendment would add a new section to the bill, to provide: "Severed mineral interests shall be valued in the same manner as other real property, except that if there is no known or ascertainable value for the mineral interest an actual value of one dollar per acre shall be used."

There are several constitutional attacks which could be made on such a provision, and some of them are very troublesome. Perhaps the first we should discuss is the question of usurpation of administrative or quasi-judicial powers by the Legislature. The determination of the proper assessed valuation is, of course, a matter addressed to the designated administrative officials, who exercise a quasi-judicial function in performing it. Here, however, with respect to the designated class of property the Legislature would remove that function from the administrative officials, and make the determination itself.

In Crane v. Voorhis, 178 N.E. 169 (N.Y. 1931), in declaring a certain legislatively-prescribed ballot form unconstitutional, the court said:

> What would be unreasonable and unfair to the voter is a question of fact dependent upon the circumstances of each case. It is a judicial question and not a matter for arbitrary legislation. . . . Such an arbitrary selection by the Legislature for the formation of a ballot is to declare beforehand what is or is not fair and reasonable, whereas it may appear in the particular instance to be very unfair and very unreasonable.

We recognize the difficulty of putting a value on severed mineral interests where there is no present production, or immediate prospect of exploration in the vicinity. There can be a wide range of values of such interests, all of which might fall in the category of having "no known or ascertainable value." At one end of the spectrum would be mineral interests in a tract of land upon which a dry hole had been drilled. At the other end would be such interests in land as to which geological evidence indicated a good prospect for oil. The value of such interest might be highly speculative as to each, and it might be very difficult to ascertain what value should be put on the interest, but it seems arbitrary and capricious for the Legislature to undertake to set the value by statute.

We realize that one dollar per acre is a rather nominal value, but if the Legislature can specify that value, what is to prevent its setting other values for taxable property? If it can set the value at one dollar per acre, why can't it set it at ten dollars, or one hundred dollars? The principle would appear to be the same.

We have found two cases in which the Legislature had set minimum dollar values for taxable property. In Copper Queen Consolidated Mining Co. v. Arizona, 206 U.S. 474 (1907), the statute provided that the taxing authorities should not assess any real estate at less than seventy-five cents per acre. In South Utah Mines and Smelters v. Beaver County, 262 U.S. 325 (1923), a statute provided that all metalliferous mines or mining claims should be assessed at an arbitrary value of five dollars per acre plus "a value based on some multiple or submultiple of the net annual proceeds thereof." However, in neither of those cases was the validity of the provision in question challenged or discussed, or, in fact, involved in the merits of the case. These cases do not, therefore, shed any light on the question we are concerned with.

It can also be argued that the provision denies the holders of the severed mineral interests due process of law, since it would permit the taxing officials to assign a value of one dollar per acre to the minerals in the absence of any evidence that they had any value at all. It would also seem to require the minerals to be given that value, in spite of positive evidence that they had some unascertainable value of less than one dollar per acre.

You inquire about whether the provision would violate the uniformity clause of Article VIII, section 1 of the Constitution. It might. That provision requires taxes to be levied uniformly and proportionately upon all tangible property. Even though the values might be unknown or unascertainable, it might be shown that some such minerals had greater prospects of production than others. To value all of them the same would appear to violate Article VIII, section 1.

It is therefore apparent that the amendment raises several questions as to constitutionality which might be difficult to answer.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 35
March 3, 1981

Dear Senator Fenger:

If it were to become operative law, LB 308 of the Eighty-seventh Legislature would materially amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-801 (Supp. 1980). You have asked three questions which pertain thereto. For reasons hereinafter stated, only one of those questions need be discussed.

Subject to certain conditions precedent, section 1 of LB 308 would ostensibly permit the registered voters of Class I school districts which form certain territory annexed to a Class III school district by petition to vote at an election as to which school district the annexed territory shall be a part of. However, the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-801 (Supp. 1980) which pertain to conducting such an election has been deleted in LB 308.

There is yet another problem with LB 308. Section 2 of LB 308 provides that the owner or owners of certain platted land may file a petition with the school board of the Class III school district of the city approving the plat in which a request is made that such land be transferred to and become a part of the Class III school district of the city approving the plat. It does not, however, contain any guidelines by which the school district is to administer such requests. Thus, the question immediately arises as to whether section 2 of LB 308 is violative of the distribution of powers section of the Constitution, to wit, Article II, Section 1, and also violative of the due process of law provision, Article I, Section 3 of the Constitution.

In the constitutional sense, legislative power is a part and parcel of the distribution of powers concept. Legislative power, of course, is the power to enact rules of law for the regulation of people or property. It involves the exercise of discretion as to the contents of statutes and their policy. Obviously, the Legislature may delegate legislative power to others. However, when it delegates such power to a public officer or administrative agency for the enforcement of its legislative will, the statute of delegation must contain reasonable guidelines and understandable fact standards by which the act will be administered. Williams v. County of Buffalo, 181 Neb. 233, 147 N.W.2d 776 (1967). As noted above, there are no fact standards in LB 308 by which the school board is to determine if the petition described in section 2 of LB 308 should be approved or disapproved. It therefore appears to us that LB 308 is unconstitutional.

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 36
March 4, 1981

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You have requested our opinion concerning the constitutional validity of LB 69 in light of its recent proposed amendment. In particular, you have raised the question as to whether the amendment would constitute special legislation.

LB 69 requires the use of child passenger restraint systems, and the proposed amendment which you have questioned would exclude children that are passengers of pickup trucks. It is our conclusion that if such an amendment is adopted, it would be difficult to defend this bill against a constitutional attack.

The question of special legislation has been dealt with frequently by our Court, and certain fundamental guidelines have been established.

> A legislative classification, in order to be valid, must be based upon some reason of public policy, some substantial difference of situation or circumstances, that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the objects to be classified. Classifications for the purpose of legislation must be real and not illusive; they cannot be based on distinctions without a substantial difference.

(Emphasis in original.) State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, 609, _ N.W.2d _ (1980).

The purpose of LB 69 is obviously to provide a greater degree of safety for young children who are passengers in motor vehicles. It would not appear that the exemption of pickup trucks from the operation of the proposed legislation is based upon any real difference in situation or circumstances. It is essential that legislation operate uniformly in order to be valid. Otoe County v. State Board of Equalization & Assessment, 182 Neb. 621, 156 N.W.2d 728 (1968). Therefore, it is our opinion that such an exemption could very well render this legislation constitutionally invalid.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 37

Dear Senator Kahle:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding L.B. 407 which would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. § 82-118 (Reissue 1976). Said statute presently authorizes the Nebraska State Historical Society to perform all acts necessary on behalf of the State of Nebraska to carry out the purposes and objectives of an Act of Congress entitled An Act to establish a program for the preservation of additional historic properties throughout the Nation, approved October 15, 1966, P.L. 89-665, 89th Cong. L.B. 407 would add the language, "as amended as of January 1, 1981," to the description of this congressional enactment. You have inquired whether the changes proposed by L.B. 407 are necessary in order for the Nebraska State Historical Society to continue participating in this historic preservation program.

P.L. 96-515, 96th Cong., 2nd Session, the National Historic Preservation Act Amendments of 1980, effective upon the President's signature on December 12, 1980, provides for significant changes in the historic preservation programs. Many of these modifications are directed at the nature and extent of state participation in the national historic preservation program.

Since, by its terms, § 82-118 directs the society to participate in the national program as it was established by the congressional enactment of 1966, without the amendment proposed by L.B. 407, in our opinion, serious questions would exist regarding the society's authority to participate in those programs established or modified by the federal act of 1980.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 38
March 5, 1981

Dear Senator L. Johnson:

In your letter of February 20, 1981, you asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of LB 489, in particular section 3, paragraphs 2 and 3. LB 489 involves the establishment of a penalty for tampering with meters involved in the provision of public services and utilities. Paragraph 2 of section 3 reads as follows:

> When there is no evidence to the contrary, the person performing any of the illegal acts in subsection (1) of this section and the person, who with knowledge of such violation receives the benefit of such service without proper charge as a result of such improper action shall be presumed to be responsible for such acts of tampering or diversion.

Paragraph 3 of this section merely provides for a fine of from one thousand to five thousand dollars for each such offense.

The Legislature may, of course, establish a fine as a means of punishment for the commission of a criminal offense. There is thus nothing technically wrong with paragraph 3 of LB 489, section 3. It should be noted, however, that as a criminal offense, the violation of this statute and the penalty imposed thereunder do not fall within the classification of misdemeanor offenses and penalties outlined in Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-106 (Reissue 1979). One of the purposes of the new Nebraska Criminal Code was to classify all crimes and to establish a uniform system of penalties for the various categories. The establishment of such individualized penalties thus erodes the effort that was placed into the new Criminal Code.

Your concern with paragraph 2 appears to be that it establishes a presumption of responsibility for the illegal acts, and hence guilt, when a person receives the benefit of the services at less than the proper charge, with knowledge of the existing violation.

The Nebraska Supreme Court dealt with the situation of a statutory presumption of guilt in the case of Mantell v. Jones, 150 Neb. 785, 36 N.W.2d 115 (1949). The court concluded that:

> [T]he rule to be applied is that an act of the Legislature declaring a prima facia case or a statutory presumption of guilt of a defined criminal offense upon proof of certain facts is valid and not subject to attack on constitutional grounds if in light of the common circumstances and experiences of life there is a rational connection between the facts thus to be proved and the ultimate fact to be presumed.

Id. at 792. The "rational connection" test has also been used by the United States Supreme Court in evaluating other such statutory presumptions in criminal cases. United States v. Gainey, 380 U.S. 63 (1965); and United States v. Romano, 382 U.S. 136 (1965). In Leary v. United States, 395 U.S. 6 at 36 (1969), the Court rephrased this test as follows, "[A] criminal statutory presumption must be regarded as 'irrational' or 'arbitrary' and hence unconstitutional, unless it can at least be said with substantial assurance that the presumed fact is more likely than not to flow from the proved fact on which it is made to depend."

It is thus necessary to examine the presumption created in LB 489 and determine exactly what it does in the contest of a criminal proceeding, and then to apply the "rational connection" or "substantial assurance" test to determine its validity. It is important to note that this section still provides that the prosecution must first establish a prima facie case. It must first be shown that the person received the benefit of such services without a proper charge as a result of a violation of the act or meter tampering, and that in turn this person had knowledge that such a violation or tampering had occurred. It is only then, and only if there has been no evidence presented to the contrary to show that this individual was not responsible, that the presumption applies that this person is responsible for the acts of tampering or diversion. Whether or not there has been any evidence presented to the contrary, appears to be a question for the finder of fact to resolve. Thus there is no automatic presumption of guilt arising under this statute. The defendant certainly has the opportunity to present evidence showing he was not in fact responsible and if he can present such evidence, there is no presumption. More importantly, all this occurs only after the prosecution has established its prima facie case.

If it can be shown that the individual had knowledge of the tampering, was receiving the benefit of the services at less than cost, and was able to present no evidence showing he was not, in fact, responsible, it appears to be entirely logical, within the realm of common experience, and virtually indisputable that this same individual is in actuality responsible for the original tampering or diversion of the services. In this regard, the test of a "rational connection'' or a ''substantial assurance'' appears to be more than satisfied. The presumption thus appears to be constitutionally valid, and not in violation of due process. It is therefore our opinion that LB 489, section 3, is constitutional and would in all likelihood be upheld if challenged in court.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE BILL 56. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 56:
Req. #2130

1. Strike the original sections and insert the following new sections:

''Section 1. The Legislature finds and declares that a permit system is necessary to protect Nebraska's ground and surface water resources and existing water users in situations where industrial users withdraw significant quantities of ground water from the aquifers of the state and in situations where such ground water is transferred from the well site for use at another location.

Sec. 2. For purposes of sections 1 to 16 of this act the definitions found in section 46-657 shall be used.

Sec. 3. After the effective date of this act, any person who desires to withdraw five thousand or more acre-feet of ground water, per year, from aquifers located within the State of Nebraska for industrial purposes shall, prior to commencing construction of any wells, obtain from the director a permit to authorize the withdrawal and any transfer of such ground water. As used in this section, industrial purposes shall include manufacturing, commercial, and power generation uses of water.

Sec. 4. (1) Applications for permits required by section 3 of this act shall be on forms provided by the director and shall contain:

(a) A statement of the amount of ground water which the applicant proposes to use;

(b) A statement of the proposed use and whether the ground water will be transferred for use at a location other than the well site;

(c) A hydrologic evaluation of the impact of the proposed use on the surrounding area; and

(d) Such other relevant information as the director may deem necessary or desirable.

(2) Such applications shall be accompanied by an exhibit of maps showing the location, depth, and capacity of the proposed wells.

Sec. 5. Within thirty days of the receipt of an application made under section 3 of this act, the director shall accept the application as a completed application or return the application to the applicant as an incomplete application. If the application is deemed to be incomplete, the director shall inform the applicant as to the deficiencies in the application.

Sec. 6. After the director has accepted the application made under section 3 of this act as a completed application, the director shall set a time and place for a public hearing on the application. The hearing shall be held within or in reasonable proximity to the area in which the wells would be located. The hearing shall be scheduled within ninety days after the application is accepted by the director.

Sec. 7. At the hearing provided for in section 6 of this act, the applicant shall present all hydrological data and other evidence supporting its application. All interested parties shall be allowed to testify and present evidence relative to the application.

Sec. 8. If it appears, from evidence presented at the hearing or otherwise available, that one or more existing uses of ground or surface water will be adversely affected by the applicant's proposed withdrawal and transfer, if any, of ground water, the applicant may negotiate with each such user in order to obtain an agreement whereby the user waives any cause of action against the applicant for damages or injunctive or other relief for interference with such water use, in exchange for financial payment, substitute water, or other compensation. The applicant shall file copies of any such agreements with the director who shall consider the agreements in determining whether to grant or deny a permit.

Sec. 9. (1) The director shall issue a written order containing specific findings of fact either granting or denying a permit. The director shall grant a permit only if he or she finds that the applicant's withdrawal and any transfer of ground water are in the public interest. In determining whether the withdrawal and transfer, if any, are in the public interest, the director's considerations shall include, but not be limited to:

(a) Possible adverse effects on existing surface or ground water users;

(b) The effect of the withdrawl and any transfer of ground water on surface or ground water supplies needed to meet anticipated domestic and agricultural demands in the area of the proposed ground water withdrawal;

(c) The availability of alternative sources of surface or ground water reasonably accessible to the applicant in or near the region of the proposed withdrawal or use;

(d) The economic benefit of the applicant's proposed use;

(e) The social and economic benefits of existing uses of surface or ground water in the area of the applicant's proposed use and any transfer;

(f) Any waivers of liability from existing users filed with the director; and

(g) Other factors reasonably affecting the equity of granting the permit.

(2) The director may grant a permit for less water than requested by the applicant. The director may also impose reasonable conditions on the manner and timing of the ground water withdrawals and on the matter of any transfer of ground water which the director deems necessary to protect existing users of water. The director shall issue such written order within ninety days of the hearing.

Sec. 10. A permit granted pursuant to section 9 of this act shall be revoked, following a hearing conducted in the same manner as hearings conducted pursuant to section 6 of this act, if the director determines that:

(1) The permitholder has failed to exercise the right to withdraw ground water within three years of the date specified in the permit, or for a period of three consecutive years thereafter;

(2) The permitholder withdraws more ground water than the amount specified in the permit; or

(3) The permitholder violates any of the conditions specified in the permit.

Sec. 11. Any affected person aggrieved by any order issued or final decision made by the director pursuant to this act may appeal in the manner provided by Chapter 84, article 9. As used in this section, the term affected person shall mean the applicant for a permit which is the subject of the director's order or final decision, and any owner of an estate or interest in or concerning land or water whose interest is or may be impacted in a direct and significant manner by the director's order or final decision.

Sec. 12. Any owner of an estate or interest in or concerning land or water, except a person who has signed an agreement filed with the director pursuant to section 8 of this act, may bring an action for damages or injunctive or other relief for any injury done to his or her land or water rights by the holder of a permit issued pursuant to section 9 of this act. Nothing in sections 1 to 16 of this act shall be construed as limiting the right to resort to other means of review, redress, or relief provided by law.

Sec. 13. Any person who withdraws or transfers ground water in violation of the provisions of sections 1 to 16 of this act shall be guilty of a Class I misdemeanor. Each day shall constitute a separate offense in cases of continued violation.

Sec. 14. The director may adopt and promulgate all rules and regulations necessary or desirable to secure compliance with sections 1 to 16 of this act. The director shall by regulation specify the contents and scope of the hydrologic evaluation required by section 4 of this act, taking into account the current state of hydrologic knowledge and techniques, and the factors for permit approval listed in section 9 of this act.

Sec. 15. Nothing in sections 1 to 16 of this act shall be construed to exempt the holder of a permit issued pursuant to section 9 of this act from any regulations adopted by a natural resources district pursuant to sections 46-656 to 46-674 for a control area designated before the permit has been granted.

Sec. 16. Sections 1 to 16 of this act shall be known and may be cited as the Industrial Ground Water Regulatory Act.

Sec. 17. That section 33-105, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

33-105. There shall be paid to the Department of Water Resources in advance for the services of the Director of Water Resources by the party demanding or necessitating the service the following fees: For filing, recording, and examining each application for a storage reservoir, for the first five thousand acre-feet or fraction thereof, twenty-five dollars, and for each additional five thousand acre-feet or fraction thereof, ten dollars; for filing, recording, and examining each application for water for irrigation from a natural stream, for the first one thousand acres proposed for irrigation or fraction thereof, two hundred dollars, and for each additional thousand acres or fraction thereof, one hundred dollars; for filing, recording, and examining each application for water for irrigation from a storage reservoir, for the first one thousand acres proposed for irrigation or fraction thereof, fifty dollars, and for each additional thousand acres or fraction thereof, twenty-five dollars; for filing, recording, and examining each application for water for power purposes, for each theoretical fifty horsepower or fraction thereof, five dollars; for filing, recording, and examining each application for water for each stock water reservoir, fish pond, ice pond, or other useful purpose for which no fee has been fixed, ten dollars; for filing, recording, and examining each application for withdrawal of ground water for industrial purposes, for the first five thousand acre-feet or fraction thereof, two thousand five hundred dollars, and for each additional one thousand acre-feet or fraction thereof, one thousand dollars; for filing any petition, affidavit, or other paper, ten dollars; for recording any deed or document pertaining to land covered in whole or in part by a water appropriation or any instrument other than an application, ten dollars; for blueprint copy of any map or drawing or for other copy of drawings or photostatic copy of any record, a reasonable sum to be fixed by the department in an amount estimated to cover the actual cost of preparing such a reproduction; for the examination of plans for any new dam and reservoir or enlargement, one dollar for each foot in height of the dam, and actual expenses while visiting and examining the site; for certificate and seal, one dollar, except that for any document filed with the Director of Water Resources in his or her capacity as Secretary to the Nebraska Power Review Board there shall be no charge. The Director of Water Resources shall keep a record of all money thus received. At the end of each calendar month he or she shall pay the same to the State Treasurer for the use of the General Fund and take his or her receipt therefor and file the same with the records of his or her office.

Sec. 18. That original section 33-105, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, is repealed.".

Opinion No. 39
March 4, 1981

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

In your letter of February 17, 1981, you requested our opinion ". . . on the constitutionality of LB 9 which prevents certain trusts from owning, buying or leasing agricultural lands in the state." We have reviewed the provisions of LB 9 in light of your request, and we will discuss below a number of threshold constitutional problems with this bill. Because these threshold problems relate to certain ambiguities we have found in the legislation, it is not possible for us to consider every constitutional issue which might be raised in a court of law. Rather, we have limited our discussion to these fundamental problems which, in our opinion, render LB 9 constitutionally suspect.

LB 9 is described by its introducer as an act relating to trusts, ". . . to prohibit the acquiring of additional agricultural land by certain trusts; . . . and to provide a penalty." At this point, we note that it is crucial, in understanding the operative provisions of the act, to define the term "trust" and to understand the activity prohibited by force of law.

Section 5 of the act defines "trust" as meaning:

> [A] fiduciary relationship with respect to property, subjecting the person by whom the property is held to equitable duties to deal with the property for the benefit of another person, which arises as a result of a manifestation of an intention to create it. Trust does not include a person acting in a fiduciary capacity, as defined in section 4 of this act. A trust includes a legal entity holding property as trustee, agent, escrow agent, attorney-in-fact, and in any similar capacity.

You will note we underlined that portion of the definition above which excluded from the definition of trust "a person acting in a fiduciary capacity, as defined in section 4 of this act." Section 4 of LB 9 defines "fiduciary capacity" as meaning "an undertaking to act as executor, administrator, personal representative, guardian, conservator, or receiver." Therefore, while the legislation attempts to describe what a trust is not intended to mean, we are left with a great deal of confusion as to what type of entity constitutes a "trust" for the purposes of this act.

Since the act does not contain a detailed statement of purpose and does not reference any particular example beyond "a legal entity holding property as trustee, . . . and in any similar capacity," we turn now to accepted legal definitions of the term "trust."

A trust has been defined as the right, enforceable solely in equity, to the beneficial enjoyment of property the legal title to which is vested in another. 89 C.J.S., Trusts §2 at 712 (1955). It has been otherwise defined as an obligation on a person arising out of a confidence reposed in him to apply property faithfully according to such confidence. Id. Furthermore, terms such as "trust" and "trust fund" have been defined as merely describing a body of rights, and not constituting any separate entity. In other words, the parties and real interests are the owners of the trust income or the remainder interest in the property.

Applying these accepted legal definitions to the problem at hand, we note that section 9 of the act provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

> No trust, other than a family trust, authorized trust, or testamentary trust, shall either directly or indirectly, acquire or otherwise obtain or lease any agricultural land in this state, . . .

Penalty provisions are then set out at section 10 of the act, providing:

> Any trust, other than a family trust, authorized trust, or testamentary trust, violating this act shall upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than fifty thousand dollars and shall divest itself of any land acquired in violation of this act within one year after conviction.

Two clear problems emerge in attempting to interpret these fundamental operating provisions of the act. First, the prohibitions are directed toward an entity known as a "trust" which is something other than a person, but also something undefined by the act. This ambiguity is further complicated by the apparent attempt, at section 10, to impose criminal liability for a violation of the act, apparent from the use of the terms "conviction" and "punished by a fine." Our Supreme Court has held that when the Legislature uses such terms associated with the criminal law, it will be presumed that the remedies contemplated were those generally used in courts exercising criminal jurisdiction. State v. Missouri Pacific Railway Co., 64 Neb. 679, 90 N.W. 877 (1902). Given the act's attempt to impose criminal sanctions for enforcement purposes, the offense must be defined with sufficient definiteness and ascertainable standards of guilt to inform those subject thereto as to what particular conduct will render them liable for punishment. State v. Huffman, 202 Neb. 434, 275 N.W.2d 838 (1979).

The persons having an interest in any pruchases made by, or enforcement actions brought against a trust are the trustee and beneficiaries. However, the prohibitions and enforcement provisions of the act do not even address these parties. Consequently, we have great difficulty in understanding how these provisions could be enforced, much less interpreted in a way to satisfy the constitutional standards of notice to the affected trust, trustees, and beneficiaries. Penal statutes which prohibit certain acts and provide punishment for their violation should not be susceptible to ambiguity so that a citizen may act upon one conception of the law, and the courts upon another. Id.

As we mentioned at the outset, it is difficult for us to discuss further constitutional problems given these interpretative difficulties we have had with the proposed legislation. We simply note at this point that, if the act is intended to restrict the actions of, or impose sanctions upon trustees, provisions must be made to reconcile such standards with the general provisions for trust administration set forth at Neb.Rev.Stat. §30-2812, et seq. (Reissue 1979). Furthermore, we would note that certain beneficiaries may have an interest in such trust property, and the state cannot demand a forfeiture thereof without establishing strict notice and procedural due process guidelines for such a taking. Asbury Hospital v. Cass County, 326 U.S. 207 (1945). Finally, we have not discussed constitutional issues raised by the Legislature treating one class of trust as separate in part from other types of trust, at least with regard to the purchase and lease of agricultural property. We believe it inappropriate to discuss these separate issues when we are not certain of the activity the legislation is designed to prevent, given the definitional problems discussed above.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 40
March 5, 1981

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

This letter is in response to your inquiry of February 20, 1981, regarding whether, under existing law, the State Fire Marshal can adopt a fire code for high rise buildings as is contemplated by LB 266.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-502 (Reissue 1976) provides in pertinent part:

> It shall be the duty of the State Fire Marshal, under authority of the Governor . . . (2) to promote safety and reduce loss by fire; (3) after a careful study and investigation of relevant data > bearing thereon, to promulgate, alter and enforce rules and regulations covering: (a) The prevention of fires; . . . (c) electric wiring and heating, protection equipment devices, materials, furnishings, and other safeguards within the structure necessary to promote safety and reduce loss by fire, and the means and adequacy of exits, in case of fire, in assembly, educational, institutional, residential, mercantile, office, storage, and industrial-type occupancies . . .and all other buildings, structures and enclosures in which numbers of persons congregate from time to time for any purpose whether privately or publicly owned; . . .

It is our opinion that the State Fire Marshal currently has the authority under the aforementioned statute to adopt rules and regulations establishing a high-rise building code with the restriction that the regulations may not impose an ". . . unduly severe or costly burden without substantially contributing to safety of persons or property. . ." Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-502.

Although the aforementioned statute does not set forth a height distinction for covered structures, so long as any rules or regulations which impose more stringent requirements on higher structures of the same class are reasonably related to the additional hazards accompanying the higher building, an example being the difficulty in evacuation, the adoption of such rules or regulations would be within the Fire Marshal's authority.

Opinion No. 41

Re: LB 508

Dear Senator DeCamp:

We are responding to your letter dated March 2, 1981, in which you request our opinion regarding the constitutionality of section 14 of that bill as well as the effect of that section upon existing reclamation law. You specifically ask several questions which we will answer below.

Section 14 of LB 508 reads as follows:

> A qualified elector of the district for purposes of the elections held pursuant to section 46-530 for determining board members and section 46-541 for continuance of the district, shall include those persons or public corporations on whose land works are or are projected to be built. Such person or public corporation shall have one vote per acre or less of land on which the works are or shall be located.

You first ask whether this section restricts voters in reclamation districts to only landowners on whose land project facilities are located. The term "qualified voter" is ambiguous as written. As we read this definition, qualified voter could be interpreted to include multiple owners of land as well as lessees, mortgagors and anyone with an interest in the land. One piece of land could, thus, yield innumerable qualified electors. As it is written, it could also include the public corporation as a separate voter not only for its land but land which is within its jurisdiction. This is not clear.

The term does limit qualified voters to those who have an interest in land upon which the works will be or are located. "Works" are defined in Neb.Rev.Stat. §46-507 (Reissue 1978) as including all the reservoirs, canals, pipelines, tunnels, transmission lines, drainage canals and facilities and improvements necessary or convenient for the supplying of water and power. The definition would exclude others whose land is within the district yet is not crossed by works of the district. Therefore, the definition would clearly exclude persons who have an ihterest in land in the district yet whose land is not crossed by these works.

The reading of this section with Neb.Rev.Stat. §46-530 (Resssue 1978) would include as a qualified voter, any qualified voter of any municipality whether or not the works crossed the property of that voter if that municipality is located within the territory composing the district.

You next ask whether it excludes other project participants and communities from being able to be in reclamation districts. We do not see any automatic exclusion of other participants or communities from being able to become a part of the reclamation district.

You next ask whether it excludes other participants or communities from being able to vote on formation of districts and on directors. From our reading of this definition of qualified elector, it does appear to exclude others than those whose lands are crossed by the works and land holders in municipalities from voting on district affairs.

You ask whether every member of a public corporation would have one vote per acre or less of land held by a corporation in a district. We do conclude that every qualified elector of a public corporation or municipality would have a separate vote for each acre or less held by him or her. Nowhere is there a limit of those voting to one for each acre. The definition seems to include anyone having an interest in that particular acre. It would also appear that the public corporation may vote as well upon land within its jurisdiction although this is not clear.

We conclude that the definition is so vague and ambiguous as to not be susceptible of clear interpretation and therefore would probably not sustain a constitutional challenge.

Further we conclude that a challenge may also be successful on the ground that there is no rational basis for the different treatment of persons similarly situated. Persons living in a municipality would have the right to vote even though the district works was not located on their land, whereas those outside a municipality would have no such vote.

You ask the effects of this legislation upon the formation of reclamation districts in the future. This is purely supposition. We can envision that property owners who would be denied a vote in the operation of the district and imposition of taxes upon them may not wish to be included in such a district. We hope we have answered your questions.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 42

Dear Senator Wesely:

In your letter of February 23, 1981, you ask our opinion as to whether the authority that would be granted to cities and villages by LB 257, section 1, to establish minimum energy efficiency standards and to apply them to existing buildings already belongs to the cities and villages. That portion of LB 257 which amends Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-1720 (Reissue 1977) reads as follows:

> (2) For the purposes of this section, the term nuisance shall include any building which does not meet minimum standards > for energy efficiency established by such city or village. All cities and villages may by ordinance establish minimum standards for energy efficiency designed to prevent the unnecessary waste of nonrenewable energy resources in existing buildings.

You have posed a very difficult question, and one to which there is perhaps no concrete answer. First, note that Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-1618 (1980 Supp.) already grants to cities and villages the power to adopt and enforce lighting and thermal efficiency standards within the parameters established by the Nebraska Building Energy Conservation Standard. This authority, however, applies only to new construction or substantial renovations and not to existing buildings.

The proposed amendment would allow cities and villages to enforce minimum energy efficiency standards by treating energy inefficient buildings as nuisances. Under Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-1720 (Reissue 1977), cities and villages already have the power to define and regulate nuisances. Of course, an energy inefficient building appears to be a very exaggerated concept of a nuisance as that term is commonly used and defined. A public nuisance is generally defined as something that "injuriously affects the safety, health, or morals of the public, or works some substantial annoyance, inconvenience, or injury to the public." 58 Am.Jur.2d, Nuisances, §7. A review of Nebraska's statutes and case law dealing with public nuisances generally shows that this label has been applied to those situations or activities which have posed a direct threat to the public health, safety, morality and welfare. It is perhaps arguable in this day and age of energy shortages and great concern over the future of nonrenewable energy resources that an energy inefficient building could somehow be construed as a public nuisance. It is at least not in the general public interest. Nevertheless, the effect of an energy inefficient building on the public as a whole is at best indirect and of only possible long term consequences. With nothing more than the existing power under §18-1720 a very substantial showing of a deleterious effect on the public would have to be made before the categorization of an energy inefficient building as a public nuisance would likely be upheld. Of course, LB 257 would appear to solve part of that problem by defining such a building as a public nuisance.

It should be noted that Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-132 (Reissue 1977) gives the power to cities and villages to adopt local building, fire, electrical, plumbing and other codes. Conceivably, such codes could include an energy efficiency standard. Additionally, for cities of the metropolitan class, Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-102(25) (Reissue 1977) grants the authority to make and enforce police regulations for the general welfare, health, and safety of the city and the inhabitants thereof. The other classes of cities are also given the general authority to enact ordinances to promote the peace, good government, and general welfare of the city and for the promotion of the pulbic health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§15-263, 16-246, 17-505 (Reissue 1977). These statutes have generally been construed to allow cities and villages to enact ordinances that are necessary or fairly implied in order to carry out powers which have been expressly granted by statute.

It is thus conceivable that grant of police power under these sections could be construed to allow cities and villages to adopt and enforce energy efficiency standards which would affect existing buildings. Two problems arise in this area, however. The first problem is that the Nebraska Supreme Court has generally required a strict construction of the powers granted to cities and villages.

> The rule has long been established in this state that a municipal corporation may exercise only such powers as are expressly granted, those necessarily or fairly implied in or incidental to powers expressly granted, and those essential to the declared objects and purposes of a municipality. Statutes granting powers to municipalities are to be strictly construed, and where doubt exists, such doubt must be resolved against the grant.

Briar West, Inc. v. City of Lincoln, 206 Neb. 172, 175, 176, ___N.W.2d___ (1980). There is, of course, no specific grant of power to the cities and villages to implement such energy standards as they would apply to existing buildings. It is arguable whether or not such a power could be necessarily implied from the existing powers. Nevertheless, a strict construction of existing statutes would most likely not permit the adoption of such an energy efficiency standard as it would apply to existing buildings.

The second problem with such an approach has been enunciated by the Nebraska Supreme Court as follows:

> The right to full and free use and enjoyment of one's property in a manner and for such purposes as the owner may choose, so long as it is not for the maintenance of a nuisance or injurious to others, is a privilage protected by law, and one of which a property owner may not be deprived without due process of law. The owner's right to use his property is subject, however, to reasonable regulation, restriction, and control by the state in the legitimate exercise of its police powers. The test of legitimacy is the existence of a real and substantial relationship between the exercise of those powers in a particular manner, and the peace, public health, public morality, public safety, or the general welfare of the city.

> There must be a reasonable relationship between the object the ordinance seeks to accomplish and the means by which it operates.

Eckstein v. City of Lincoln, 202 Neb. 741 at 744, 277 N.W.2d 91 (1979). Stated differently, "A regulatory statute adopted by virtue of the police power which has no reasonable relation to the public health, safety, and welfare is invalid." United States Brewers' Assn., Inc. v. State, 192 Neb. 328, 333, 220 N.W.2d 544 (1974).

The requirement that existing buildings comply with a minimum energy efficiency standard is in reality such an interference in the use of one's property. In that regard it would be necessary to make a substantial showing that a building which is not energy efficient, is adverse to the public health, safety, or welfare. It is certainly arguable, at this point in time, whether or not the conservation of energy has risen to such a critical level.

Thus while it is possible to argue that cities and villages have the power to enact and enforce minimum energy efficiency standards for existing buildings under the presently enacted laws of this state, the safer approach, using the strict construction standard required by the Nebraska Supreme Court, would be that the present laws do not grant such powers to the cities and villages.

You have also asked, that in the event such powers are not presently available to the cities and villages, whether §18-1720 is the correct section to amend in order to grant that authority. As indicated, §18-1720 deals with nuisances and we have already discussed whether or not an energy inefficient building could reasonably be construed as a nuisance under the traditional definitions of a public nuisance. While it probably is within the power of the Legislature to define such a building as a public nuisance, it would still seem to be necessary to be able to make a showing that such an interference with an individual's use of his property bears a reasonable relationship to the maintenance of the public welfare.

Several other statutes have been referred to in this opinion which could conceivably be amended to grant authority to cities and villages to adopt and enforce a minimum energy efficiency standard that would apply to existing buildings. Possibly there are others, but the necessity for a prompt response to your question prohibits a detailed examination of all of the current laws at this time. Whether the amendment of any of these statutes would be more appropriate than another depends, of course, upon the manner in which the Legislature wishes to grant this particular power to the cities and villages. In this regard it is perhaps inappropriate for the Attorney General to say which existing statute would be the best to amend in order to achieve the intended legislative purpose. Such a determination is much more appropriately a function of the Legislature.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 43

Dear Senator Hefner:

You have asked whether sections 1 and 2 of LB 206 are constitutional when expenses are to be paid to members of the Legislature while the Legislature is in session, and whether sections 1 and 2 of LB 206 are constitutional in authorizing the payment of expenses while the Legislature is not in session. You further ask for the distinction if they are constitutional in one respect and unconstitutional in the other respect. We refer you to our opinion to Senator Chambers of this session, Opinion No. 17, February 6, 1981, a copy of which is attached hereto.

In that opinion, you will note in our last paragraph we stated, "We therefore reaffirm our previous opinions which have stated that it is unconstitutional for members of the Legislature to receive payment for their expenses incurred during legislative sessions except as those payments are in accordance with Article III, Section 7, of the Constitution." Further, in our opinion to Senator Chambers, we referred to certain other prior opinions of this office. Those are opinion numbers 60 and 63 Report of the Attorney General in 1959-1960, opinion numbers 60, 164 and 178, Report of the Attorney General 1977-1978. Copies of each of those opinions have been attached to your letter. Those opinions set forth the basis for the distinction for the payment of expenses of Legislators when the Legislature is not in session vis-a-vis when the Legislature is in session. We trust that these references will answer your question that LB 206 is indeed unconstitutional insofar as it authorizes the payment of legislative expenses other than those authorized by the Constitution while the Legislature is in session. We further believe that these opinions set forth the basis for the distinction which has been followed for many years with respect to expenses which are paid to Legislators in performing their legislative duties while the Legislature is not in session.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Sec. 7. The intent of the Local Revenue Sharing and Property Tax Relief Act is to provide a long-term revenue sharing formula for schools, counties, and cities which will reduce their dependence on property taxes, eliminate numerous replacement revenue provisions, and return the total taxing authority on sales to the state.

Sec. 8. There is hereby created a fund to be known as the Local Revenue Sharing and Property Tax Relief Fund. There shall be placed in and appropriated from such fund for fiscal year 1983-84 three hundred dollars from funds collected by a general sales tax and income tax for aid to counties, incorporated municipalities, and school districts and each fiscal year thereafter there shall be placed in and appropriated from such fund an amount not to exceed an increase of more than seven per cent of the amount placed in such fund the previous year.

Sec. 9. Of the money appropriated by the Legislature from the Local Revenue Sharing and Property Tax Relief Fund pursuant to section 8 of this act:

(1) Fifty-five dollars shall be distributed to the various county treasurers of the state on the basis of the ratio of the valuation of real estate of the particular county to the valuation of real estate of the entire state as certified by the respective county assessors to the Tax Commissioner in the abstract of the assessment rolls and as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, which amounts shall be placed in the general fund of the county;

(2) Ninety dollars shall be distributed to the various incorporated municipalities of the state on the basis of the ratio of the population of the particular incorporated municipality to the population of all cities and villages as determined by the latest federal or any other comparable census, which amount shall be placed in the general fund of the incorporated municipality, except that the total population of cities of the metropolitan class shall be multiplied by one and six-tenths in

Sec. 10. The Tax Commissioner shall determine the amount to be distributed to the various counties and incorporated municipalities and certify such amounts by voucher to the Director of Administrative Services. Each amount shall be distributed in twelve as nearly as possible equal monthly payments between the fifth and twentieth day of each month beginning July, 1983, and each July thereafter. The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of funds available in the General Fund for payment purposes. The Director of Administrative Services shall, upon receipt of such notification and vouchers, draw warrants against funds appropriated.

68-1022. Except for care in a state institution and care on behalf of persons who have a right of residence on any reservation under the jurisdiction of the government of the United States, the cost of medical assistance paid by the county in which the recipient may have a legal settlement shall be eighteen per cent commencing July 1, 1979. Commencing July 1, ~~1980~~ 1983, and thereafter, the county shall pay ~~sixteen~~ fifteen per cent of the cost of such medical assistance. If a recipient has no county legal settlement, medical assistance shall be paid from state funds and such funds as may be allocated by the government of the United States.

Any money in the Tax Refund Fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to the provisions of sections 72-1237 to 72-1259.

The county treasurer may amend the certification to show any change or correction in the total tax that will be lost until May 30 of the next succeeding year. ~~The Tax Commissioner shall, on or before January 1 next following such certification or within thirty days of any amendment to the certification, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount so certified. Such examination shall analyze and study revenue expenditure data and information and provide proposed legislation which prescribes the manner and dollar amounts necessary to implement such local revenue sharing.

Sec. 18. If any portion of this act is finally adjudicated invalid, the entire act is void. The provisions of this act are intended to be nonseverable. If this act shall be declared invalid, all sections of law repealed by this act are revived.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 9, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and
Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I hereby return LB 206 and LB 206A without my signature and with my objections.

As was the case with LB 690 from last year, LB 206 provides that each member of the Legislature shall be allowed necessary expenses incurred while performing in the official capacity as a member of the Legislature.

The Attorney General has again advised, as he did last year, that this bill violates Article III, Section 7, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska.

I therefore veto LB 206 and LB 206A.

Respectfully,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 44
March 5, 1981

Dear Senator Vickers:

In your letter of January 29, 1981, you requested our opinion of the constitutionality of LB 32, a bill to prohibit the possession or operation of any radar detection or transmission device while operating a motor vehicle within the state. You have also asked whether the bill is in conflict with or in violation of the Federal Communications Act of 1934 or Title 47 of the United States Code.

The bill is clearly directed toward assisting law enforcement agencies in their enforcement of speed laws. That is a proper function of the police power of the Legislature in furthering the safety of the public on Nebraska roads and highways. The language of the statute appears adequate to comply with due process requirements of notice as to what is prohibited and the provisions for storage of such devices in a place not readily accessible to the occupants of the automobile is a reasonable compromise between the purpose of the act and the interests of interstate travelers who may be entering Nebraska from a state where the operation of a radar detection or jamming device is permitted or traveling from Nebraska through such a state.

One area of some concern is the definition of "possession." It could be argued that the function of the term is to create an irrebuttable presumption that a device which is hooked up to a power source or within ready access to any person in the vehicle was being used to evade the enforcement of speed laws. In that event the bill would probably be held unconstitutional because conclusive presumptions are disfavored, particularly in criminal law, and it is impermissible to shift the burden of proof to the defendant. (See, e.g., Crenshaw v. Commonwealth, 219 Va. 38, 245 S.E.2d 243 (1978).) However, in Ulster County Court v. Allen, 442 U.S. 140 (1979), the United States Supreme Court considered the validity of a statutory presumption and a synopsis of the cases on the subject provided therein would indicate that questions have arisen out of situations where there has been a presumption expressly created by law or jury instruction rather than where the effect of a law is to create a presumption. In addition, statutes are to be construed when possible in a manner which will sustain their constitutionality. The definition of "possession" may be a concession for interstate travelers aimed at avoiding arguments that the bill has an unconstitutionally detrimental impact on interstate commerce. With this construction, as opposed to one which would interpret the bill to create an irrebuttable presumption of "use," the proposed legislation would probably not be considered constitutionally defective.

The issue of whether the proposed legislation is in conflict with, or in violation of, the Federal Communications Act of 1934, 47 U.S.C. §151, et seq., is essentially a question of whether the federal government has preempted the field and precluded state legislation on the subject. In accomplishing its purposes as relates to radio the FCC has principally regulated transmissions. It does not appear that Congress has intended to preempt the field when it comes to the reception of transmissions. Section 2, paragraph (1), of LB 32 defines a radar detection device as a "mechanism designed to detect the emission of radio microwaves in the electromagnetic spectrum, which microwaves, commonly referred to as radar, are employed by law enforcement officials to measure the speed of motor vehicles." State legislation concerning radar detection devices has not been precluded since it is the reception rather than generation of transmissions which is being regulated.

The federal government has regulated in the area of transmission of radio waves, which is the subject of the portion of LB 32 prohibiting the possession or operation of radar transmission devices. Nevertheless, it is clear that there is not a conflict between LB 32 and the federal statutes and rules pertaining to the FCC. Both have the purpose of preventing interference with radio waves. However, the primary purpose for the federal legislation is to assist the formation of an efficient, nationwide communications system while the primary purpose of LB 32 is to protect persons on the roads and highways of this state by preventing the obstruction of the enforcement of speed laws. Since there is no conflict and since the need for uniformity is not so great as to exclude state legislation, joint jurisdiction in this area should be permitted. See, McInerney v. Ervin, 46 So. 2d 458 (Fla. 1950).

In conclusion, it is our opinion that legislation in this area has not been precluded by the federal legislation and that the constitutionality of the bill, if enacted, would be upheld.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Sec. 3. As used in sections 1 to 8 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires:

(3) Provide assistance to state agencies for economical forms design and forms art work composition and establish and supervise control procedures to prevent the undue creation and reproduction of state forms;

(4) Provide assistance, training, and instruction in forms management techniques to state agencies forms management representatives, and departmental forms coordinators, and provide direct administrative and forms management assistance to new state organizations or institutions as they are created;

(5) Maintain a central cross index of state forms to facilitate the standardization of such forms, to eliminate redundant forms, and to provide a central source of forms usage and availability information;

(6) Utilize appropriate procurement techniques, as defined in sections 81-145 to 81-162 and 81-1118, to take advantage of competitive bidding, consolidated orders, and contract procurement of forms, and work for more efficient, economical, and timely procurement, receipt, storage, and distribution of state forms;

(7) Conduct periodic evaluation of the effectiveness of the overall forms management program and the forms management practices of the individual state agencies, and maintain records which indicate net dollar savings which have been realized through centralized forms management;

(8) Enter into agreements which delegate implementing action to state agencies where such mutually developed arrangements will result in the most timely and economical method of accomplishing the responsibilities set forth in this act; and

(9) Adopt and promulgate rules and regulations to implement the overall purposes of this act.

Sec. 6. The department, by rule and regulation, shall provide:

(2) That any form required by an agency on an emergency basis may be given interim approval by the forms management center if such form is filed with the forms management center and is accompanied by a letter from the director or head of the state agency stating the nature of the emergency and requesting interim approval of such form.

Sec. 7. Each state agency shall appoint a forms management representative and provide necessary assistance in implementing the forms management program within such agency.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 45
March 6, 1981

Dear Senator Koch:

We are in receipt of your letter of February 25, 1981 in which you request our opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 368. Generally, this legislation would add provisions to the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act, § 49-1401 et seq. and would specifically relate to false or deceptive campaign practices.

While you specifically inquire as to whether or not any of the provisions of this legislative bill would conflict with the Bill of Rights to the Constitution of the United States, we presume that your inquiry is directed primarily at the protections and freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

As a general statement of law, a state legislature may enact laws reasonably regulating elections without violating the constitutional guarantees of the First Amendment. See generally, C.J.S., Constitutional Law, § 213(23). More specifically, the United States Supreme Court held in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1:

> In view of the fundamental nature of the right to associate, government "action which may have the affect of curtailing the freedom to associate is subject to the closest scrutiny" [citation omitted] Yet it is clear that "[n]either the right to associate nor the right to participate in political activities is absolute" [citation omitted] Even a "significant interference with protected rights of political association" may be sustained if the State demonstrates a sufficiently important interest and employs means closely drawn to avoid unnecessary abridgement of associational freedoms. [citations omitted].

From our examination of the provisions contained within Legislative Bill 368, we are of the opinion that the prohibitions contained therein would survive close constitutional scrutiny.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 46
March 9, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding LB 4 which addresses the Governor's authority to proclaim holidays. Specifically, you have inquired as follows:

> If the permissive language in the statutes is stricken would the governor still have the authority to declare paid and/or unpaid holidays for state employees? If the governor should exercise his discretion and declare an unpaid holiday, what would be the state's liabilities, if any, to employees whose wages were lost?

A holiday is "a day in which the ordinary occupations are suspended, or a day of exemption or cessation from work or of festivity, recreation, or amusement" 40 C.J.S., Holidays, § 1, p. 410. Accordingly, our opinion is specifically limited to the Governor's authority to proclaim a holiday as opposed to his authority to suspend work during an emergency or otherwise.

We note that LB 4 as currently written would delete the Governor's authority to proclaim a holiday from only Neb.Rev.Stat. § 84-1001 (Reissue 1976). Two other statutes contain provisions concerning the Governor's authority to close state offices and to pay certain employees. Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-117(2) (Supp. 1980) provides in part:

> Regular employees working on the hourly basis shall be paid wages equivalent to their regular wages for the usual number of hours worked for days declared by statutory act or proclamation of the President of the United States or the Governor to be holidays . . . .

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-113 (Reissue 1976) provides that "[e]ach department shall be open for the transaction of business at least from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., of each day except Saturdays, Sundays, and days declared by statutory enactment or proclamation of the President or Governor to be holidays." We assume that you intend to delete the permissive language from these statutes also. If such were not the case, the provision in LB 4 requiring that employees render not less than forty hours of labor each week would conflict with §§ 81-113 and 81-117(2) and your questions could not be definitively answered.

Assuming that the language allowing the Governor to proclaim a holiday will be stricken from §§ 81-113, 81-117(2) and 84-1001, he would then be left without any statutory power to proclaim a holiday. However, the Governor's authority over employees in the executive branch is not solely derived from statute. Article IV, Section 6 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska provides that "[t]he supreme executive power shall be vested in the Governor, who shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed and the affairs of the state efficiently and economically administered." However, wide discretion is vested in the Legislature as to the conditions of public employment. Gossman v. State Employees' Retirement System, 177 Neb. 326, 129 N.W.2d 97 (1964). Each case must be weighed on its own facts to ensure that one branch of government is not encroaching upon another. We did not discover a case specifically addressing the balance of power as it concerns holidays. By examination of various cases concerning the separation of powers, we conclude that the Legislature has the discretion to determine the days and the hours during which state statutory offices will be open.

The Legislature has partially acted in this area. Section 81-113 provides in part that "each department shall be open for the transaction of business at least from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., of each day except Saturdays, Sundays, ..." Although the term "department" as used in this section has never been construed by the courts, it apparently refers to those listed in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-101 (Reissue 1976), such being the Department of Agriculture, Labor, Health, Roads, Water Resources, Banking and Finance, Insurance, Motor Vehicles, Public Welfare, Public Institutions, Administrative Services, Economic Development, and Correctional Services. We are unaware of any other statutory provision governing the hours or days during which state offices must be open.

The Legislature has set the business hours of only a limited number of departments. There are many other offices, boards, commissions and the like which have not been dealt with. Practicality requires that someone set the hours of business for these other entities. We conclude that the supreme executive power vested in the Governor allows him to set the hours of business for entities coming under his authority and for which the Legislature has not otherwise acted. (We note that only non-constitutional executive offices fall under the Governor's authority.) This power has the practical effect of allowing the Governor to declare a holiday for employees of such entities.

It is possible that the Governor could proclaim that employees be paid for such a holiday. Again, it is a separation of powers question for which there is no constant answer. Each case must be determined upon its own facts. State of Nebraska ex rel. Meyer v. State Board of Equalization and Assessment, 185 Neb. 490, 176 N.W.2d 920 (1970) is a prime example. The court therein states:

> Under all constitutional governments recognizing three distinct and independent magistracies, the control of the purse strings of government is a legislative function; indeed, it is the supreme legislative prerogative, indispensable to the independence and integrity of the legislature . . . . The right of the legislature to control the public treasury, . . . is firmly and inexpugnably established in our political system.

Quoting from Colbert v. State, 86 Miss. 769, 39 So. 65. The same case later states,

> It [the Legislature] cannot through the power of appropriation exercise or invade the constitutional rights and powers of the executive branch . . . . It cannot administer the appropriation once it has been made . . . . All authorities are in agreement that it is impossible to fix exact limits in the area of constitutional separation of powers.

The Meyer court went on to hold that the Legislature could validly impose a ceiling on personal service expenditures within the executive branch. By examination of Meyer and other separation of power cases we conclude that the Governor would have the authority to proclaim that employees be paid for a day during which they did not work due to a holiday so long as funds were available which were not restricted from use for such a purpose by the Legislature.

Even if funds were so restricted, it would not necessarily mean that the state would not be legally obligated to provide compensation. Various constitutional, statutory and contractual provisions may be applicable. Compensation is made by salary and hourly wage. It is set by constitution, statute, personal contract, union contract and implied agreement. The duty to compensate may vary dependent upon particular circumstances. The possible circumstances are too numerous to catalogue. We can only conclude that so long as the Governor retains the authority to close certain state offices, the possibility exists that the state will be legally obligated to compensate an employee for his lost wages.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 47
March 9, 1981

Dear Senator Warner:

In connection with your proposed amendments to LB 173, 87th Legislature, First Session (1981), which deals with the granting of conservation or preservation easements upon real estate, with certain conditions thereon, you have asked whether language in the bill conditioning such easements upon approval of the granting thereof by certain governmental bodies would be an unreasonable restraint upon alienation. You also inquire if your proposed amendments would remove the restraints, if any.

We are inclined to agree that the approval provision of subsection (2) of section 2 of the bill might be construed to be unreasonable restraint since no guidelines are provided, thus leaving discretion over granting or denying approval unrestricted. We feel that your proposed Amendment #1 is an improvement, since the last sentence thereof does provide some guidelines. We do feel, however, that the language of Amendment #1 would be even less subject to attack if the language of that last sentence read "that approval could be denied if the easement was inconsistent with the comprehensive plan for the area which had been officially adopted and was in force at the time of the conveyance." Also, the last clause "or as otherwise not in the public interest" should probably be deleted for the same reason.

Proposed Amendment #2, does away with the concept of approval altogether. It merely provides a "cooling off period" together with an opportunity to comment, which would not be binding on the parties to the conveyance. We are unable to see an unreasonable restraint upon alienation.

Your second question has to do with subsection (1) of section 3 of the bill, which allows all holders of such easements, except charitable corporations or trusts, to release such easements. Since charitable corporations are, or can be authorized by law to hold and convey property, it is thought that the singling out of charitable corporations or trusts as the only entities not having the power to release these easements raises the constitutional question of proper or improper classification, and would probably result in a finding of unconstitutionality. Your question is whether the removal of the language which singles them out would strengthen this section against possible attack, and we believe that it would.

Your remaining questions have to do with the tax consequences to the grantee or donee in the instrument creating the conservation or preservation easement. We are not at all sure that there would be consequences. A normal easement gives the grantee or owner of the dominant estate certain rights of use in and to real estate constituting the subservient estate. The conservation and preservation easements contemplated in LB 173 are, rather, negative easements or restrictions on use. We do not see any use of a subservient estate by the grantee of the easement, but only a restriction upon the use of the land by its owner, the grantor. Thus, if the instrument creating the easement does not create a use or right of use of the grantee, it would appear to be a moot point to discuss whether that which is created by the instrument is used exclusively for educational, religious, charitable, or cemetery purposes.

Most of such negative restrictive easements have been acquired by governmental agencies, with the question of tax consequences to the grantee not arising. We do believe, however, that an analogy may be drawn between such negative restrictive easements and restrictive covenants.

Restrictive covenants are limitations placed upon the use of real estate by the grantor when real estate is conveyed away. These negative restrictive easements are, on the other hand, conveyed away by the owner of the property.

Despite the difference in the mechanics of creating the restrictions, we believe the effect of both types of transactions is the same. And we know of no instance of a grantor placing restrictive covenants upon property he is selling having been held to have to pay property tax upon the restrictions, unless they specifically benefit some other land.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Judiciary

LEGISLATIVE BILL 126. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 126:
Req. #2160

1. Strike the original sections and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. That section 28-509, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

28-509. As used in sections 28-509 to 28-518 and section 3 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) Deprive shall mean:

(a) To withhold property of another permanently or for so extended a period as to appropriate a major portion of its economic value, or with intent to restore only upon payment of reward or other compensation; or

(b) To dispose of the property of another so as to create a substantial risk that the owner will not recover it in the condition it was when the actor obtained it;

(2) Financial institution shall mean a bank, insurance company, credit union, building and loan association, investment trust, or other organization held out to the public as a place of deposit of funds or medium of savings or collective investment;

(3) Movable property shall mean property the location of which can be changed, including things growing on, affixed to, or found in land, and documents although the rights represented thereby may have no physical location. Immovable property shall mean all other property;

(4) Obtain shall mean:

(a) In relation to property, to bring about a transfer or purported transfer of a legal interest in the property, whether to the obtainer or another; or

(b) In relation to labor or service, to secure performance thereof;

(5) Property shall mean anything of value, including real estate, tangible and intangible personal property, contract rights, credit cards, charge plates, or any other instrument which purports to evidence an undertaking to pay for property or services delivered or rendered to or upon the order of a designated person or bearer, choses in action and other interests in or claims to wealth, admission or transportation tickets, captured or domestic animals, food and drink, electric or other power;

(6) Property of another shall mean property in which any person other than the actor has an interest which the actor is not privileged to infringe, regardless of the fact that the actor also has an interest in the property and regardless of the fact that the other person might be precluded from civil recovery because the property was used in an unlawful transaction or was subject to forfeiture as contraband. Property in possession of the actor shall not be deemed property of another who has only a security interest therein, even if legal title is in the creditor pursuant to a conditional sales contract or other security agreement;

(7) Receiving shall mean acquiring possession, control or title, or lending on the security of the property; and

(8) Stolen shall mean property which has been the subject of theft or robbery or a vehicle which is received from a person who is then in violation of section 28-517.

Sec. 2. That section 28-510, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

28-510. Conduct denominated theft in sections 28-509 to 28-518 and section 3 of this act constitutes a single offense embracing the separated offenses heretofore known as larceny, embezzlement, false pretense, extortion, blackmail, fraudulent conversion, receiving stolen property, and the like. An accusation of theft may be supported by evidence that it was committed in any manner that would be theft under sections 28-509 to 28-518 and section 3 of this act, notwithstanding the specification of a different manner in the indictment or information, subject only to the power of the court to insure fair trial by granting a continuance or other appropriate relief where the conduct of the defense would be prejudiced by lack of fair notice or by surprise.

Sec. 3. (1) A person commits the crime of theft by shoplifting when he or she, with the intent of appropriating merchandise to his or her own use without paying for the same or to deprive the owner of possession of such property or its retail value, in whole or in part, does any of the following:

(a) Conceals or takes possession of the goods or merchandise of any store or retail establishment;

(b) Alters the price tag or other price marking on goods or merchandise of any store or retail establishment;

(c) Transfers the goods or merchandise of any store or retail establishment from one container to another;

(d) Interchanges the label or price tag from one item of merchandise with a label or price tag for another item of merchandise; or

(e) Causes the cash register or other sales recording device to reflect less than the retail price of the merchandise.

(2) In any prosecution for theft by shoplifting, photographs of the shoplifted property may be accepted as prima facie evidence as to the identity of the property. Such photograph shall be accompanied by a written statement containing the following:

(a) A description of the property;

(b) The name of owner or owners of the property;

(c) The time, date, and location where the shoplifting occurred;

(d) The time and date the photograph was taken;

(e) The name of the photographer; and

(f) Verification by the arresting officer.

The purpose of this subsection is to allow the owner or owners of shoplifted property the use of such property during pending criminal prosecutions.

Sec. 4. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.

Sec. 5. That original sections 28-509 and 28-510, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.''.

Police Officers or Firefighters who are qualified to perform duties of the next lower classification in declining sequence, may in reverse order of which they were promoted to that classification, in the order at which they were laid off, occupy vacant positions of such lower classifications, or, may displace employees who hold positions at such lower classifications. A Police Officer or Firefighter who voluntarily requests demotion or another position in order to remain in the Classified Service following a reduction in force, shall be placed in the new classification at a pay range commencing with that classification. Where by virtue of reduction in the work force, a Firefighter or Police Officer takes a position in a lower classification and a reduction in force becomes necessary in such lower classifications, such employee shall be credited with the seniority earned in his or her higher classification. When the work force is increased after lay off, those persons who have voluntarily taken a lower classification, shall have the option of occupying positions which open up in their former classifications with no loss of seniority in that classification. This option shall be exercised as the position in the higher classification becomes available.

If it shall find that the removal, suspension, demotion or discharge was made for political or religious reasons, it shall order the immediate reinstatement or reemployment of such person in the office, place, position or employment from which such person was removed, suspended, demoted or discharged, which reinstatement shall, if the Commission's discretion so provides, be retroactive and entitle such person to pay or compensation from the time of such removal, suspension, demotion or discharge. If it shall find that the removal, suspension, demotion or discharge was not made on sufficient evidence to show a violation of Municipal Rules and Regulations, Departmental Policies and Procedures or State Statutes, it shall order the immediate reinstatement or reemployment of such person in the office, place, position or employment from which such person was removed, suspended, demoted or discharged which reinstatement shall, if the Commission's discretion so provides, be retroactive and entitle such person to pay or compensation from the time of such removal, suspension, demotion or discharge. The Commission upon such investigation, in lieu of affirming their removal, suspension, demotion or discharge, may modify the Order of removal, suspension, demotion or discharge, provided that such modification not be greater than the original discipline proposed by the appointing authority."

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 49
March 6, 1981

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have written asking us several questions concerning the Executive Board, the Legislative Council, and the statutes pertaining thereto as they relate to the duty, responsibility, and authority of elected members of the Legislature. We will attempt to answer the questions that you raised in the order in which you raised them.

In your first two paragraphs you indicate that the law provides the Legislative Council is a separate body from the Legislature, legislators are elected under the Constitution, the Legislative Council is a statuory creation, that the members of the Legislative Council are not elected by the people of the State of Nebraska and that they have no lawmaking powers except that granted by acts of the Legislature. With respect to the Executive Board, you point out that it is the Executive Board of the Legislative Council and "thus, any limitations, as I read it, on the Legislative Council that might come about by virtue of the way they are created and the fact that they are non-elected officials and merely a creation of the Legislature, would apply to the Executive Board of the Legislature."

In your first question you ask, "whether the Legislative Council, as such, is indeed a body with no lawmaking authority and a body distinct and separate from the Unicameral?" Neb.Rev.Stat. §50-401 (Reissue 1978) provides:

> There is hereby created a Legislative Council, hereinafter referred to as council, which shall consist of all of the members of the Legislature. It shall be the function of the Legislative Council to consider legislative policies between sessions of the Legislature and carry out the duties imposed by section 50-402.

Section 50-402, among other things, authorizes the Legislative Council to collect information, examine the effects of statutes, to deal with important issues of public policy, to prepare a legislative program in the form of bills, or otherwise, study federal aid, establish and maintain a bill drafting service, supervise all service and service personnel required by the Legislature, provide for the publication of the statutes in Nebraska, and set up subcommittees within the Executive Board to carry out functions, including investigations of any area it decides is in the public interest. Therefore, it is clear that the Legislative Council is, in fact, a body established under §50-401. It cannot, however, be said that it is a body distinct and separate from the Legislature itself. The section establishing the Legislative Council states that it shall consist of all members of the Legislature. To say that it is a separate and distinct body from the Legislature would imply that there were either different, additional or fewer members of one body than the other. It would appear to us that the Legislative Council is no more than a committee of the whole Legislature constituted for the purpose of performing the functions specified in §50-402 and other statutes. As we read the statutes, the Legislative Council's functions are primarily, although not exclusively, performed during the interim between legislative sessions.

The other part of your initial question is whether or not it has any lawmaking authority. (We assume you mean the power to enact statutes and make appropriations.) The Constitution of the State of Nebraska sets out the authority to make laws. Article III, Section 1, establishes the Legislature and vests therein the legislative authority of the state. Article III generally sets forth the manner in which laws may be enacted by the State of Nebraska. Article III, Section 13, for instance, in part provides, "[N]o law shall be enacted except by bill. No bill shall be passed by the Legislature unless by the assent of a majority of all members elected and the yeas and nays on the question of final passage of any bill shall be entered upon the journal." Other provisions of Article III specify the manner in which bills are introduced, enacted, and presented to the Governor. Obviously, the Legislative Council is not the Legislature as such in that meetings of the Legislature are specified constitutionally with respect to duration and with respect to certain matters of procedure. So, when you speak of "lawmaking authority" in terms of enacting statutes or appropriating money, the Legislative Council as such has no "lawmaking authority."

In addition, we note the Legislative Council has been in existence since 1937. No question has been raised regarding the authority of the Legislature to establish standing interim committees. We do not believe there is any question of the power to create such committees.

In your next question you state:

> Second, it would appear that a member of the Legislature is compelled by statute to be a member of the Legislative Council. My question is whether a legislator has an option as to whether > he/she wishes to be a member of this separately created body, the Legislative Council, in view of the fact that nothing in the Constitution provides that when a person runs for the Legislature and becomes a member of the Legislature he/she can be compelled by law to be a member of some other group?

When an individual runs for a public office, often by virtue of that public office he becomes a member of other committees or other groups. For instance, the Governor, the Attorney General, and the Secretary of State, under Article IV, Section XIII, constitute the Board of Pardons. Other officers of state government are ex officio members by statute of any variety of boards, commissions, and committees. When an individual determines that he or she shall run for a particular office, that person, by virtue of that decision, is subject to any laws or constitutional provisions which require the office holder to serve on other committees or groups. We can see no distinction between that result for an excutive officer of for a legislative officer. By becoming a member of the Legislature by election, each member is subject to being assigned to various committees, chairmanships, special committees, and other such groups. Obviously, the Legislature may adopt rules and regulations not inconsistent with law or with the Constitution to govern its internal operations. The Legislature may do that, either by statute or by rule. In this case the Legislature has chosen to adopt by statute a method organizing a Legislative Council to perform duties including duties which are performed during the interim. Other states have similar committees.

In your next question you state that your previous question is important because you believe that the Legislative Council, acting under color of law, raises serious doubts in your mind as to whether certain of their actions are constitutional. You state, "Legislative Council members are apparently under 50-415 Neb.Rev.Stat. allowed to have certain privileges and rights that are not allowed to members of the Legislature under the Constitution of the State of Nebraska. . . . I am also ordered by statute, 50-415, to be compensated for expenses. My next question is this: Am I not in effect being ordered by statutes to violate the Constitution with no choice?"

Of course, you are not required to file a claim for reimbursement. Neb.Rev.Stat. §50-415 (Reissue 1978) provides: The members of the council shall be compensated for actual expenses incurred while attending sessions of the council and the members of any committee of the council shall be compensated for actual expenses incurred while on business of the committee." In the first instance, Article III, Section 25, provides:

> No allowance shall be made for the incidental expenses of any state officer except the same be made by general appropriation and upon an account specifying each item. No money shall be drawn from the treasury except in pursuance of a specific appropriation made by law, and on the presentation of a warrant issued as the Legislature may direct, and no money shall be diverted from any appropriation made for any purpose or taken from any fund whatever by resolution.

Without specifying in great detail the statutory framework, it is sufficient to say that no expenses are paid except upon the presentation of a claim filed by the individual to whom the expenses are due. Secondly, no expense is paid unless there is an appropriation. The triggering mechanism is the filing of a claim by an individual for reimbursement of the expenses incurred. If you choose not to be reimbursed, do not file the claim. Anyone may volunteer their services gratis to the state if they desire to do so. There is no requirement in the law that the state pay for particular services rendered when the individual having rendered those services wishes not to be paid.

As an additional matter, as you have pointed out, our office has construed on a number of occasions the times during which and the functions for which legislators may be reimbursed their expenses. You are well aware that expenses may be reimbursed during the interim but not during the legislative session. We would note at this time that we have had two requests for our opinion on LB 206 which was recently passed by the Legislature. We have rendered an opinion to Senator Chambers (No. 17, February 3, 1981) and to Senator Hefner, copies of which are attached hereto.

You next point out that §50-416 authorizes the Executive Board of the Council to appoint the Retirement Systems Committee. You state, "I question whether this is an illegal delegation of authority in that non-elected official or apparent officials who are not functioning in a legislative capacity determine what can only be determined or approved by members of the Legislature. While I realize that the members of the Legislative Council are indeed coincidentally members of the Legislature, it is clear from the statutes than when they are members of the Legislative Council they are not functioning with their authority as legislative members." You further point to §50-418 which provides for the establishment of the Fiscal Analyst office and his appointment by the Executive Board, along with his powers and duties, and §§50-421 and 424 which authorize the Executive Board to appoint the Transportation Advisory Committee and which provide for its duties. With the exception of the Legislative Fiscal office, each of these committees to which you point are charged with duties of studying particularized topics. For instance, §50-425 provides, "The purpose of the committee shall be to study issues affecting telecommunications. The committee shall not hear or act on legislative bills during any session of the Legislature." Section 50-417 provides that the Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee is to study legislative proposals affecting public retirement systems and report the results of such study to the Legislature. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst is established within the Legislative Council and given a wide variety of duties which are primarily directed toward providing the Legislature with information on fiscal matters concerning state government.

In the well reasoned opinion of State ex rel. James v. Arnson, 314 P.2d 849 (Mont. 1957), the Montana Supreme Court was concerned with a legislative council composed of six members of the House of Representatives and six members of the Senate of Montana. The court rejected claims that such a body violated constitutional proscriptions prohibiting the appointment of members of the Legislature to civil offices under the state, that it was a violation of the separation of powers article of the Montana Constitution, that it violated the provision of the Montana Constitution limiting the time which a legislature could assemble, as well as certain questions regarding the payment of expenses to members serving on this council during the interim. The Montana Supreme Court in considering similar contentions to those you raised said:

> With the possible exception of Mitchell v. Holmes [128 Mont. 275, 274 P.2d 611], there is to our knowledge no decision of any court denying the legislature the power to create by statute a committee to serve in the interim between sessions of the assembly. On the contrary, all courts have uniformly held that the investigative power exists in the legislative branch which may be exercised after final adjournment as well as during the session.

That opinion also listed several of the states that at the time of its issuance had similar legislative committees. They included Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Virginia. We have no problem in determining that the Legislature clearly had the authority to establish the Legislative Council and the Executive Board, that it clearly had the authority to give those boards the power to perform certain legislative actions which are primarily investigatory. As such, we can find no constitutional problem with the establishment of the Legislative Council or the Executive Board as it is presently constituted.

In the final paragraph of your letter you indicate that you believe that the members of the Legislature are in jeopardy of violating the Constitution because the Legislative Council is a device to collect money for legislators otherwise prohibited by the Constitution of the State of Nebraska. While we have previously indicated in opinions that legislators may be reimbursed their expenses for legislative activities which occur during the interim, we would anticipate, should LB 206 pass, that a lawsuit would be commenced to determine the constitutionality of that act. We believe that as a part of that lawsuit it would be appropriate for us to raise the question of whether or not expenses may be paid to legislators in their role as members of the Legislative Council, Executive Committee, or other committees established by the Legislative Council or appointed by the Executive Board during the interim. Such a challenge to any reimbursement of expenses may be anticipated if LB 206 becomes law.

As you also pointed out in your letter since your questions concern the constitutionality of statutes which are currently in existence, under ordinary circumstances we would not have responded to your queries. However, due to the apparently intense interest in the question of reimbursement of expenses for legislators, we felt that it was appropriate to respond to your inquiries, notwithstanding our long-followed policy.

Opinion No. 50

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have asked whether or not a potential proposed piece of legislation which would authorize the payment of $1,500.00 per month as a salary during the interim when the Legislature is not in session to members of the Legislative Council, would be constitutional. You further ask whether it would be constitutional to propose that members of the Executive Board receive $100.00 or any other sum as members of the Executive Board for each meeting of the Executive Board. You refer to several prior opinions we have issued on the question of the payment of expenses to legislators during the session. We believe that each proposal would be unconstitutional. Article III, section 7 of the Constitution provides in part:

> Each member of the Legislature shall receive a salary of not to exceed four hundred dollars per month during the term of his office. In addition to his salary, each member shall receive an amount equal to his actual expenses in traveling by the most usual route once to and returning from each regular or special session of the Legislature. Members of the Legislature shall receive no pay nor perquisites other than said salary and expenses, and employees of the Legislature shall receive no compensation other than salary or per diem.

In the first part of your potential proposed legislation you are suggesting a salary of $1,500.00 per month when the Legislature is in session. However, the terms and words of the Constitution specifically limit the salary of legislators to $400.00 during the term of the legislator's office. A legislator is elected for a four year term and that limitation applies throughout the term. In your second question you suggest $100.00 for each meeting of the Executive Board. That sum is not intended to cover any expenses that might be incurred by executive board members but as recompense for their service as members for each meeting. That again we believe would be in violation of the specific words of the Constitution.

You attempt to make a distinction between legislators serving in their capacity as members of the Legislature and services as Executive Board or Legislative Council members. In a prior opinion to you we indicated that there is not a complete separation as you seem determined to suggest. The Legislative Council and the Executive Board are creatures of the Legislature. Members serve in those capacities by virtue of the fact that they are members of the Legislature. These bodies are standing committees of the Legislature, created by law. As such they are not distinct and separate from the Legislature but merely a part of the Legislature itself. Therefore, the constitutional prohibitions applying to legislators apply with equal force when legislators are serving in their capacity as members of the Executive Board, the Legislative Council, or as the Legislature.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 51
March 13, 1981

Dear Senator Nichol:

You have asked our opinion on certain questions relating to LB 515. The question you specifically ask is whether local governments with budgets of less than $5,000 are exempt from the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3412 through 77-3432.01 (Supp. 1980). You point out in your letter that LB 515 specifically provides that by way of an amendment to §77-3423 (Supp. 1980) that the provisions of the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act shall not apply to political subdivisions having a combined receipts budget base of less than $15,000. You point out that §77-3423 (Supp. 1980) now provides that:

> [N]o governing body of any political subdivison shall adopt a budget statement pursuant to section 23-925, or pursuant to the charter or ordinances of a city with a home rule charter, in which the anticipated combined receipts for the ensuing fiscal year exceeds an increase of seven per cent above the combined receipts budget base.

You further point out that Neb.Rev.Stat. §23-925 (Reissue 1977) does not require the filing of a computation by governing bodies which have a budget of less than $5,000 per year.

The implication raised by a potential reading of the two sections is that governing bodies of entities having a budget of less than $5,000 a year are exempt from the seven percent lid on their budgets.

We do not believe that that was the intention of the Legislature in adopting the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979. We believe the legislative history of this and its predecessor act clearly showed an intention on the part of the Legislature to restrict all governmental subdivisions to an increase of seven percent from one year to the next in the amount of their budget. We would point out to you that §77-3415 applies the definition of governing body as it is contained in §23-922 (Reissue 1977) which generally defines the governing body for all practical purposes of every subdivision of government. No exclusion is contained in that definition based upon the amount of the budget for the particular subdivision.

We, of course, must state that this conclusion is not without doubt. However, in construing statutes certain principles are applicable. The budget act is designed and intended to facilitate, according to §23-921, the amount of information that is provided to the public on budgets of local governmental subdivions. The Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979, on the other hand, is an act designed to limit the increase in funding for governmental budgets to a stated annual amount. We do not believe that these statutes are in pari materia. While they treat the same general area of budgets, one deals with the method of disclosure and a method of filing certain reports concerning the budget and the other specifically deals with the amount that may be budgeted. We believe the latter is more specific in the area of limitation and would control over the more general act relating to budgets of all political subdivisions and the method in which they are compiled and reportsd. See, Roebuck v. Fraedrich, 201 Neb. 413, 276 N.W.2d 759 (1978). Generally the later act will control over the earlier act.

In sum, it is our view that under the current existing statutes governmental subdivisions with budgets of less than $5,000 are not exempt from the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979, §§77-3412, et seq. (Supp. 1980).

The fund may provide by the trust indenture for the payment of the proceeds of the bonds and the revenue to the trustee under the trust indenture or other depository, and for the method of disbursement thereof, with such safeguards and restrictions as the fund may determine. All expenses incurred in carrying out the trust indenture may be treated as a part of the operating expenses of the fund. Sec. 1. The purpose of this Rule is to provide a procedure for the Legislature to develop appropriations for all state agencies, boards, and commissions. Such procedure shall consider the need to (1) continue the services and financial assistance provided by state agencies and programs, and (2) restrict the growth in state appropriations.

Sec. 2. The Legislature's Appropriations Committee, by majority vote of its members, shall annually prepare a report summarizing the recommended total General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Such report shall include information based upon the committee's initial review of (1) state agency, board and commission budget requests, (2) the Governor's budget, (3) the estimated revenue receipts for each year of the following biennium, (4) General Fund reserve requirements, (5) express obligations, and (6) economic conditions affecting the State of Nebraska.

Sec. 3. The report required in Sec. 2 of this Rule shall be printed in the Legislative Journal and presented to each member of the Legislature by the Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee between twenty and thirty legislative days after the Governor presents his or her budget during sessions in odd-numbered years and between fifteen and twenty legislative days after the Governor's budget presentation during sessions in even-numbered years.

Sec. 4. Based upon the Appropriations Committee's report, the Legislature shall adopt a resolution which specifically establishes a maximum General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Sec. 5. The report of the Appropriations Committee shall include a recommended dollar amount of the General Fund biennium appropriation provided for in Sec. 4 of this Rule which shall be allocated for the funding of "A" bills, bills that result in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, tax expenditure bills, and amendments to the appropriation bills as reported to General File by the Appropriations Committee. All "A" bills which appropriate General Funds, all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, and all tax expenditure bills shall not be read on final reading until the appropriation bills which provide for the ongoing appropriation to state agencies, boards, and commissions have been considered and enacted by the Legislature. Such appropriation bills enacted, plus the allocation for the funding of "A" bills, all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, and all tax expenditure bills, shall not be in excess of the maximum General Fund appropriation adopted by resolution pursuant to Sec. 4 of this Rule. The appropriation provided for in an "A" bill shall be for not less than two fiscal years.

Section 6. In order to provide a standard for reviewing competing appropriation requests within the same appropriation policy area and to provide a system for prioritizing appropriations, the priority for appropriations shall be: 1) Priority 1 - state appropriations to continue the services and financial assistance currently provided by state agencies, boards, and commissions; (2) Priority 2 - state appropriations for an increase to current appropriations due to (a) an increase in population or individuals served, (b) the cost of adding a new service, or (c) an increase in the quality of services currently provided; (3) Priority 3 - state appropriations for the continued payment of current aid to any political subdivision; (4) Priority 4 - state appropriations for increased aid to any political subdivisions pursuant to legislation passed prior to the effective date of this Rule; and (5) Priority 5 - state appropriations for legislation passed after the effective date of this Rule which requires the state to provide increased aid to political subdivisions or assume financial responsibility for services or programs currently being provided by political subdivisions. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

March 16, 1981

Re: LB 355—Interest Rates on Insurance Policy Loans

Dear Senator Kilgarin:

We have carefully examined the provisions of LB 355 and particularly the effect of section 2, as amended. This section provides:

> Sec. 2. For purposes of sections 1 to 4 of this act, published monthly average shall mean a monthly bond yield average which is:
> (1) Published by a national financial statistical organization;
> (2) Recognized by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners;
> (3) In current general use in the insurance industry; and
> (4) Designated by the Director of Insurance.

Section 3(2) of said bill then provides that the rate of interest which may be charged on a policy loan shall not exceed the higher of (a) the published monthly average for the calendar month ending two months before the date on which the rate is determined or (b) the rate used to compute the cash surrender values of the policy plus one percent per annum.

It may thus be seen that the maximum rate of interest which may be charged for a policy loan may well be the published monthly average as defined in the bill.

Article II, Section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution provides:

> The powers of the government of the state are divided into three distinct departments, the Legislative, Executive and Judicial, and no person or collection of persons being one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others, except as hereinafter expressly directed or permitted.

Article III, Section 18, of the Constitution provides in part:

> The Legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following cases, that is to say:
> . . . Provided, that notwithstanding any other provisions of this Constitution, the Legislature shall have authority to separately define and classify loans and installment sales, to establish maximum rates within classifications of loans or installment sales which it establishes, and to regulate with respect thereto. In all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted.

In Terry Carpenter, Inc. v. Nebraska Liquor Control Commission, 175 Neb. 26 (1963), the Supreme Court of Nebraska, citing with approval Lincoln Dairy Co. v. Finigan, 170 Neb. 77, stated:

> "It is fundamental that the Legislature may not delegate legislative power to an administrative or executive authority. Smithberger v. Banning, 129 Neb. 651, 262 N.W. 492, 100 A.L.R. 686. The Legislature does have power to authorize an administrative or executive department to make rules and regulations to carry out an expressed legislative purpose, or for the complete operation and enforcement of a law within designated limitations. Such authority is administrative in its nature and its use by administrative officers is essential to the complete exercise of the powers of all departments. State ex rel. Martin v. Howard, 96 Neb. 278, 147 N.W. 689. It is fundamental, also, that in the legislative grant of power to an administrative agency such power must be limited to the expressed legislative purpose and administered in accordance with standards prescribed in the legislative act."

In the present case the Director of Insurance is given the authority to designate the national financial statistical organization which publishes a monthly bond yield average. His guidelines are that this organization must be recognized by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and in current general use in the insurance industry.

We assume that a "monthly bond yield average" is nothing more than mathematical computation from bond yields and that since the organization is a national one recognized by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and in current general use that it would cover a broad enough base to be an accurate reflection of national bond yields. We further presume that any organization which the Insurance Director could designate as qualified by the above language would be so based and be an accurate reflection of bond yields.

Assuming that such facts could be established, we are of the opinion that we could successfully defend the constitutionality of the above provisions. In other words, we think the Legislature has sufficiently established the maximum rates for the loans as required by Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution and that this delegation to the director is sufficiently limited by standards that it is not an unlawful delegation of legislative authority.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE BILL 248. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 248:
Req. No. 2078

1. Insert three new sections as follows:

"Section 1. That section 79-1522, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1522. (1) Upon retirement under the provisions of sections 79-1520 and 79-1521, if he or she has five or more years of creditable service, a member or emeritus member shall receive a school retirement allowance which shall consist of the sum of: (a) A savings annuity which shall be the acturarial equivalent, as determined by the retirement board, of the member's accumulated contributions at the time of his or her retirement, or, in the case of an emeritus member, the savings annuity fixed by the retirement board at the time of his or her original retirement; and (b) a service annuity to be paid by the State of Nebraska. The amount of any individual service annuity for a full-time school employee or emeritus member shall be three dollars and fifty cents per month for each year of service commencing with his or her retirement on or after ~~July 1, 1973~~ the effective date of this act. Each school employee or emeritus member who retired before July 1, 1973 and who is receiving a service annuity as of that date shall have such service annuity adjusted by the increase in the cost of living as determined by the difference between the Consumers Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers from the date the service annuity commenced and July 1, 1973, except that such annuity shall not exceed three dollars and fifty cents monthly per year of service, based on the same number of years of service that is currently being used to determine his or her service annuity. Such increased service annuity shall commence on July 1, 1973.

(2) Under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe, an employee, upon becoming a member, may receive credit for not to exceed ten years of creditable teaching service rendered in public schools in another state if such member shall have paid into the school retirement system of the State of Nebraska an amount equal to the required deposits he or she would have paid had he or she been employed in this state, with such required deposits to be paid as the board may direct within three years after membership in the retirement system begins.

(3) A member who retires as a school employee of this state shall not receive credit for time in service outside of this state in excess of the time he or she has been in service as a school employee in this state. In order to receive such out-of-state credit such member must be employed as a school employee in this state at the time of his or her retirement.

(4) For a beneficiary who is employed as a public school substitute employee for more than ninety days in any school year the state service annuity shall be reduced by fifty per cent; Provided, a person receiving retirement benefit may waive the payments and return to regular employment in a public school of this state if the beneficiary shall notify the retirement board in advance of the time and place of such employment. This notice shall be in writing upon forms prescribed by the retirement board. Any person collecting retirement payments without filing such notice shall be subject to a withholding of future retirement benefits equal to twice the amount collected after being regularly employed. The amount of individual service annuity for a part-time employee shall be determined on a proportional basis.

Sec. 3. That section 79-1540, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1540. On the basis of all data in the possession of the retirement board, including such mortality and other tables as shall be recommended by the actuary, who shall be a member of the American Academy of Actuaries, engaged by the retirement board and adopted by the retirement board, the retirement board shall annually, on or before July 1, determine the state deposit to be made by the state in the Service Annuity Fund for that fiscal year. The amount of such state deposit shall be determined on the basis of an annual actuarial valuation to be sufficient to fully fund the service annuities earned in that fiscal year and to fund the unfunded accrued liabilities for all service annuities earned prior to that year by level payments up to January 1, 1994 in the amounts established prior to the effective date of this act. Any increase in the unfunded accrued liability that arises as a result of increasing the amount of the service annuity on or after the effective date of this act shall increase the state deposit by an amount sufficient to fund the increase in the unfunded accrued liability by level payments for the twenty-five year period following the date the increase becomes effective. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 53
March 18, 1981

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This is in response to your letter of March 16, 1981, concerning the constitutionality of a proposed amendment to LB 245. The amendment which would add a new section to this bill reads as follows:

> No state appropriations shall be obligated nor shall any bonds be authorized for the Regional College of Veternary Medicine herein authorized for construction until and unless federal funds in the amount specified in Section 2 hereof have been appropriated for the project by the United States Government.

Your concern was whether this amendment constituted an improper delegation of legislative authority. We do not believe that it does.

This amendment would simply establish a condition or contingency, which when satisfied, would allow the other portions of the bill to become operative. The well recognized rule of law in this area is that, "The legislature cannot delegate its powers to make a law, but it can make a law to become operative on the happening of a certain contingency or on an ascertainment of a fact upon which the law intends to make its own action depend." State v. Padley, 195 Neb. 358, 360, 237 N.W.2d 883 (1976). See also, Lennox v. Housing Authority of City of Omaha, 137 Neb. 582, 290 N.W. 451 (1940).

That is precisely the case with this proposed legislation, as opposed to any actual delegation of authority to the United States Government. Thus the proposed amendment appears to be constitutional in this regard.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Mr. Schmit asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 284 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

(Amendments printed separate and on file in the Clerk's office - Req. No. 2118.)

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 54
March 18, 1981

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding certain provisions contained in LB 76. Specifically, you have inquired as follows:

> The question was raised . . . as to whether the method of handling vehicle seizure was constitutional since it made a class of the driver of the car who coincidentally had to also be the owner before seizure came into effect. Please advise if this is constitutional and if not what changes would be needed to make a seizure program constitutional.

We conclude that LB 76 is constitutionally suspect due to the creation of an unjustifiable class. Our analysis follows.

LB 76 creates a class of persons who are sole owners of vehicles. Persons in this class are subject to forfeiture of their vehicles if used by them to flee in an attempt to avoid arrest or citation. It was stated in Taylor v. Karren, 196 Neb. 581, 244 N.W.2d 201 (1976), that:

> The Legislature may make a reasonable classification of persons, corporations and property for purposes of legislation concerning them, but the classification must rest upon real differences of situation and circumstances surrounding the members of the class, relative to the subject of the legislation, which render appropriate its enactment.

Quoting from State ex rel. Rogers v. Swanson, 192 Neb. 125, 219 N.W.2d 726. It has uniformly been held that, to be valid, the classification must bear a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose. Parker v. Roth, 202 Neb. 850, 278 N.W.2d 106 (1979).

Seizure of vehicles which have been used in the commission of crimes is rationally related to legitimate state purposes:

> Forfeitures of conveyances that have been used - and may be used again - in violation of the . . . laws fosters the purposes served by the underlying criminal statutes, both by preventing further illicit use of the conveyance and by imposing an economic penalty, thereby rendering illegal behavior unprofitable.

Calero-Toledo v. Pearson Yacht Leasing Co., 416 U.S. 663 (1974).

However, we have difficulty conceiving of a rational relationship between the sole owner classification and the preceeding purposes. The purpose of preventing further illicit use would be served by seizing a vehicle when the accused was a sole owner, joint owner, lessor or borrower. The purpose of imposing an economic penalty would be served where the accused had any interest in the vehicle, be it sole, joint or leasehold. While the law governing classifications is not subject to doctrinal definition, we conclude that the sole owner classification is constitutionally suspect.

We briefly note that there are permissible classifications which do not encompass all vehicles used to avoid arrest. For example, an exception for vehicles stolen from an innocent third party would pass constitutional muster. It would be difficult to catalogue every permissible classification.

We can only emphasize that to be valid a class must bear a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose.
This opinion is specifically limited to the classification issue. We do not express an opinion on any other facet of LB 76.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Chambers asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 76 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

(Final Reading Copy)

Req. No. 2205

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 4. The Legislature finds and declares that the law should permit necessary escalation of force directed against an offender to effect his or her apprehension so long as it is the minimum force reasonable necessary to overcome his or her efforts either to evade apprehension or to cause harm to others.

The Legislature further declares that negligent or reckless actions committed by law enforcement officers during their efforts in pursuit of actual or suspected violators or in responding to emergencies which damage or injure innocent persons are hereby prohibited and that the duty to avoid damage or injury to innocent third parties is superior to that of pursuit or emergency response.

The Legislature declares to be the policy of this state that, although law enforcement officers are not responsible for damage or injury caused solely by the acts of violators themselves, policy considerations require that such officers balance the necessity for pursuit or apprehension against the probability and severity of damage or injury.

Sec. 5. For purposes of sections 4 to 20 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions found in sections 6 to 13 of this act shall apply.

Sec. 6. High speed shall mean seventy-five to one hundred per cent of the maximum speed at which a vehicle may be safely operated considering the nature, condition, and type of roadway, volume and direction of the flow of traffic, presence of intersections, visibility, and weather conditions.

Sec. 7. Overtake shall mean pursuit of a motorist, who is not yet aware that he or she is being pursued, in order to (1) position the police vehicle so that audible or visual signals to halt can effectively be communicated to the motorist, (2) continuously communicate audible or visual signals to the motorist until he or she becomes aware of them, and (3) position the police vehicle so that the officer may more effectively observe the motorist, his or her vehicle, or his or her passengers or load.

Sec. 8. Officer or police officer shall mean any member of a police department or law enforcement agency of any city, village, county, or other political subdivision of this state or any member of the Nebraska State Patrol.

Sec. 9. Police vehicle or unit shall mean any motor vehicle owned by any political subdivision of this state or owned by this state and used in connection with police or law enforcement activities and appropriately marked indicating it to be an official police vehicle or unit.

Sec. 10. Pursuit shall mean an active attempt by a law enforcement officer on duty in a police vehicle or unit to apprehend one or more occupants of a moving motor vehicle, providing the driver of such vehicle is aware or should be aware of the attempt and is resisting apprehension by maintaining or increasing his or her speed or ignoring the attempt of a law enforcement officer to stop him or her.

Sec. 11. Evader shall mean a driver who continues to drive his or her vehicle, refusing to stop, when he or she knows or should know of the audible or visual signals to do so directed to him or her by an officer, but who does not attempt to escape by driving recklessly or at high speeds. The officer shall be in uniform prominently displaying his or her badge of office and his or her vehicle shall be appropriately marked indicating it to be an official police vehicle.

Sec. 12. Reckless evader shall mean a driver who, in order to escape or avoid apprehension by a police officer, drives his or her vehicle recklessly or at speeds which are so extreme under the conditions prevailing that his or her involvement in a collision is probable should he or she continue.

Sec. 13. Initial pursuing vehicle shall mean the police vehicle which initiates a pursuit or any vehicle which assumes control of the pursuit.

Sec. 14. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, an officer operating a police vehicle shall not disregard stop signs or signals or exceed maximum speed limits unless he or she is sounding a siren as reasonably necessary to warn other highway users and is displaying a lighted red lamp if his or her vehicle is so equipped with such lamp.

(2) If the officer operates his or her vehicle with due care for the safety of all persons and not in reckless disregard for the safety of others, such officer engaged in pursuit of another vehicle or responding to an emergency call for service may, without operating his or her emergency warning devices, (a) exceed maximum speed limits or disregard regulations governing the turning in specified directions, if he or she has probable cause to believe that, if his or her presence is discovered, (i) evidence of a suspected felony or other serious offense may be destroyed or lost, (ii) the suspect may cease a suspected continuing offense before the officer has acquired sufficient evidence to establish grounds for arrest, or (iii) the suspect may attempt to evade apprehension before the officer is sufficiently close to assure an apprehension or an identification of the violator or his or her vehicle, or (b) exceed maximum speed limits where the pursuit is conducted in his or her direction of travel on a multilaned roadway when he or she has reason to believe that the traffic conditions are such that movements of motorists in response to the warning devices would increase the potential for collision or unreasonably extend the duration of the pursuit.

(3) An officer engaged in overtaking shall not exceed the maximum speed limit by more than twenty miles per hour unless such a rate would unreasonably extend the pursuit or the matter involves one or more of the exceptions stated in subsection (2) of this section and a higher speed is therefore necessary.

Sec. 15. In case of death, injury, or property damage to any innocent third party as a result of action taken by an officer under the provisions of sections 4 to 20 of this act, damages shall be paid to such third party by the state or political subdivision employing the officer. Payment of such damages by the state or political subdivision shall not relieve the officer from any liability which may attach for violating any provisions of sections 4 to 20 of this act.

Sec. 16. No officer shall, for the purpose of restricting or blocking the path of a reckless evader, hold at a standstill, stop, or slow all traffic upon a highway or elsewhere with vehicles operated and occupied by innocent third parties.

Sec. 17. In the course of pursuit, deliberate contact between vehicles or forcing the pursued vehicle into parked cars, ditches, or any other obstacle shall be prohibited. Any pursuing vehicle shall maintain a safe distance from any pursued vehicle to avoid collision in case of a sudden stop. Reckless or hazardous driving maneuvers shall not be duplicated by any pursuing vehicle.

Sec. 18. (1) Only the initial pursuing police vehicle shall engage in high-speed pursuit, except that nearby units may move to intercept the fleeing vehicle.

(2) Intercepting police vehicles shall avoid intersecting the path of an oncoming high-speed vehicle for the purpose of blocking the roadway. No assisting police vehicle shall move toward the route of a high-speed pursuit without notifying the pursuing officer or the dispatcher of his or her movement.

Sec. 19. The high-speed pursuit of a reckless evader by ground units, through heavy traffic or densely populated areas, shall be abondoned when:

(1) The original violation was a traffic offense;

(2) No felony has been committed during the pursuit;

(3) There is no probable cause to believe that the reckless evader is attempting escape from apprehension for any felony; or will discontinue his or her reckless and high-speed vehicle operation if the pursuit is abondoned. If at any point the identity of the driver of the pursued vehicle becomes known, and the reason for the pursuit is a traffic violation or the commission of a misdemeanor, the pursuit shall terminate and the driver of the pursued vehicle shall be apprehended at a later time.

(4) It is reasonable to believe that the evader

Sec. 20. The officer in the initial pursuing unit of a high-speed pursuit is authorized to abandon that pursuit in the interest of safety, and his or her decision to do so shall be immediately communicated by him or her or the base station to all other units involved. Thereafter, all police vehicles shall abandon such high-speed pursuit.".

2. On page 5, after line 21 insert:

"No policy shall be adopted and implemented by a law enforcement agency under this section unless it meets the requirements of sections 4 to 20 of this act, however additional restrictions on the manner high speed chases are conducted may be imposed by such agency.".

3. Renumber original sections 4 and 5 as sections 21 and 22 respectively.

RE: LB 290 - Cost

The question continues to persist, is there, a cost difference between the two systems?

The best example of the savings is to look at the contracts awarded in IOWA.

CONTRACT:

2½ million plates using the beads-on-paint system was awarded for .05248 per plate (included beads, binder, equipment, and changes in heating oven.)

CONTRACT:
2½ million plates reflectorized sheeting is bought at 259.17 roll (6" x 200 yards) produces 600 plates or .4319 per plate

Difference Between Sheeting and Beads-On-Paint Per Plate

.43195 sheeting per plate
- .05248 beads-on-paint system
.37947 Savings per Plate

Based on Six (6) million plates for a six year issue (figure of 6,000,000 was received from Department of Motor Vehicles) the Savings would be $2,276,820.00!!

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 55

March 13, 1981

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

In your letter of February 26, 1981, you direct our attention to Legislative Bill 138 which would propose a constitutional amendment which would permit the Legislature to set its own salary so long as the salary established did not exceed one-third of the Governor's then existing salary. With this matter in mind you then raise several questions.

First, you ask can more than one amendment affecting legislative salaries be placed on a single ballot? We are aware of no constitutional prohibition against offering any number of constitutional amendments dealing with the same subject matter on any given ballot at any given election. In reaching this conclusion we would further be of the opinion that one piece of legislation proposing such constitutional amendments would suffice. In Opinion No. 211 found in the Reports of the Attorney General for 1971-72 we were of the opinion that the Legislature's submission of an amendment to the constitution is a mere proposal and that therefore it is not in fact a bill as that word is used in Article III, Section 14 of the constitution of the State of Nebraska which prohibits any given bill from containing more than one subject.

You further inquire if in fact more than one constitutional amendment can be proposed at the same election dealing generally with the same subject what the result would be in the event two or more of these amendments were adopted by the electorate. A difficulty would arise only to the extent the amendments adopted were inconsistent or incompatible with one another. As a general principle of law, if two provisions are irreconcilably repugnant the last in order of time is to be preferred. 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law Sec. 26. It should be noted that this rule is to be applied only as a last resort and only when it is impossible to harmonize the provisions by any reasonable construction.

It is difficult for us to envision all of the possibilities in advance of any such occurrence taking place; however, we draw your attention to the fact that an amendment does not become effective simply by having been adopted by a majority vote of the electors but only becomes effective after being certified by the state Canvasing Board and being proclaimed by the Governor. Swanson v. State, 132 Neb. 12, 271 N.W. 264 (1937). Therefore, the amendment's relative position on the ballot would not necessarily be determinative of which amendment was adopted last, the date of the Governor's proclamation being determinative of that factor.

You next inquire as to the result if one amendment involving legislative salaries was placed on the May, 1982 primary ballot and carries and another inconsistent amendment were placed on the November, 1982 general election ballot and also carried. In this factual context we would be of the opinion that the rule concerning the last constitutional amendment to be adopted receiving preference would be applicable and controlling. Swanson v. State, supra; and Cunningham v. Exon, 207 Neb. 51:, ___N.W.2d ___ (1980).

We would suggest however that inasmuch as it is the Legislature in this instance which would be proposing any such amendment or amendments and the time of their submission that great care be taken to avoid proposing two inconsistent alternative proposals unless they were offered to the voters as one proposed amendment perhaps with the voters being offered a choice between alternatives. The presentation of alternative choices to the electorate has been held to be entirely proper. See in this regard generally 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law Sec. 9.

You finally ask in the event any amendment is adopted altering the legislative salaries when the salaries of the members of the Legislature could reflect that amendment. You indicate in your letter an awareness of Article III, Section 19 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska which provides as is pertinent here that the compensation of a member of the Legislature may not be increased or diminished during his or her term of office except that when, as is the case here, the terms of the various members of the Legislature commence and end at different times then the compensation of all members of the Legislature may be increased at the beginning of the first full term of any member thereof.

As you are well aware, at the general election held every two even numbered years, one-half of the members of the Legislature are elected. As you are also no doubt aware, our constitution provides that the term of office of the members of the Legislature shall begin on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in the month of January following their election. See in this regard Article III, Section 19 of the Constituion of the State of Nebraska.

Therefore, if an amendment actually increasing salaries were adopted either at the primary election in 1982 or at the general election in November of 1982 the salaries of all members of the Legislature could be increased as of the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January of 1983 if the Governor accomplished his proclamation on the amendment prior to the date those members elected at the general election in 1982 took office.

If on the other hand the amendment only authorized the Legislature to set its own salaries, perhaps within certain limits, it would be impossible for the Legislature to take this action, absent a special session, prior to the time they took office in January of 1983. Therefore any action taken by the Legislature concerning salaries could not become effective with the beginning of the next full term of one half of the members in January of 1985.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 57
March 18, 1981

Dear Senator Hoagland:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding LB 205, which among other things, authorizes arson investigators in a metropolitan class city to summon persons to testify regarding an inquiry into the cause, origin and circumstances of a fire or explosion and to require the production of any book, paper or document deemed pertinent to such inquiry. The provisions of LB 205 authorize such arson investigators, subject to the approval of the chief of the fire department, to issue the subpoenas without prior judicial approval, such as is constitutionally required for the issuance of a search warrant. Initially, you have inquired whether the procedures embodied in LB 205 for the issuance of a subpoena duces tecum, i.e. a summons to produce documents, violate the Fourth Amendment prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Since the much mooted case, Boyd v. United States, 116 U.S. 616 (1886), it has been accepted that a subpoena duces tecum comes within the Fourth Amendment. The enforced production of books and records, while not an actual search, has been said to constitute a "constructive search." People v. Allen, 410 Ill. 508, 103 N.E.2d 92 (1951). However, it is clear that the demands of the Fourth Amendment with respect to a search and seizure under a search or arrest warrant do not apply equally to a subpoena duces tecum. In re Addonizio, 53 N.J. 107, 248 A.2d 531 (1968).

In Oklahoma Press Publishing Company v. Walling, 327 U.S. 186 (1946), the Supreme Court considered the validity of a subpoena duces tecum issued by the Wage Hour Administrator to an employer with respect to compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act. The subpoenaed records related to whether the Act covered the employer and also to whether the employer had obeyed the statute. The subpoena was challenged for, among other things, constituting an unreasonable search and seizure in violation of the Fourth Amendment. In rejecting the employer's challenge, the court noted that the Fourth Amendment in the context of an administratively issued subpoena duces tecum;

> [A]t the most guards against abuse only by way of too much indefiniteness or breadth in the things required to be "particularly described," if also the inquiry is one the demanding agency is authorized by law to make and the materials specified are > relevant. The gist of the protection is in the requirement, expressed in terms, that the disclosure sought shall not be unreasonable.

Id. at 208. The court further explained:

> It is not necessary, as in the case of a warrant, that a specific charge or complaint of violation of law be pending or that the order be made pursuant to one. It is enough that the investigation be for a lawfully authorized purpose, within the power of Congress to command. This has been ruled most often perhaps in relation to grand jury investigations, but also frequently in respect to general or statistical investigations authorized by Congress. The requirement of "probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation" literally applicable in the case of a warrant is satisfied, in that of an order for production by the court's determination that the investigation is authorized by Congress, is for a purpose Congress can order, and the documents sought are relevant to the inquiry. Beyond this the requirement of reasonableness, including particularity in "describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized," also literally applicable to warrants, comes down to specification of the documents to be produced adequate, but not excessive, for the purposes of the relevant inquiry. Necessarily, as has been said, this cannot be reduced to formula; for relevancy and adequacy or excess in the breadth of the subpoena are matters variable in relation to the nature, purposes and scope of the inquiry.

Id. at 209. See also, United States v. Morton Salt Company, 338 U.S. 632, 651-653 (1950); See v. Seattle, 387 U.S. 541, 544-545 (1967).

Based on the above authorities, it appears that the Legislature may authorize enforcement agencies to issue a subpoena duces tecum without prior judicial approval and that such procedure on its face does not run afoul of the Fourth Amendment. However, a particular subpoena could be challenged on Fourth Amendment grounds if the documents requested were irrelevant to the investigation or if the description of the documents set forth in the subpoena was so overly broad, vague or general as to be unduly burdensome.

Additionally, you have inquired:

> If the cases do appear to permit state Legislatures to authorize certain law enforcement officers to issue subpoenas, do they require any procedural safeguards that are not present in this proposal, such as the ability of the person subpoenaed to attempt to quash the subpoena in court before being liable for contempt or other criminal sanctions?

The safeguard inherent in a subpoena duces tecum is the right to litigate the validity of the subpoena prior to producing the documents requested. In See v. Seattle, supra, at 544, the Supreme Court noted that while an agency may demand documents and records by issuing an administrative subpoena, the enforcement of such demand does not lie with agency officials. Rather the subpoenaed party is entitled to judicial review of the reasonableness of the demand prior to suffering penalties for refusing to comply.

The provisions of LB 205 require the chief of the fire department to apply to the district court for enforcement of the subpoena. The court is authorized to punish persons disobeying any subpoena for contempt. Persons subpoenaed who refuse to comply could apparently, as their defense to such action, object to the validity of the subpoena, assert a privileged communication or assert their right to invoke the Fifth Amendment prohibition against self-incrimination. Judicial review is thus provided as part of the contempt proceeding. However, it appears under section 3 of LB 205 that if the asserted defense is rejected by the court or on appeal, the person subpoenaed, while potentially asserting the objection in good faith, may nevertheless be found in contempt. In other words, in order to avail himself of the opportunity for judicial review, the person subpoenaed must risk the penalties for contempt, which include fine and imprisonment. Neb.Rev.Stat. Sec. 25-2121 (Reissue 1979).

In Reisman v. Caplin, 375 U.S. 440 (1964), the petitioners challenged a summons to produce certain audit reports which had been issued by the secretary of the Internal Revenue Service. One of the arguments advanced by the petitioners was that the penalties of contempt risked by a refusal to comply with the summons were so severe that the statutory procedure amounted to a denial of judicial review, citing Ex Parte Young, 209 U.S. 123 (1908) and Oklahoma Operating Company v. Love, 252 U.S. 331 (1920). In said cases, the provisions at issue were found to violate the Fourteenth Amendment because certain railroad and laundry rates could only be challenged by failure to comply with said rates which occasioned a risk of both imprisonment and fines regardless of the willfulness of the failure to comply. The court in Reisman, supra, distinguished said holdings, noting that the I.R.S. provision at issue authorized a finding of contempt, and a fine or imprisonment, only upon the "neglect" of the parties subpoenaed to appear or to produce, which was interpreted by the court so as to exclude a good faith attack upon the validity of the summons.

Based on the above authorities, in our opinion, to the extent the provisions of LB 205 permit punishment for contempt for failure to comply, regardless of the existence of a good faith attack on the validity of the subpoena, said provisions could be subject to constitutional challenge.

Opinion No. 58

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This is in response to your letters of March 13 and 18, 1981, concerning LB 132. Your question deals specifically with the "classification of municipalities" under sections 26 through 34 of that bill, and whether the "classification" contained therein is in violation of the Nebraska Constitution, Article III, Section 18, which prohibits local or special legislation.

It is first necessary to establish the nature of this "classification" contained in these particular sections of LB 132. The bill itself deals with the formation of an agency by cooperating municipalities to provide various services involving the distribution of water, the generation and transmission of power, and the disposal of sewage. The sections in question basically provide that when any group of municipalities files for the creation of such an organization, if any of these municipalities have received more than 50 percent of their power requirements for any one year during the previous five years from the date of the act from a public power district, electric cooperative corporation, or a rural power district, the Department of Water Resources must then investigate the proposed agency in the interest of the public convenience and welfare, to insure that there is no duplication of services or any conflict or material effect upon the operation of any of the above existing organizations established under Chapter 70, Articles 6, 7 and 8 of the Nebraska Revised Statutes, before approving the proposed organization. These sections also provide that the Nebraska Power Resources Board may be requested to make additional investigations into the matter, and that any final decision of the Department of Water Resources may be appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court. It should also be noted in this regard that section 28 of LB 132 attempts to limit the establishment of these municipal cooperative organizations in any situation where there would be a direct conflict with the operation of any of the existing organizations under Chapter 70, Articles 6, 7 and 8, including any duplication of their facilities or services.

While it is arguable that these sections of LB 132 do establish classifications of a sort, they do not establish any hard and fast categories which automatically prevent a municipality from participating in such a cooperative agency. Rather, these sections merely establish a criterion for a more detailed examination or investigation into the necessity of forming such an organization. All this appears to be a reasonable attempt to avoid unnecessary duplication of services and facilities, and unnecessary competition between existing organizations created by other acts of the Legislature which provide the same services as the proposed organizations. It seems fairly safe to assume that permitting such duplication and competition to occur would not be in the public interest.

The Nebraska Supreme Court in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, ___N.W.2d___(1980), recently dealt with questions of special legislation and in doing so stated as follows:

> "It is competent for the Legislature to classify objects of legislation and if the classification is reasonable and not arbitrary, it is a legitimate exercise of legislative power. [Citations omitted.] The classification must rest upon real differences in situation and circumstances surrounding members of the class relative to the subject of the legislation which renders appropriate its enactment. [Citations omitted.] The power of classification rests with the Legislature and cannot be interfered with by the courts unless it is clearly apparent that the Legislature has by artificial and baseless classification attempted to evade and violate provisions of the Constitution prohibiting local and special legislation. [Citation omitted.] A legislative classification, in order to be valid, must be based upon some reason of public policy, some substantial difference of situation or circumstances, that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the objects to be classified. Classifications for the purpose of legislation must be real and not illusive; they cannot be based on distinctions without a substantial difference. [Citations omitted.] " (Emphasis in original.)Id. at 608, 609.

Id. at 608, 609.

These particular sections of LB 132 do not really establish classifications in the traditional sense, in that there is not a grant of special privilege or immunity to a particular class, but merely the establishment of a criterion for greater scrutiny if and when a municipality which meets certain conditions attempts to participate in the formation of a municipal cooperative agency. However, even if it could be said that these provisions form separate classes of municipalities with differing privileges, it does not appear that a rational basis for this different treatment is lacking in this case, which in turn would result in these particular sections being held unconstitutional.

In another recent case, Aschenbrenner v. Nebraska Public Power District, 206 Neb. 157, ___ N.W.2d ___ (1980), the court in quoting from State ex rel. Meyer v. Knutson, 178 Neb. 375, 379, 133 N.W.2d 577, 581 (1965), stated that:

> Statutes which are reasonably designed to protect the health, morals, and general welfare do not violate the Constitution where the statute operates uniformly on all within a class which is reasonable. This is so even if the statute grants special or exclusive privileges where the primary purpose of the grant is not the private benefit of the grantees but the promotion of the public interest.

Id. at 163.

The differing treatment provided municipalities in sections 26 through 34 of LB 132, as indicated above, appears to be based on a legitimate legislative concern for the prevention of unnecessary duplication of facilities and services, and unnecessary competition between various overlapping public power providers, all of which is in the public interest. In this regard, these particular sections of LB 132 do not appear to establish an impermissible classification and are in our opinion constitutional.
